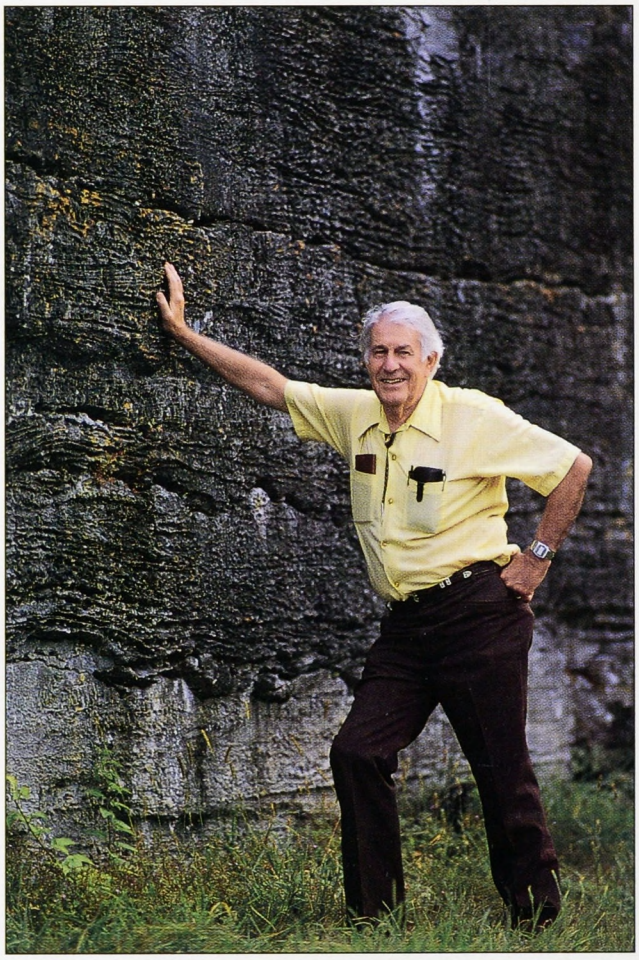
Brew Baldwin, 1919-1992

Brewster Baldwin, professor emeritus of geology and long one of the College's most beloved and respected faculty members, died on July 12, 1992, after a brief illness. Mr. Baldwin — known to all as "Brew" — was a 1941 graduate of Williams who earned his Ph.D. in geology from Columbia. He'd been a member of the Middlebury faculty since 1958. In that time, he built — and then, in the mid '70s, rebuilt — the College's geology department. With several colleagues, he founded the Middlebury environmental studies program, the first of its kind at an American college or university. In recognition of all that, the College's research vessel, recently refurbished with high-tech equipment for exploring Lake Champlain, was christened the R.V. Baldwin. He is survived by his wife, Marie, four children, three grandchildren and two brothers.



At a service for Brew held at St. Mary's Church in Middlebury on September 12, Lucy Harding, associate professor of geology, spoke on behalf of the department and the faculty at large about what Brew had meant to Middlebury. She noted that he had developed "our departmental philosophy that includes cooperation among students, going outdoors to see the rocks, an emphasis on concepts rather than memorization, letting students grope for reasonable interpretations rather than giving them the answers, and going outdoors again to see the rocks."

In 1984, Harding recalled, she was hired as Brew's replacement, as he was nearing retirement. "He had intended on staying in the department for another year to smooth the transition, but ended up staying for eight years in many capacities, including professor emeritus, lab instructor, researcher, and author. ... Brew's last project, nearly complete at the time of his death, was a book on all aspects of geology entitled, 'Rocks Make Sense.' On a visit I made to Brew during his last illness, we talked excitedly about the course we were to have taught together this fall, rather than focusing on his health."

Brew, Harding said, "became, in the words of many, many faculty colleagues, a role model of how to stay young and current throughout your career. He truly thrived on new ideas and change, as evidenced by a memorable Abernethy lecture he gave in 1984 entitled, 'Who likes new ideas?'

"In the fall of 1985, about 50 of Brew's current and former colleagues and students gathered at Bread Loaf to honor Brew on the occasion (so we thought) of his retirement by giving a day-long symposium on their research. These papers were subsequently published in a 392-page volume honoring Brew."

Harding said that the department will honor Brew's memory "by carrying on in the geology department as best we can, following Brew's example," as well as through the use of the R.V. Baldwin, and through the Coney-Baldwin Field Camp Scholarship Fund, the income from which helps Middlebury geology majors who attend geology field courses, "an experience Brew felt was very important.

She closed by quoting from remarks given at Brew's retirement symposium by Peter Coney, a former member of Middlebury's geology faculty: "There are two things I would like to say about Brew. ... Firstly, in all the 22 years that I have known Brew I have never heard him say an unkind or hostile thing about anyone. This is not to say that he always agreed with or liked what people did or said, but he always gave people the benefit of the doubt, tried to reason with them, or tried to discover what honest motives they might have. ... The other thing about Brew which is such a rare quality and so often misunderstood is the child-like exuberance with which he meets life. His first reaction is always positive, hopeful, full of anticipation and excitement and wonder. To those of us who know him well it is always infectious. To some it is always unnerving ... Most of us lose this precious quality of the child under the imagined pressures of career and life. Brew never has, and let him be a reminder of what we have lost and should regain."

To which Harding added, "Thank you, Brew, for all you have given us. We will not forget."

EDITOR'S NOTE

So long, and thanks, to two people who made a difference in the magazine

We're sorry to report that a couple of people who have played important roles in getting this magazine out four times each year won't be around to help anymore. One traveled halfway across the country, the other just down the street, but they'll both be missed here on campus.

Bob Peskin, who had been Middlebury's class secretaries coordinator for the past few years, left for the Twin Cities, where he's hoping to spend more time working as a musician and a music teacher. (However, knowing that he's a baseball nut, it's our guess he'll spend as much time at the Metrodome as he does with a metronome.) Bob's a born coordinator, one of the most organized people you'll ever meet, and when he took on the secretaries job, he quickly whipped the class secretaries (and the magazine editor) into shape, with a lot of help from Dotty McCarty, the class notes editor. Bob, who was once secretary for his Princeton class, made it his goal to see 100 percent of Middlebury's classes represented in each issue. There were, in fact, times when that happened. And he always came close. The systems he set up to make it all happen were comprehensive, and complex; some are still being puzzled over, like recently-unearthed runes, by those he left behind. But under his leadership, more classes were represented in each issue of the magazine than ever before, and we can say without fear of contradiction that Middlebury has by far the most comprehensive class notes of any college magazine.

There was one positive effect of Bob's departure: It gave us a compelling reason to do something we'd been hoping to do for a long time, which is to get Dotty McCarty working fulltime on the magazine. Dotty had previously worked parttime as class notes editor, but with Bob's departure, she's taken on much of the work he did with class secretaries, and so she's now a fulltime employee. To reflect the expanded duties, we've changed her title to Alumni Newsletter editor, since she's responsible for nearly everything that appears in that section of the magazine.

Also leaving this fall, though she's heading no farther than the Marble Works, is Amy Hastings, associate director of development. After more than eight years at the College, including a tour of duty as director of development, Amy has taken a job as vice president and director of development for the Salzburg Seminar. The seminar, now based in Middlebury and run by former College president Olin Robison, periodically brings scholars and policy experts from around the world to Salzburg, Austria, to discuss the issues of the day.

You've never seen Amy's name in the masthead of the magazine, but she has taken a special interest in this and other College publications over the years. One example: Midd Update, a revamped version of an old standard that now appears twice a year in the magazine (including an installment in this issue). It was Amy who articulated the need for bringing back Midd Update, which had once been a stand-alone publication, and who saw the wisdom of including it in the magazine. And she's the one who pulled together the material from all over campus — admissions, career counseling and placement, the alumni and development offices — to make each issue of Update happen. Amy also was one of those most directly responsible for the success of the Campaign for Middlebury, the five-year capital campaign that concluded in 1989, having exceeded its $60 million goal by $20 million.

We'll miss Amy and Bob, both of whom were great magazine boosters. And we wish them all the best in their new endeavors.

Corrections: We have to apologize to Erin Quinn '86, the men's varsity lacrosse coach, for putting some incorrect words in his mouth in the Summer '92 issue. In a story on the men's and women's lacrosse teams, we quoted Quinn as saying that he had inherited a tradition created by previous Middlebury coaches, including "Dennis Donahue." As anyone who follows lacrosse knows, Quinn actually said "Dennis Daly." We're not sure how we turned that into Donahue. Sorry, Erin. Apologies also to Marnie Virden '95, whose name was misspelled in the same article.

Commons system could begin a new set of Middlebury traditions

By John McCardell

Traditions have long given our campus life shape and direction. The rhythms of the academic calendar are to a great extent set, and punctuated, by rituals familiar to generations of Middlebury students: Convocation, Parents' Weekend, Winter Carnival, May Days, Baccalaureate, Commencement. Customs begun somewhere in the distant past—May baskets, step singing, initiation rites—some of them continuing, transmuted, to the present day, constitute an important part of institutional lore. Relics such as freshman beanies or senior T-shirts, the Kaleidoscope, or Gamaliel Painter's cane offer reminders of both the permanence of the College and the meaning of four years spent there. An old history text or a book of Romantic poetry, a dusty senior thesis or a faded lab report, evoke memories of happy days.

Though these and many other Middlebury traditions may seem to have existed forever, there was a time when they did not, and there was a moment when they began. That moment may be hard to identify. Those who started a new tradition may not even have known they were doing so. Yet over the years, new traditions began; old traditions continued, ended, or were modified; and an apparently seamless fabric of memory was woven.

Traditions, then, are not the exclusive property of any single group or generation. They are the best of the past transmitted to the present, adapted as required for present needs, and carried forward into the future. They become traditions only over time. They become lasting traditions only as they continue to give meaning to the lives of the present generation. They endure only if those taking meaning from them are able naturally, not forcibly, to bequeath and to inherit them. What gave meaning to students' lives in 1892, or 1942, may not in every particular be what gives meaning to those lives in 1992 or in 2042. Over such stretches of time, traditions come and go. Some persist; others lapse. But the College goes on.

Students returning to campus this fall have an unusual opportunity to begin a new set of traditions in residential life. The Commons system, which groups several proximate residence halls into clusters of 300 students, has now taken shape. Each Commons (there are five in all) will have a faculty associate (what at Harvard are called masters and at Yale deans) and a group of faculty and staff affiliates. Eventually, each associate will live in a College house on the perimeter of campus; three such houses will be occupied this year.

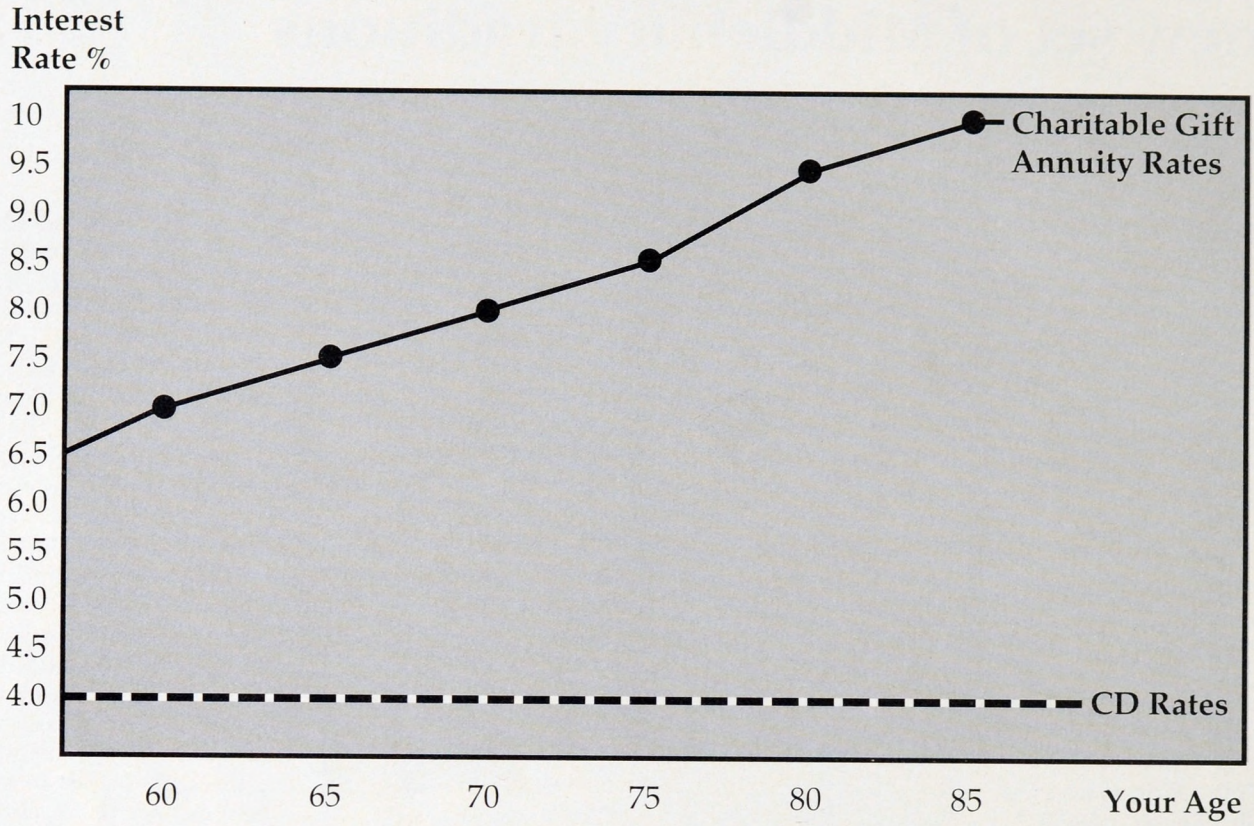
The Commons system seeks to retain much of what was good in past social and residential arrangements: close association with a smaller group of fellow students; a considerable degree of responsibility and accountability for the intellectual, social, political and athletic activities of the residential unit; and eventually, perhaps, dining. Faculty and students will have increased opportunities to associate outside the classroom. Over time, each Commons will take on an identity full of ritualistic trappings — colors, flags, logos, mascots, songs — that will form the happy memories of returning alumni 25 and 50 years hence.

Alongside the Commons system there will continue a group of separate houses, some bearing Greek names, others containing academic interest groups, all co-educational in membership. These may or may not choose to affiliate with a Commons. In either case, the same degree of governance responsibility will be conferred, and the same degree of accountability will be expected.

Many students and faculty have embraced this new system with great enthusiasm. This fall, during Orientation, our Residence Hall Advisors, House Directors, and Junior Counselors have been active in helping plan Commons-based activities. Social and residential life has been enriched.

Thomas Jefferson once observed, "The earth belongs to the living." Balancing as well as we can our best guess of what the future requires of us with what the past has transmitted and the present demands, those of us into whose transitory presence and imperfectly human hands the welfare of the College has been committed, embark upon this new year with a special exhilaration. We are building, in this, our present, upon a strong foundation. We will leave to our successors old traditions lovingly nurtured and, we hope, new traditions caringly begun.

IT PAYS TO BE CHARITABLE



Take the DIRE TEST

(Declining Interest Rate Emergency Test)

- Has your income been affected by declining interest rates?
- Would you be interested in an investment that offered a guaranteed high rate of return?
- Would you consider making a gift to Middlebury that actually increased your income? (refer to above chart)

If you answered yes to any of the above, then call the Gift Planning Team at Middlebury College to discuss establishing a Charitable Gift Annuity.

With a Charitable Gift Annuity you will receive:

- satisfaction of giving
- fixed income for life for up to two beneficiaries
- immediate charitable deduction
- favorably taxed income/a portion can be tax-free

Did the Summer cover photos portray two 'separate but unequal' Commencements?

The Middlebury College Magazine welcomes letters from readers on the contents of the magazine or on topics related to the College. Letters may be edited for conciseness. To be published, letters must be signed, and should be addressed to: The Editor, Middlebury College Magazine, Farrell House, Middlebury, VT 05753.

What's wrong with these pictures?

Editor: The cover of the Summer '92 issue is bound to elicit mixed reactions. Undoubtedly, some readers may write to cast a vote on the new, smaller banner. Hopefully, many more will write to comment on the cover photographs.

The cover, featuring the smiling face of Caroline Leary '92 and the inset photo of Audrey Waters '92, sheds harsh light on the state of affairs of multiculturalism at Middlebury. Perhaps revealing more than was intended, the split-screen images cut to the core of the tensions described inside the magazine ("Students rally for greater diversity," page 11). The photos struck me as a sort of Plessy v. Ferguson for the 1990's — Middlebury's resignation that "legislation is powerless to eradicate racial instincts." Even this metaphor falls short given the relative size of the photographs, which indeed were separate yet unequal.

In addition to the ability to cite Plessy v. Ferguson, I walked away from Middlebury College with a great many things, most far more substantive. Sensitivity to our society's cultural diversity was not among them.

I came to Middlebury after 13 years in a public school system turned upside down by court-ordered desegregation. The approximate racial make up of my high school in 1980: 50 percent African-American, 47 percent white and 3 percent "other" (primarily Asian-American and Latino-American).

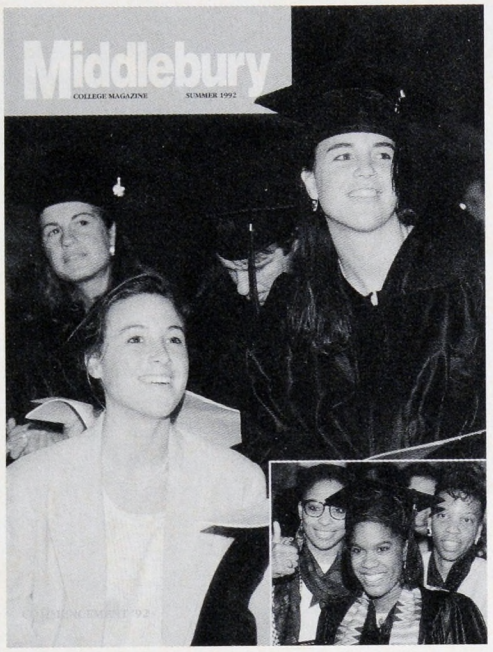
Numbers notwithstanding, there was little in my education to signal genuine integration. Nowhere was this more evident than at my 10-year class reunion. Picture the dance hall scene from West Side Story. Two distinctly separate parties took place over the reunion weekend, albeit without animosity or hostility.

Can the same be said of Middlebury's recent graduation? Based on the photographic evidence alone, I fear the answer must be "yes."

Therefore, I write in support of the sentiments expressed by President McCardell in his state of the college address (Summer '92, page 3). My high school experience was exactly the "exotic fling" McCardell warned against in implementing diversity. Furthermore, upon leaving Middlebury College I was among yet another class of graduates who left "understanding only their own kind."

Admittedly, I offer no solutions, only the heartfelt hope that Middlebury will rise to the no-more-lip-service challenge of the Old Chapel marchers. This achieved, Middlebury will reflect genuine diversity, not a mere photographic contrivance.

GILLIAN GOODMAN SEGAL '84
Denver, Colo.



The cover in question, Summer '92.

The Middlebury College Magazine is a fine publication, always well done. And I bring this apparent inconsistency to your attention because of the difference between the words and the cover picture.

John McCardell's recent speeches have emphasized multiculturalism, a worthwhile focus. The students clearly feel this needs attention also. (See the story in "Around the Hill," Summer '92, headlined "Students rally for greater diversity in student body, faculty, curriculum.")

However, the cover of the Summer issue simply reinforces barriers: One large picture of all white young people, and as an apparent afterthought, an inset of women of color. It seems to me what we're after is diversity, appreciation of differences and real inclusion. The cover seems to reinforce a separate, dominant white culture, rather than a diverse college community.

I'm not criticizing or blaming anyone as this being intentional. I'm explaining the inconsistency that struck me between John McCardell's words, the above words, and the cover photographs.

In the future, you may want to ask some faculty, staff and students of color to look at future issues to hear their thoughts.

BETSY McELVEIN '68
Topsham, Maine

Isn't the cover photograph on the Summer '92 Middlebury College Magazine more than slightly at odds with President McCardell's rhetoric?

Did newly-graduated (Caroline) Leary and (Audrey) Waters attend separate and, apparently, unequal Commencement ceremonies?

Did no males, of any color, graduate at all?

The new president's "Three C's" ("From the President," Summer '92) are laudable, but perhaps an "A" should be added. For accountability. And maybe a "B" as well. For believability.

EARLE W. BOLTON '55

More letters, next page

How much the happier the Commencement '92 cover would be if the proud black and white faces could appear in one photo.

Though we want to think of ourselves as one community, your photo and inset give us away.

LISA EMILY OLSSON '85
Indianapolis, Ind.

Editor's note: During Commencement, photographer Erik Borg '67 shot dozens of slides, and presented us with what he thought were the top eight or 10 images. In our view, the photos of seniors Caroline Leary and Audrey Waters were the two best, and we wanted to use them both on the cover. So while the cover was a compromise of sorts, we didn't think of it as a "photographic contrivance." Truth be told, if we had a concern, it was that both photographs were of women. (Yes, Mr. Bolton, there were some males who graduated this year, as the photos inside the magazine confirm.) Certainly, we didn't anticipate that anyone would apply ruler and calculator to the images to measure "the state of affairs of multiculturalism at Middlebury." In any event, we can't agree with Ms. Segal's conclusion that the cover "sheds harsh light" on that state of affairs. Neither do we think, as Earle Bolton suggests, that the photos portray "separate and, apparently, unequal Commencement ceremonies." The photos, we feel, simply captured the celebrations of two graduates and their families and friends.

KDR a victim of 'libs and nerds'?

A newsworthy item of over a year ago seems to have escaped your attention. I have been searching for some mention of it for several issues.

In a letter dated 18 March 1991, Kappa Delta Rho fraternity revoked the charter of its Alpha chapter at Middlebury rather than accede to the preposterous conditions dictated by the libs and the nerds.

This should be of interest to the many grads who knew and loved Middlebury before the advent of the cult of the Politically Correct.

V.M. WRIGHT '41
St. Simons Island, Ga.

Editor's note: According to KDR sources on campus, while it's true that the national has moved to revoke the local's charter over the issue of coeducation, the final chapter in the story has not yet been written. We hope to have an update in the next issue.

Her eyes have seen 'The Glory'

I was absolutely enthralled to read Marshall Sewell's letter re the Mountain Club in the Winter 1992 issue of the magazine, especially the part about the memorable Lincoln Mountain trip. I, too, was one of the participants, along with Isabel Davies, a classmate. Davie and I shared our army blankets pinned together with giant horse blanket pins, and the spruce or hemlock boughs that constituted our mattress in the three-sided cabin. As Marshall stated, a group of men climbed to the summit in the evening of the day we arrived and shared the beautiful, "mystical, almost religious" experience he described.

In those days, women were "protected" and "supervised" (although I don't recall, as stated in the Autumn '91 issue, that our long underwear and shoes were checked by the school nurse). Consequently, the women were not allowed to "hit the heights" that night, as recent bobcat tracks had been reported by the climbers. So Davie and I hatched our own private plan — to wake early (not too difficult under the sleeping conditions) and secretly climb to the summit, which we did.

Marshall was right. We experienced one of the most memorable moments of my life. We were in the sunshine, above the clouds, which poured like a waterfall between Mts. Lincoln and Ellen. The Adirondacks looked like a string of barges in the distance, their peaks poking through the sea of clouds. The most exciting part of it all was standing on the mountain, with the sun casting our shadows on the clouds below, completely surrounded by a circular rainbow. By the time the others had climbed to the top, the clouds had lifted.

We had no idea what this phenomenon was, but several years later, I read an article in the Readers' Digest describing a plane's shadow in the clouds below, completely surrounded by a rainbow. My next encounter was in a travel book on Hawaii written by Ronald Younger, given me after I had been there. In it was a description of this rare phenomenon, called the Specter of Brocken, taking its name from the Brocken peak in the Harz Mountains of Germany. It has also been seen in the crater of Haleakala and by persons standing on the rim of Molokai's Waikolu Valley, but not by the author of the book.

I wrote about this information to Davie, who sent me a copy of Scientific American, which featured descriptions of various "Lights from the Sky" — a fascinating group: ball lightning, auroras, mirages, the green flash, etc. — including one called "The Glory," which apparently was our beautiful phenomenon. The article said that the first scientific record of "The Glory" was French, in 1735, and that it has been described and explained scientifically by Bryant and Jarmie. It is well beyond my understanding; I majored in "Bug," but never took physics.

On 'compromised intellectual integrity'

I was delighted to read Harry E. Colwell's gracious refutation (Letters, Summer '92) of my observations on the dramatic decline in the character of Middlebury College during the Robison years. I say delighted because Mr. Colwell clearly thinks I formed my opinions on Middlebury in some isolated elk pasture in the Tetons.

During the 1980s, I served as executive officer of the National Defense University in Washington, D.C. In that position I developed an appreciation for the rudiments of sound university administration, many of which I saw being violated at Middlebury. While in D.C., before I retired from the Air Force, I visited Middlebury on several occasions.

The Vermonters I talked to may not have been the "different sort" Mr. Colwell prefers. In fact, many would probably not pass a test for political correctness. Most do not subscribe to The New Yorker. Some even own firearms. All approached me with unsolicited opinions characterizing the Robison administration in terms ranging from "arrogant" to "imperial." I don't doubt that there are people in Middlebury who disagree with my views. But I find it strange that I should be counselled to seek out a "different sort" of Vermonter when the ones I talked to include an elected official, several professional people, a number of alumni who had settled in Addison County and merchants who had a long relationship with the school.

The resignation of President Light, the faculty's ascendancy as the major force in administration, the harsh firing of long-term employees and the disaffection of a significant number of loyal alumni did not occur in a vacuum. Sadly, these symptoms of the College's compromised intellectual integrity and character are the product of the idyllic presidency Mr. Colwell so enthusiastically supports.

BOOK REPORTS

Bay of Arrows

By Jay Parini (English); Henry Holt & Co., New York, N.Y.

In his third novel, Parini weaves together the stories of Christopher Columbus and Christopher Genovese, a troubled, and troubling, professor at a small liberal arts college in Vermont. Genovese, or Geno, is writing a long poem about the explorer. The two narratives merge when Geno receives a "genius" grant and moves his family to the Dominican Republic, to live on a remote inlet called the Bay of Arrows, where natives drove Columbus back to Europe in 1492 with a shower of arrows.

Notes from New Zealand: A Book of Travel and Natural History

By Edward Kanze '78; John Macrae Books, Henry Holt & Co., New York, N.Y.

Edward Kanze, a naturalist and writer, recounts his experiences on three trips to New Zealand, exploring and studying the islands' native flora and fauna, especially its relic species, such as the flightless kiwi, the reptilian tuatara and several kinds of primitive frogs. Figuring prominently in the book, quite coincidentally, is Charlie Daugherty '68, a lecturer in zoology at Victoria University in Wellington. Kanze also describes the modern day New Zealand of prosperous cities and lush farms, and the Maori, the Polynesian people who first occupied the islands.

Senator: A Profile of Bill Bradley in the U.S. Senate

By William Jaspersohn; Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, New York, N.Y.

A book for young readers, this illustrated biography of Bill Bradley is also a story about how the legislative process works in America. Jaspersohn, who lives in Johnson, Vt., begins his story on Bradley at Middlebury's Commencement in 1989, when Bradley received an honorary degree and delivered the Commencement address. The first chapter also includes several color photos from that Commencement ceremony. Of further significance to Middlebury alums, the book was edited by Allyn M. Johnston '84.

Nine Lives

By Dave Margoshes '63; Thistledown Press Ltd., Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

In this collection of nine fiction pieces, poet and storyteller Dave Margoshes takes on the dark and heroic side of human nature, with wry irreverence. The stories showcase the outlandish, bizarre and sublime possibilities generated by the author's fertile imagination, including "Gag!", in which Jesus hires a hack writer to help him with his showbiz comeback, and a story that concerns the founding of a cat ranch outside Calgary.

Rachel Carson: Caring for the Earth

By Elizabeth Ring '44; The Millbrook Press, Brookfield, Conn.

This biography of Rachel Carson for young readers is part of a Millbrook Press series, "Gateway Greens." In the book, Elizabeth Ring Hennefreund tells the story of the author of Silent Spring. That book, published in 1962, detailed the damage caused by the pesticide DDT, and remains one of the seminal works of the American environmental movement.

501 Russian Verbs

By Thomas R. Beyer Jr. (Russian); Barron's Educational Series, Inc., Hauppauge, N.Y.

A book for students and teachers of Russian, or the traveler who needs a comprehensive reference source on Russian verbs. Tom Beyer's book provides an English-Russian and a Russian index providing quick access to more than 1,200 Russian verbs.

Girltalk: All the Stuff Your Sister Never Told You

By Carol Weston, M.A. Spanish '79; Harper Perennial, New York, N.Y.

This is a revised edition of the popular book for teenage girls from the author who has become "an underground 'Dear Abby' " for thousands of teens since the publication of the first edition of Girltalk back in 1985. Touching on subjects such as friendships, relationships and women's health, and topics as difficult as divorce, drugs, date rape and AIDS, the book aims to make the leap from childhood to adulthood a little easier for young women.

Little-Known Mysteries of New England

By Curt Norris '51; Jones River Press, Plymouth, Mass.

Curt Norris, who writes a column for the Patriot Ledger in Quincy, Mass., on "New England Mysteries," has written a book on 10 of the most baffling and least known crimes in New England history. Including such stories as "The Herbert Fuller tragedy: axe murders at sea," and "Murder without death: A Vermont ghost story," the book is the first in a proposed series of anthologies on New England mysteries.

A la Francaise: Correct French for English Speakers

By Marie Gontier Geno, M.A. French '66; University Press of America, Lanham, Md.

This textbook is designed to help English speakers deal with the numerous and common grammatical and lexical difficulties they encounter in their study of French. The grammatical entries emphasize the essential differences between the two languages, while the lexical entries are limited to problems created in translations.

Dawn Patrol

By Donald Everett Axinn '51; Cross-Cultural Communications, Merrick, N.Y.

In this book, new and selected poems by Don Axinn are presented in both English and Italian (the translations are by Nat Scammacca). New poems include "Richard Byrd," about the naval aviator and polar explorer; and "Amelia Earhart," about the pioneering woman flyer who disappeared while attempting a solo circumnavigation of the globe. Axinn, a real estate developer and author, has published four previous books of poetry, and a novel. He received an honorary doctor of letters degree from Middlebury in 1989.

The Stenciling Workbook

By Judith Falby Tuttle '60; Storey Publishing, Pownal, Vt.

This book by Judy Tuttle, a special education coordinator in Burlington, Vt., who has also owned and operated a stencil business, includes step-by-step instructions and patterns for more than 50 stenciling projects, from more ambitious jobs for adults, to simpler ones for small children. Illustrated with color photos, the book also includes information on the latest in stenciling materials.

In Pursuit of the Shard Fortune

By Max Petersen and Alice Brainerd Nelson; Dunmore House, Salisbury, Vt.

Max Petersen, former director of sports information at Middlebury, tells the unusual story of Columbus Smith and Shard Villa, the mansion Smith built in Salisbury, Vt. With the help of the memoirs of Alice Brainerd Nelson (daughter of former Middlebury president Ezra Brainerd), Petersen reconstructs the lives of Smith and his family — a true story that reads like a Victorian novel. Proceeds from the sale of the book go to maintain and restore of the estate.

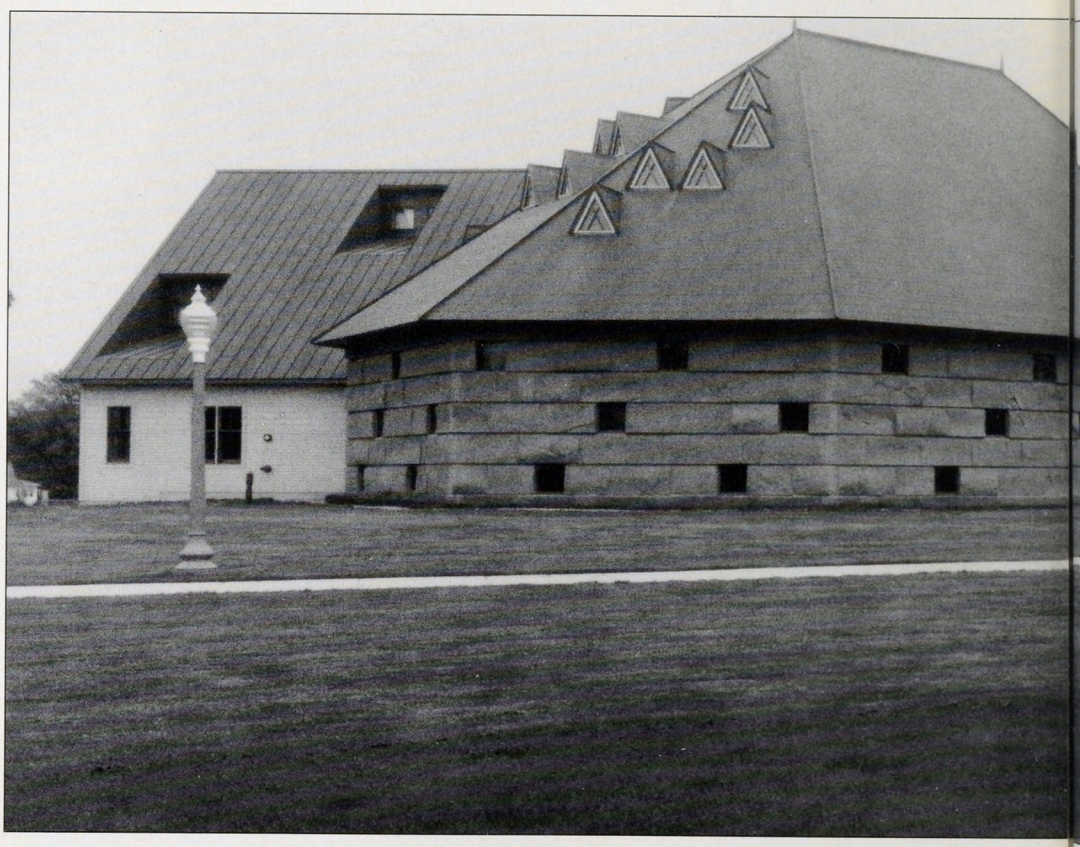
Around THE Hill

The Center for the Arts is open for business



Deborah Smith, the coordinator at the new Middlebury Center for the Arts, tells the story about an "academic fair" held at the center during this year's orientation week, in early September. The freshmen in the crowd walked through the new building and admired it, but seemed to feel, "Oh, okay, this is part of Middlebury College." But the upperclassmen who were on hand, many of whom had never been inside the building, were clearly astonished, walking around with heads tilted up, looking like country folk getting their first look at the big city.

We can understand. To walk through the Center for the Arts, under construction for nearly three years and now open for business, is to feel yourself transported to another place. While the building presents an attractive but relatively unobtrusive front to those passing by on Route 30, once you step inside, you're in a space that is utterly unlike any other on the Middlebury campus. During construction, the building had its fans and its detractors on campus, but since it's been open for inspection, we've yet to find anyone who's seen it who hasn't fallen in love with it.

Perhaps the most stunning space in the new building is the 400-seat concert hall, with a soaring ceiling, small stained glass windows far above the stage, light fixtures that float above the seats (and double as acoustic panels to direct the sound from the stage down to the audience), and a beautiful hardwood railing that you've got to see to believe. There is even a secret door from the stage behind which is stored a huge Steinway grand piano.

But the whole place is like that. We think it was an architect who first said that "God is in the details," and it's certainly true for this building. Around every corner, behind every door, and visible through the hundreds of windows are gems, large and small: A spacious music library, a dance performance space and rehearsal hall, a fully equipped theater, and the new Middlebury Museum of Art — successor to the Johnson Art Gallery — with galleries devoted to showing off the College's Permanent Collection, student work and touring exhibitions. A curving wooden staircase takes visitors from the ground level up to the galleries, and the exit from those galleries — one of which still bears the name Christian A. Johnson — takes them past the new home of the Assyrian Relief, a.k.a. the Ninevah Slab, a huge carved stone that recently returned to Middlebury after being removed from its former home in Munroe and taken to Boston for restoration.

Smith calls the building "an arts village," and the metaphor works, right down to the common areas, which function in much the same way as a village green in a New England town. A sweeping lower lobby that runs vertically from ground level up to the top of the building is home to a computerized box office, and a restaurant, which will be a Viennese coffee shop in the morning, the "Carnegie Deli" at noon, and a refreshment stop at performance times.

In addition to the Museum of Art and the music library, the center is also the new home for the theater/dance/film/video department and the music department, all of whom were finishing their moves into the building's faculty offices as the new academic year began. Behind the building is a semi-circular plaza to be used for open-air events, which, Smith says, easily swallowed up 2,000 people during a Commencement weekend gathering last spring.

The center was designed by Malcolm Holzman of Hardy Holzman Pfieffer Associates, a New York architectural firm. Says Holzman, "We've tried to make a building that would be supportive of activity and life. We've carved windows into every place we could imagine, so you can look into a lot of these rooms and see what's going on."

Describing the new concert hall, Holzman says that "unlike a Broadway theater, this performing arts space provides a stronger sense of intimacy between the performer and the audience. It's really an educational room, where students will feel comfortable giving their recitals."

The "black-box," or experimental, theater space is also an intimate space, and according to Smith will augment, rather than replace, the College's more traditional theater space, in Wright. Wright Theater has a proscenium stage, which is appropriate for many kinds of theater, but the new theater is flexible, so that it can be set up in almost any configuration, to accommodate new forms of theater that wouldn't work as well, or as easily, in Wright.

Hanging above the theater floor is an intricate web of catwalks that supports lights, sound and video equipment. The catwalks are large enough "that you could almost hold a class in lighting up there," Smith says. Beneath the theater is a "trap room," so that the floor of the theater, in part or in whole, can be dropped down an entire story. Just off the theater space is a huge workroom, with a loading dock door and enough space to construct even very large sets and wheel them right through a folding wall into the theater itself. The workroom even includes a three-story slot against one wall for painting backdrops. Also nearby are dressing rooms and a "green room," all constructed and furnished to Actors Equity standards.

Beneath the building is a massive storage space, part of which, Smith says, could eventually be easily converted into a video theater.

In keeping with state and federal regulations, and Middlebury's own commitment, the entire building is accessible to the handicapped, with two elevators, and even a nifty motorized lift to get a wheelchair up a tricky set of steps high in the faculty office section.

The 100,000-square-foot building (that's about 2 1/2 acres of floor space), was built by Pizzagalli Construction of Burlington, Vt., and cost just over $16 million. That's obviously a lot of money, but Smith, for one, thinks that the College will eventually consider the price a bargain, considering the opportunities it offers students and faculty, and the community. College Treasurer David Ginevan notes that the building cost $162 per square foot, which is an extremely competitive price. "We've had a number of architects and builders through the building," Ginevan says, "and they're all impressed with what we have received for the monies spent."

We'll have much more on the arts center — particularly on the effects it will have on the offerings of Middlebury's academic departments — in the Winter issue, when we'll cover the grand opening, to include performances, lectures, exhibitions and other special events. The opening on Homecoming Weekend, October 9-11, will kick off what is being called "The Year of the Arts" at Middlebury. Stay tuned.

In admissions: a 'new' director; a strong class

Geoff Smith '74, acting director of admissions since the summer of '91, became director of admissions this past summer.

A cum laude graduate of Middlebury with a master's in education from the University of Vermont, Smith served as an associate director of admissions at Middlebury from 1986 until 1990, when he began working in the College's development office, concentrating on planned giving. After the retirement in 1991 of long-time admissions director Fred Neuberger '50, Smith returned to the admissions office as acting director.

A year ago, Smith expressed little interest in taking the director's job on a permanent basis, but when President John McCardell offered it this summer, Smith accepted. Still, he says, "I don't feel like a director of admissions yet. Maybe I just have an inflated view of the job. ... I told (President McCardell) when he asked me to take the job on a permanent basis that if, after a couple of years, he doesn't like the way things are going, I'll retreat to Lincoln and he can get someone who really knows what they're doing."

That doesn't seem likely, since it was Smith's performance as acting director over the past year that led the College to decide against a national search and give the job to the person already doing it so well. And it wasn't an easy year to be in admissions. Because of a combination of factors, the student body last fall had grown to a size — more than 2,100 — that was straining the College's facilities. And with the 10-year planning document calling for a reduction to 1,900 students over the next few years, the admissions office was asked to admit a smaller freshman class than usual.

As it happened, Early Decision candidates, who are admitted in the fall, made up a larger than usual percentage of the Class of 1996. "We took the usual number of Early Decision candidates," Smith says, "but because the class is smaller, that number represents 40 percent of the class, rather than the normal 33 percent." That made the decisions in the spring that much harder, he says: "We put a lot of applicants on the waiting list who would have been easy admits in the past."

One of Smith's objectives over the past year was improving Middlebury's performance in attracting academically strong students of color. And one tactic the admissions office tried as part of that effort was spreading out the responsibility for attracting those students. "Rather than having just one or two people involved," Smith says, "we want to spread out the responsibility, and cast a wider net. I think it worked well this past year."

Apparently so. Of the about 575 freshmen in the Class of '96 (475 arrived in September and 100 will arrive in February), 76 are American students of color, representing just over 13 percent of the class. That's the highest percentage in the College's history, and compares to 9 percent last year. (About another 5 percent of the class, Smith says, will be foreign students of color.) Smith feels that the minority students are also an exceptionally able group academically. This is in part because of a subtle change in admissions philosophy. Middlebury actually had about the same number of applications from students of color this year compared to last, and offered about the same number of acceptances, but worked to improve the yield, or the percentage of accepted students who end up coming to Middlebury. The numbers were most striking among African-American students. Middlebury received 82 applications from African-Americans (down from 110 the previous year), accepted 37 (down from 60), but convinced 19 of those students to come to Middlebury, or about the same number as in the Class of '95.

"We worked very hard on the yield this year," Smith says. "so that while we had fewer applications and fewer acceptances, we ended up with a similar number of students."

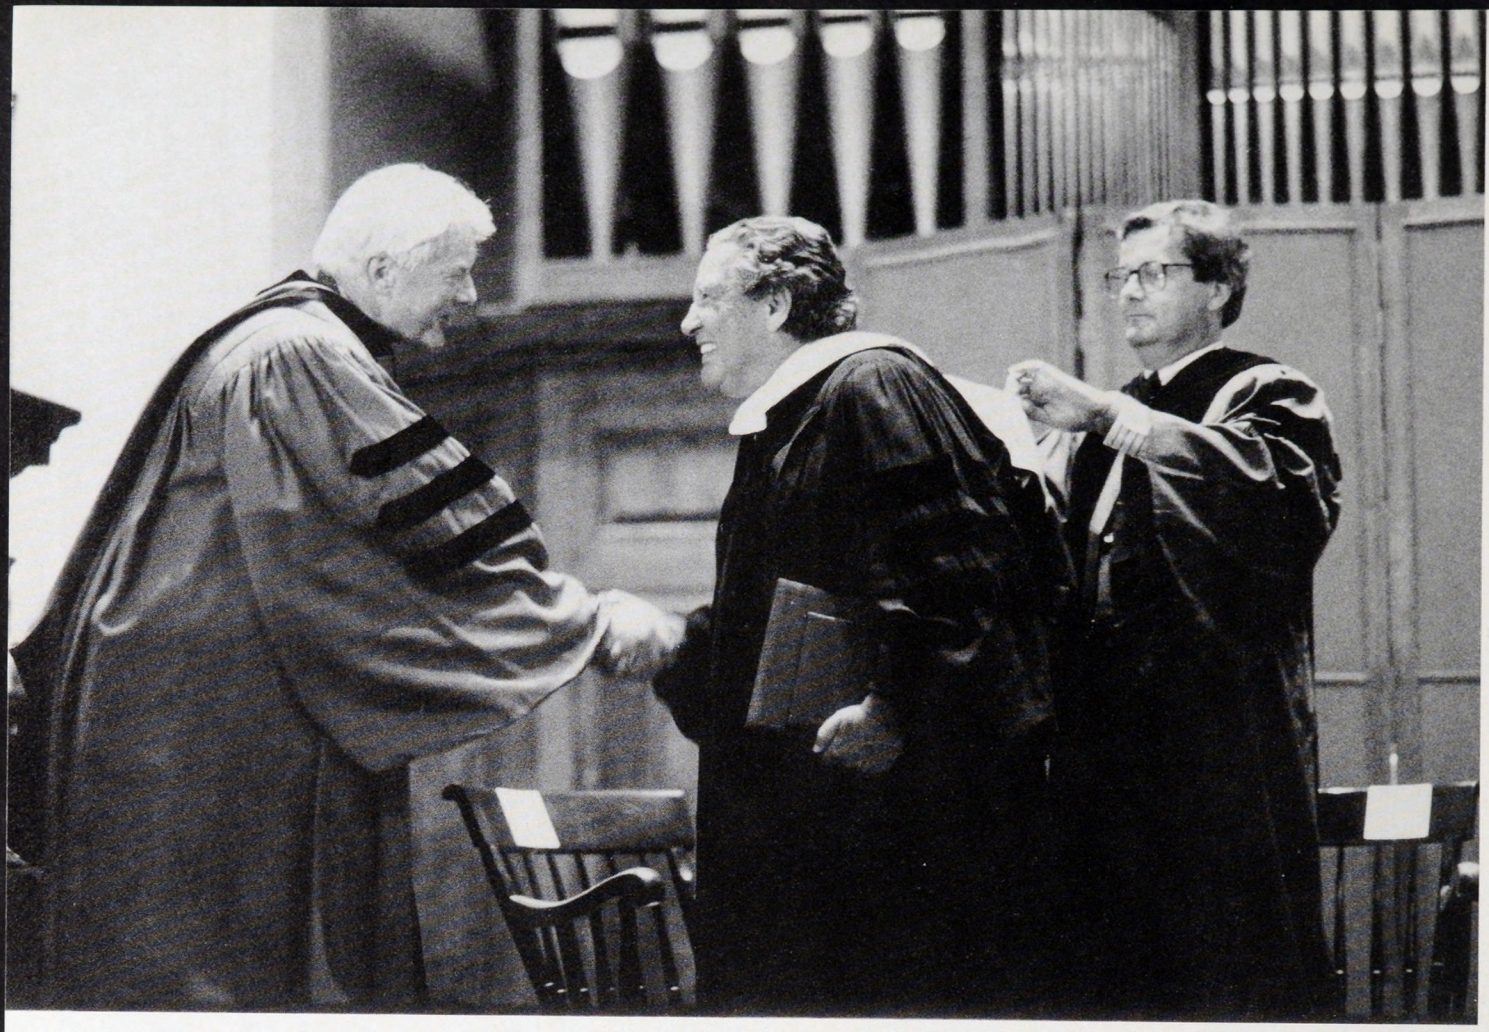
A companion effort to diversify the Middlebury student body, known as the Outreach Program, continues to be wildly successful, with this year's Outreach freshmen representing close to 9 percent of the class. Of 51 students, 44 were in the top 10 percent of their high school classes, and eight were valedictorians. Under the program, the College seeks out academically strong students from small, rural school districts, many of whom are the first generation of their families to attend college, and most of whom could not attend a college like Middlebury without substantial financial aid. Outreach has been directed since its inception by Caroline Donnan '75. Last spring, she saw the first group of her Outreach students graduate. Of the 20 graduates, five were Phi Beta Kappa, and 12 graduated either summa (3), magna (3) or cum laude (6).

The program has been so effective that it became too much work for one person. So this year, Donnan will be taking a break from her Outreach responsibilities to work on special projects in the admissions office, and the program will be coordinated by Smith, with the work spread around a bit in the admissions office. Also helping with follow-up once the Outreach students are on campus will be John Castle '87, who is now working in the dean's office.

That's just part of a larger reorganization instituted by Smith, to deal with what has become a smaller admissions staff in the past few years of lean budgets. An office that once had 10 fulltime people now has eight: Rick Dalton, a former associate director, left the office to pursue consulting work two years ago, and was not replaced; and this fall, James Thompson '87 begins a year's leave of absence for an internship in development and alumni affairs at Dartmouth, sponsored by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. Also, Anya Puri '88 left the office this summer, to take a job as college counselor at the Lawrenceville School in New Jersey. Smith does expect to fill her position. There has been one addition to the staff in the past year: John Hanson joined the office as an associate director. Hanson had been working in student affairs at his alma mater, Dartmouth College, and has also worked at UVM.

After a great summer ("I've gotten letters from people who made the rounds of New England colleges, saying that they had the warmest welcome at Middlebury; and I've had no negative letters, and you usually get a few"), Smith is optimistic about the future, though he knows there are some challenges ahead. One is how to keep up the College's yield with increasingly strong groups of applicants, who often have more choices. Smith says the office is looking into special mailings for accepted students, and open houses on and off campus, to make sure those students know as much as possible about Middlebury, and have a chance to meet faculty, staff and students.

"I think Middlebury has to decide it isn't going to give up on students who we think are also going to get into Ivy League schools," Smith says. "If we can get them to the campus, to see our facilities, to meet our faculty members, I think we have as good a chance as anyone with them."



Octavio Paz, the Nobel-prize winning poet from Mexico, receives an honorary degree from Middlebury at a special ceremony this summer. Presenting Paz with his degree is Nicholas Clifford, vice president for academic affairs. At right is Vice President for Foreign Languages Edward Knox. Paz, who also read 10 poems during the evening ceremony in Mead Chapel, said that he had special memories of Middlebury, which he had last visited as a young teacher in the Spanish School in 1945. It was during that visit that Paz, then a struggling writer, met the poet Robert Frost, at Bread Loaf, and first encountered modern American poetry. That visit to Middlebury, he told a Mead Chapel audience, was 'the end of one part of my life and the beginning of another.' He was so taken by Frost that he later dedicated his first book of poems to the American writer. Paz won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1990.

New faces in administration

The academic year began with several new faces in Middlebury's administration, and several familiar faces taking on new positions.

Two of the newly-appointed administrators are Kirsten Powell of the art department and Ron Liebowitz of geography, and both appointments were based on their work with the committee that prepared Middlebury's 10-year planning document. Powell will serve as the College's dean of planning, and Liebowitz is taking on the job of faculty development associate. In her new job, Powell will be the point person for the implementation of the recommendations in the planning document, which was adopted last spring by the board of trustees. Liebowitz will work with the development office (which encompasses the fundraising, alumni affairs and public affairs offices), looking for ways that the faculty can help that office as it seeks to raise the money that will be needed to carry out the plan's recommendations.

Also new this fall to campus is Leroy Nesbitt Jr. '82, who will serve this year as a special assistant to the president, taking on a variety of duties, chief among them acting as a liaison between the administration and students of color. Nesbitt's appointment was announced last spring by President McCardell in a "state of the College" address (see the Summer '92 issue), which followed several calls from students for increased diversity in the student body, staff, faculty and curriculum. Nesbitt will be on a leave of absence from his job at Howard University in Washington, D.C., where he serves as associate general counsel and an adjunct professor in the Howard law school. A president of the Black Student Union as an undergraduate, Nesbitt has served as chairman of the Middlebury College Alumni Association's Diversity Task Force in Washington since its founding. Said President McCardell: "Leroy Nesbitt's commitment to the College and his longstanding interest in the issues with which we are dealing indicate that he has both the willingness and the ability to help us at Middlebury."

Also in Old Chapel, two Middlebury alums have taken jobs in the student services area. John Castle '87 will be working this year as an assistant to Ann Hanson, the dean of students. And Katherine Follert, also from the Class of '87, has been hired as assistant director of residential life, to give a hand to director Frank Kelley.

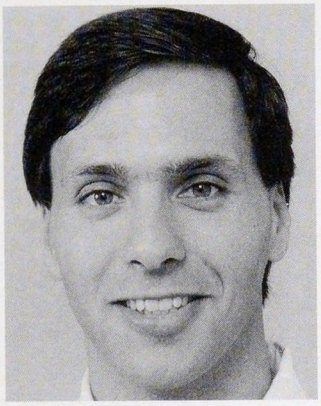
In the development office, Ed Sommers '60 has been hired as director of gift planning. Sommers, who had previously worked in the development office at the College for six years, returns to Middlebury from the University of South Carolina, where he was vice chancellor for development. He had previously served as vice president for development at both Champlain College in Burlington, Vt., and Knox College, and at both schools oversaw successful capital campaigns. At Middlebury, he'll be working with Krissa Bolton, assistant director of gift planning, and gift planning officer Breck Lardner '60. Ed Sommers' wife, Jane, is also an alum, from the Class of '62.

Finally, at the year's first faculty meeting in September, President McCardell announced that Edward Knox, who had previously said he would step down in 1993 as vice president for foreign languages and director of the language schools, had accepted the job of vice president for academic affairs, effective September 1, 1993. Knox will succeed Nicholas Clifford, who will return to the faculty ranks after this academic year. Said President McCardell: "Nick, who selflessly assumed those duties last September at a moment of abrupt transition (following the resignation of Timothy Light and the appointment of John McCardell as acting president) has performed with distinction in this, his second tour of duty as vice president for academic affairs. I am grateful to Nick for his devoted service to the College, and I am looking forward to welcoming Ed to Old Chapel."



Clockwise from above: Leroy Nesbitt Jr. '82, special assistant to the president; Dean of Planning Kirsten Powell; and faculty development associate Ron Liebowitz.

Scott McVay, center, receives an honorary degree from Middlebury during this summer's Language Schools Commencement. At left is President McCardell and at right is Vice President for Foreign Languages Ed Knox. McVay was honored for his work as executive director, since 1976, of the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation. The foundation has long supported language studies in secondary schools. McVay is also a noted naturalist whose specialty is whale research and conservation, on which he has written articles for numerous scientific journals.

Around THE Hill

IN BRIEF

Further honors for the Class of '92

To complete the story on the Class of '92 that began with our Commencement coverage in the Summer issue, we're happy to report that several of those who graduated in May received fellowships for post-graduate studies, and one graduate was honored for her combination of athletic and academic success.

Stacey Fallon '92, an international politics and economics major, received a Watson Fellowship to fund a year of independent study, and will spend that year in the former Soviet Union, studying the effects of the liberalization and eventual breakup of the union on gymnastics training and competition, in Russia, Byelorussia and Ukraine.

Eva Martin '92, a political science major, received a Fulbright fellowship that will allow her to study philosophy in Munich, Germany.

Jeannette Squires '92, an American literature and civilization major, will spend a Fulbright fellowship year studying at the University of Graz in Austria, and working as a teaching assistant in an Austrian high school.

Jill Johnstone '92, a Northern Studies major, received a hefty three-year National Science Foundation fellowship that will help pay for post-graduate work at the University of British Columbia.

And Erica Nourjian '92, a two-time All-American as a member of Middlebury's alpine ski team, was named this summer as the NCAA Woman of the Year for Vermont, in recognition of her combination of athletic and academic excellence. Last May, Nourjian, a co-captain of the ski team, was presented with the College's Hazeltine-Klavenow Cup, also for combining athletics and academics, and received the award from the Middlebury economics department that goes to the student with the outstanding senior honors thesis. Nourjian won for her work on "Measuring the Gender Wage Gap Under Alternative Compensating Schemes." Nourjian's selection as the Vermont winner puts her in the running for regional and national NCAA honors, to be announced this fall. In recognition of Nourjian's award, the College will receive a $5,000 grant from the NCAA to support women's athletics.

During last spring's senior awards presentation, Erica Nourjian '92 receives the economics award for best thesis from Professor Richard Cornwall.

Finally, looking ahead to this year's graduating class, Taylor Fravel '93 has received a Truman Scholarship, a $30,000 award given annually by the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation to students who have excelled in academics and who are committed to careers in public service. Fravel, a joint major in history and Chinese, was one of 77 students chosen nationwide from among more than 1,400 applicants.

Bob Pack's 20th

This summer, Robert Pack, poet and professor of English at Middlebury, celebrated his 20th year as director of the Bread Loaf Writers' Conference. To mark those two decades, Pack gave a talk to open this summer's session, entitled, "Taking Dominion Over the Wilderness." In the talk he surveyed humankind's ambivalent relationship with the natural world, beginning with the Book of Genesis and leading to the visions of the Earth, and its fragile health, in contemporary literature. The talk set the tone for this year's Writers' Conference, which emphasized writing on the natural world, and humanity's connections with that world. The author of numerous books of poetry, Pack's most recent book is a collection of essays, The Long View: Essays on the Discipline of Hope and Poetic Craft, published by the University of Massachusetts Press earlier this year. Pack, incidentally, was honored late last year by his alma mater, Dartmouth College. He became one of the first recipients of Dartmouth's Presidential Medal, given to alumni who have demonstrated outstanding leadership and achievement. The award was presented in a ceremony at New York's Lincoln Center last November.

The Safford Collection

Arthur Safford, a Williams graduate who retired to Middlebury some years ago and who is a longtime collector of minerals and gems, has donated a large portion of his collection to the College. Safford, who has audited geology courses at Middlebury, allowed the College to pick many of the best pieces from his collection, amassed over more than 60 years of collecting. Of the about 170 pieces, 40 or so will be part of a rotating display in cases on the first floor of the Science Center.

FACULTY NOTES

About 30 Middlebury faculty members will spend part or all of this academic year doing research all over the world. In many cases, faculty have received fellowships and grants to support their work; some faculty receive help from the College to augment those grants, and others receive full support from the College.

The faculty members granted full year leaves of absence for 1992-93:

Alicia Andreu (Spanish), who will research "Latin American Testimonial Literature"; Cynthia Atherton (art), who will continue her research on the sculpture of medieval Rajasthan; Lynne Baker (philosophy), who will continue her work on "Belief in Explanation: Practice as a Base for Theory"; David Bumbeck (art), who will work on sculptures; Penny Campbell (dance), who will undertake a performing and teaching tour to present work in performance improvisation; Stephen Donadio (American literature), who will work on a manuscript entitled "Awakened Power: The American Imagination from Pearl Harbor to the Kennedy Inauguration"; Marjorie Lamberti (history), who will research "Education in Germany, 1890-1933"; David Elbert (geology), who will study the fractal geometry of grain boundary fluid metamorphic rocks; Honoree Fleming (chemistry), who will research regulatory functions of estradial butyrate in human endometrial cells; James Larrabee (chemistry), who will work on an infrared and near-infrared magnetic circular dichroism study of cobalt-substituted hemocyanins; Robert Martin (mathematics and computer science), who will work on assembly language programming for the IBM RISC/6000 computer; Richard Wolfson (physics), who will continue his research on solar physics and also work on science and public policy; Terry Hummer (English), who will spend the year as poet in residence at the University of Oregon, work on a book on John Gardner, and write poetry; John Norman (teacher education), who will work on a variety of projects; David Rosenberg (political science), who will work on "Responding to Global Warming"; Kathleen Skubikowski (English), who will research the impact of computer technology on writing; Ugo Skubikowski (Italian), who will examine "Italy at the Threshold of the 21st Century"; George Todd (music), who will work on compositions and software orchestration; and Marc Witkin (classics), who will research "Thucydides' Argument with Homer."

Other faculty will be spending portions of the year in research:

Julia Alvarez (English) will be working on a new book of poems; Hunt Ewell (psychology) will work on a variety of projects; Robert Ferm (religion) will research "Atonement in American Religious Thought"; Thomas Huber (German) will investigate sources in the former German Democratic Republic relating to his study on "The Theory of Translation in the Age of German Enlightenment"; Christopher Klyza (political science) will look at "Patterns of Public Lands Policy"; Jen-Mei Ma (art and Chinese) will examine "Art in the Chinese Language"; David Macey (history) will concentrate on "The Implementation and Impact of the Stolypin Agrarian Reforms in Russia, 1906-1916"; Nancy O'Connor (French) will work on a critical edition of De l'Education; Michael Olinick (mathematics) will examine "Mathematical Modeling with Delay Differential Equations, Computer Simulation, and Dynamic Programming"; David Price (English) will study 20th Century poetry which invokes or represents dreaming or the dream state; and Katherine Sonderegger (religion) will continue her research on the Trinity.

Sailing to silver

Kevin Mahaney '84 and crew wrapped up an eight-year quest with a medal at the Barcelona Olympics

By Tim Etchells '74
Photos by Daniel Forster/Stock Newport

Hey, forget "The Dream Team." Let's talk about what some folks at the Summer Olympics were calling "The Forgotten Team." You didn't see a second of them on television. Not in the 100-plus hours of free coverage. Not even on the infamous and seemingly endless "Triplecast." But while "The Dream Team" won just one medal in Barcelona, "The Forgotten Team" won nine: a gold, six silver and two bronze.

Just who were the members of "The Forgotten Team"? America's sailors, who dominated the competition as thoroughly as any team at the Games. And one of them was Kevin Mahaney '84 of Bangor, Maine.

Kevin Mahaney's Olympic dreams began while he was still a student at Middlebury, back in the early '80s, and decided to get serious about sailing. He bought a Soling, a 27-foot keelboat that is one of the classes sailed in the Summer Olympics, and began learning. Nearly 10 years later, the payoff came in the Mediterranean off Barcelona: An Olympic silver medal for Mahaney and his crew.

In sailing, as in most sports, experience is what counts, the total hours spent on the water. Those at the highest level are, almost without exception, those who have been steering sailboats in races almost since infancy. It's the rare individual who can pick up the sport as late in life as college and learn enough to compete with the elite.

But that's the task Mahaney set for himself, in much the same way that he decided, while at Middlebury, that he was going to be a top-flight goaltender for the lacrosse team. He dedicated himself to becoming the best goalie he could be, and ended his career as an All-American, and a captain of an ECAC championship team.

There was nothing easy about that, but becoming a world class sailor was tougher, and far more expensive, both in terms of cash and time. Between 1984 and the Olympic trials in 1988, Mahaney — sometimes sailing with Cliff Nelson '84 as a member of his crew — spent thousands of hours on the water, and tens of thousands of dollars, travelling all over the country and the world. While Mahaney had plenty of success — with Nelson as crew, he won the Soling North Americans, to name just one title — his Olympic goal eluded him in '88: He finished eighth in the Soling Olympic trials.

Between 1988 and this year, Mahaney worked even harder at his sailing, and spent even more of his money. He now figures that he's spent a quarter of a million dollars on his Olympic dream over the past eight years. And in the four years between '88 and Barcelona, his Soling campaign has cost close to $500,000 — including his money and that of various sponsors — making it the most ambitious Olympic sailing campaign ever.

Complicating that effort was a change in the rules for the Olympic competition in Solings for the '92 Games. Instead of awarding medals based simply on fleet racing — boat for boat against the field, with the lowest point total winning — the Olympic competitors would sail a series of fleet races, with the top six boats advancing to a series of match races, like those sailed in the America's Cup. Match racing and fleet racing have much in common — the boat that is sailed the fastest will usually win — but differ in important ways. The start, for example, becomes even more important, and starting strategy far more complex.

During the run-up to the Games, Mahaney and his Soling crew — Jim Brady of Annapolis, Md., and Doug Kern of Houston, Texas — learned enough about match racing to make them just about everyone's favorites for the gold in Barcelona. They won the Soling world match racing championships. But to get their ticket punched for Barcelona, they had to win The Big One, the U.S. Olympic trials. And they did, by winning the eight-race fleet racing portion and beating Jeff Madrigali of San Francisco, 5-2, in the two-boat match racing finals.

Just before the Games, the team won the Kiel Week competition in the Soling, in the waters off Kiel, Germany. They then won a match racing series, called the Corum Cup, among the winners of the various classes that participated at Kiel. Then "Team Exxon" sailed in a week-long match racing series in 34-footers, called the BMW Cup, with Dennis Conner. Conner is a sailing legend, twice the winner, and once the loser, of the America's Cup. With Conner, Mahaney and crew also won the BMW Cup.

The team then finished third in the SPA Regatta in Holland, winning the fleet competition handily, and compiling the best overall record, 9-2, in the match racing that followed. They were upset in the semifinals, 2-0, by Lawrie Smith and his team from England; England went on to beat Denmark for the title, with Mahaney defeating Germany 2-0 in the contest for third. Immediately before the Games, in Barcelona, Danka, one of Mahaney's sponsors, made it possible for him to bring some of the top match racing sailors in the world to Spain for a warm-up series, called the Danka Match Racing Clinic.

By this time, Mahaney and crew were using the name "Team Exxon," in recognition of their major sponsor. They'd also acquired several other backers — Nautica, Dexter, Sebago and the aforementioned Danka, to name a few. The team even had its own personal sailing coach, Ed Baird, from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., one of the best one-design sailors in the country. In regattas leading up to the Games, Mahaney's team sailed a boat with the Exxon logo on the spinnaker and the hull. The graphics were a bit too overtly commercial for the Olympics, but Mahaney believes that corporate sponsorships and big-ticket, relatively long-term sailing campaigns are the future of the Games. You're better able to appreciate why when you learn that a full-on, race-ready Soling, with sails, can set you back $45,000. Or that a week on the road for "Team Exxon" can cost $2,000. "This is the direction it's going," Mahaney says. "You can't afford to do it alone anymore, at least not at the world-class level. You just can't afford to spend the time necessary unless you have the sponsors."

In Barcelona, all the preparation, and all the hustling, paid off with the silver medal. Mahaney and crew took first in the fleet racing portion of the Olympic regatta, winning two of the races, and locking up the victory after five races, so that they didn't need to sail the sixth.

Following the fleet racing, the top six boats — the U.S., Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Great Britain and Spain — began a match racing round robin. Mahaney finished first in the round robin, at 4-1, and so got to choose his semifinal opponent. He chose to sail against Great Britain and Lawrie Smith, who had so recently beaten the U.S. team in Holland. This time, Mahaney and crew won the best-of-three match, 2-0. Denmark defeated Germany in the other semifinal, and so it was the Americans vs. the Danes in the gold medal round. (Great Britain defeated Germany for the bronze medal.)

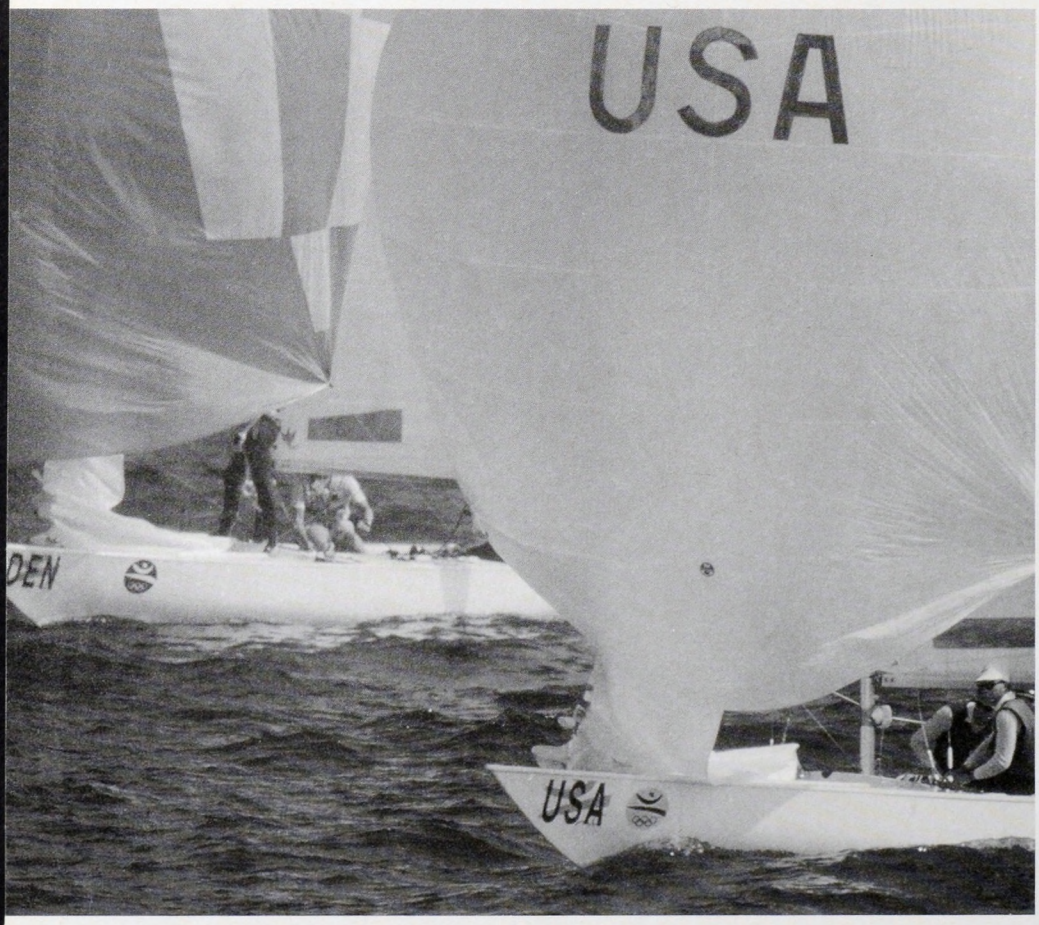
Unfortunately, against Denmark and '88 Soling bronze medalist Jesper Bank, it was two races and out for Mahaney and crew. The conditions were less than ideal — a dying breeze and a substantial four-foot chop — not perfect weather for a team known for its dominance in a blow. In race number one, Mahaney and crew had a healthy lead, but as the breeze died on the final leg, they couldn't maintain their cover. "We were well ahead when we sailed into a hole," Mahaney says. "They just got into a different breeze and sailed around us." In race two, the race was over almost before it began. "We fouled them at the start and had to do a 270 (the boat guilty of a foul has to make a three-quarter turn — 270 degrees — before proceeding), and in the light air, that just gave them an insurmountable lead."

But no one was talking disappointment after the races. The Olympic experience was what you heard about. "This will be hard to top," said crew member Doug Kern. "I'll go back to Austin and my life there, but I'm certainly changed by this Olympic experience." Said Mahaney, "Our sights were set on gold, but there is the bigger picture, of being an Olympic medalist among the finest sailors in the world."

Mahaney says the Barcelona experience was different from other recent Olympic regattas. "The thing was that the Olympic Village was actually built around the harbor," he says. "From the breakwater right outside your apartment, even from a lot of the apartment windows, you could see the race courses. It was a different feeling from other Olympics, where the sailing was sometimes a 10-hour drive from the Olympic Village. It was great having everyone right there, having dinner with athletes from other sports. One night, I had dinner with Jim Courier (the tennis player, who had a much less enjoyable Olympics, on the court, than Mahaney had on the water). It was really great fun.

"Village life was really a lot like college life: living together, eating together in the dining hall, going to the post office. It was like going back to a glorified college. But with no homework."

Below: Close quarter racing against Denmark during the gold-medal finals. Facing page: Mahaney and crew get set for a gybe.



The medal ceremony for the sailing events was pretty grand, too. The medals for all 10 sailing classes were presented at one ceremony, held on a floating dock in the Olympic harbor, with a big-screen TV for spectators, a fireworks display, and the king and queen of Spain on hand. "It was probably the most extravagant medals ceremony at the Games," Mahaney says.

At that ceremony, American sailors received the aforementioned nine medals, and that, combined with the fact that there was not a second of live sailing action on U.S. television, prompted the nickname "The Forgotten Team." Mahaney, however, did make it onto the tube, when he and friend and fellow Soling competitor Prince Felipe of Spain were interviewed one Olympic morning by Dick Enberg, after Mahaney and crew had already secured their silver medal.

As Mahaney's road to Barcelona illustrates, the top sailors at the Olympics were not exactly the pure amateurs ("Corinthian" sailors, in yacht-speak) of days gone by. And perhaps for that reason, Mahaney had no trouble with "The Dream Team" at the Olympics. "I thought it was great to have the NBA players at the Games," he says. "They're our best. You don't see anyone complaining about an Ingemar Stenmark (a Swedish alpine skier) or a Matti Nykaenen (a Finnish ski jumper) competing in the Winter Olympics. And yet they're both paid millions to do their sports."

Most of Mahaney's family was at the Games — including his wife, Sarah Ondaatje-Mahaney '85, and their two sons, Christopher, 3 1/2, and Chandler, 2. And his mother actually chartered a good-sized yacht so that she could go out and watch the races on the water. So he wasn't terribly disappointed at the lack of TV coverage, though he heard that some friends back home were. He did say that in Europe, all of the sailing was broadcast live; in fact, the live TV schedule was one of the reasons that the match racing finals were sailed in less-than-perfect conditions. And he did mention that Sarah's aunt was able to watch the racing live on her TV — in Sri Lanka.

After the emotional highs of the Olympics, Mahaney didn't give himself much time to savor things. Right after the Games, in late August, he was off to the Match Racing World Championships, where he surprised a lot of people by finishing second to New Zealand's Russell Coutts. Then it was on to Japan, where he sailed as tactician aboard an America's Cup class boat in the Merit Cup, off Tokyo.

Despite all the success of the past few years — in the Soling and in other classes, including Stars, J-24s and J-35s — and despite the terrific memories of the Games, Mahaney has no intention of mounting another challenge for 1996, when the Olympics celebrate their centennial year in Atlanta.

"I won't be trying again," Mahaney says. "The commitment that it takes just isn't worth the sacrifice you have to make in terms of your family. It's been non-stop for the past four years, actually for the last eight years. During the last year leading up to the Olympics, I was probably gone three weeks out of four."

In fact, Mahaney has no plans to do any competitive sailing in the future, with the possible exception of some professional stints on vacations: "If the owner of a 50-footer (a newly-popular class of ocean racers) calls and can meet my price — $500 a day plus expenses — then maybe I can convince Sarah that it's worth it to go."

He'll regret not seeing more of "all the friends I've made over the past decade. It's like leaving college. You work together for four years, and then you have a sort of empty feeling when it's all over."

For now, it's back to work at the Erin Companies, the real estate and development company in Bangor which he serves as vice president for finance; an economics major at Middlebury, Mahaney also received an M.B.A. in 1987 from the University of Chicago. "Even with all the sailing," he says, "I've been busy rewriting all of our loans at lower rates as interest rates fall." He'll also have a chance to get better acquainted with his two sons, both of whom were born during the all-out campaign for Barcelona.

"It's hard," Mahaney says, "to have reached such a high level, to be one of the best in the world, and to just walk away. But it's something that was there to do, and we accomplished it. And now it's time to move on."

All in a summer's day

Between classes, hours of preparation and a pledge to speak no English, Middlebury language school students find that summer, while rewarding, is no day at the beach

The Russian School presentation of Gogol's 'The Marriage' was one of the extracurricular opportunities for students this summer.

For most college students, summer is time to see the family, catch up with old friends and make some money. Most importantly, for most students, summer represents a break from the pressures of the regular academic year.

That's not the case, however, for the seemingly insatiable students attending Middlebury's Language Schools, who fill the College's dorms during the summer months. For seven to nine weeks, these students, many of whom are Middlebury undergraduates, take part in one of the most rigorous and challenging language programs in the world.

To get a better idea of just what it's like for these folks during their time at Middlebury, I followed some Russian School students through a few typical days. I speak only two or three words of Russian, so to keep the students from breaking Middlebury's language pledge (the promise that all summer school students at Middlebury take to avoid English at all costs), I asked the students if I could follow them and write down what I saw, while they basically ignored me. Thus, I became for a time the wallflower of the Russian School.

Despite a typically long night of studying, Russian students arise early, since classes begin at 8 a.m. All of the Russian School meals are served in Freeman, one of the SDU's. Breakfast begins at 7, and it was apparent that Russian students believe the old saw about breakfast being the most important meal of the day. There's quite a crowd. I suppose it's essential to get plenty of nourishment — and lots of caffeine — into one's system to get through the grueling day that lies ahead. Of course, the students must order their food in Russian. Fortunately, or unfortunately, depending on your experience with Russian food, the Middlebury dining services do not provide traditional Russian fare. This is the only thing that stands between the Russian School experience and what might go on at a Russian university. When my student guide — I'll call her KT, because she doesn't want to be named in the article — and I sit down at a table of sleepy-looking students, she explains to them, in Russian of course, what I'm up to. Some attempted the daring feat of teaching me some words of Russian. But many of the students in Freeman that morning seem to be studying hard. To ensure that students get to their first class on time, breakfast at Freeman ends at 7:50.

So, after wolfing down some cornflakes and coffee, KT and I are off to the Science Center for the day's first class.

A Twilight Hall classroom, above, was where you could find third-year students most mornings of the summer. Below, vocabulary lessons could sometimes get ugly, when the topic was food.

For Russian School 'amateur night,' students could let down their hair a bit, and kick up their heels.

Because all but one of the Russian professors are natives of the former Soviet Union, the teaching is high quality. From 8 to 10 in the morning is a drill session. This means two solid hours of grammar, vocabulary and speaking exercises. KT is a third-year Russian student, and these students are broken up into small groups of six to eight, to ensure that everyone gets individual attention. Our group is taught by Larisa Ratnikova. The drills emphasize student participation. Based on one's participation in class and the quality of one's homework that day, each pupil receives a daily grade. These two hours seemed to be the most intense of the day.

At 10, there is a general switch of classes, and KT and I roam down to Twilight Auditorium for another class, with the same six students. There, the class devotes an hour to discussion. Each student has two thick notebooks for this class, which contain fairly recent clippings from Russian newspapers, mostly about politics and economics. Students read one or two articles per night, and then discuss them in class. The same six students remain together throughout the nine week session for undergrad Russian students, but they are taught by a different professor each week, to ensure a varied teaching style and a comprehensive understanding of the Russian language and culture. This week's class is taught by Professor Maksim Shrayer. The students seem to be particularly interested in this class, as it has to do with real life in the former Soviet Union, in which many of the students will be spending all or part of next year.

I'm surprised at the amount of discussion about the readings, which seems to suggest a pretty thorough understanding. Economics is not usually one of the most exciting topics (at least not for most English majors!), and I figured it would be doubly difficult in another alphabet and language. But that may just be a reflection of my own biases.

Next, it's on to the lecture period. The six of us remain in Twilight Auditorium, but the room fills up with other third-year students. From 11:15 to 12:15, we're back in the world of Russian grammar. In this class, students listen intently and scrawl notes furiously as Professor Dina Dukach lectures in a particularly fiery and exciting style. Dukach is one of KT's favorite professors.

This is the end of classes for the day, and while it's just over four hours, the class schedule seems plenty rigorous to me. And more pressure is added each Friday, in the form of an exam, primarily on vocabulary and grammar, but also on the readings from that week.

After the lecture, it's back to Freeman for lunch and a little relaxation. This time, there is much more talk and laughter, since some of the pressure has been taken off and classes are done. We sit with pretty much the same group of friends who again attempt, futilely, to teach me bits of Russian. It's now after noon, and I have yet to hear a word of English, which is both surprising, and pleasing. It shows how dedicated these students are to learning the language, and how willing they are to go to any lengths to learn it. Also eating lunch at Freeman are many of the professors, who seem to be there more just to interact with the students than to make sure everyone is observing "the pledge."

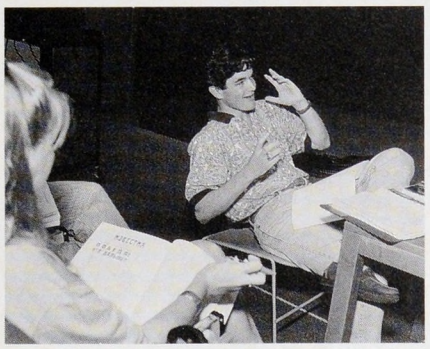
After lunch, I follow KT and friends back to Gifford, where all of the Russian students live. KT has a single room, since Gifford is mostly singles. This limits socializing — and the possibility of English being spoken. As I walk down the hall with KT, I notice that the dorm seems strangely quiet. I wonder why, until I realize that it's the lack of music. During the regular academic year, loud rock music can be heard in any dorm, at any time of day or night. But not during the summer. The pledge, again. It not only forbids speaking English, but also listening to it, whether spoken or sung. And most students don't quickly develop a taste for Russian music, which explains the sounds of silence, except for the occasional classical interlude.

Upon entering KT's room, it becomes clear that it's devoid of any English-language reading material. No magazines, newspapers or books, except those required for her studies. KT is gathering stuff up in her bag, and as I look at her, puzzled, she writes down a word of Russian on a piece of paper, and hands it to me, along with an English/Russian dictionary. After a time, I find that the word means "downtown." So we head down the street, to do some errands: a stop at the grocery store, and at the camera store to get some film developed. KT never really needs to speak any English. She simply gets what she needs, brings it to the cashier, pays, smiles, and that's that. It helps, of course, that the merchants downtown are quite used to this kind of behavior, and willing to go along.

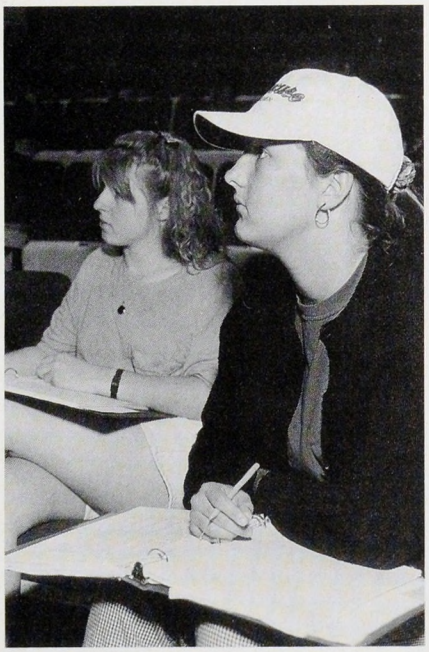
Around 2 p.m., we ride our bikes down to the Fitness Center to exercise and work off some of the stress that I'm sure it's easy to acquire in the demanding atmosphere of Middlebury's total immersion language programs. KT keeps pretty much to herself in the Fitness Center, except when she spies a fellow Russian student, with whom she then carries on a short conversation. When she wants to sign up for time on the exercise bike, she merely points to the bike on the sign-up sheet and the student monitor writes her name and time down. KT nods. Easy enough.

For the rest of the afternoon, KT usually studies or takes a nap until dinner time. She studies in her room and rarely feels the need to study in the isolation of the library, since she does not have a roommate. Music is rarely played, and most of the other students study quietly, as well. On the average, I'm told, the students must study eight hours a day to get good grades.

Dinner is especially crowded, since Freeman is only open for an hour, from 5:15 to 6:15. All books and writing utensils are absent at this meal, and the camaraderie of the students and teachers seems even more evident than at breakfast or lunch. After dinner, from 6:30 to 7:30, there is a quick hour of socializing (in Russian, of course). Then KT changes into some grubby clothes and it's off to a soccer game. The teams, representing all of the schools, must be co-ed, and all of the teams have large and rowdy groups of supporters. Anybody who wants to play in a game can. All of the schools participate in one big tournament that lasts all summer. I had heard rumors about the games, about how fierce and vicious the play can be. And I the game I see — Russian School vs. French School — does nothing to lay those rumors to rest. The team spirit is infectious on both sides. The Russian School (which, by the way, is undefeated at this stage in the season) plays one game each week against another school, and a couple of intra-school scrimmages. In addition to soccer, other extracurricular activities include acting in or working on Russian language dramatic productions, performing at Russian School "amateur night," or singing in the Russian Choir.



Top photo: The Russian Choir performs in Mead Chapel. Above, a discussion in class. Below, students have to concentrate intently, and take notes furiously, to keep up with the professors, nearly all of whom are native speakers of Russian.



After a shower comes — surprise — more studying, and often a movie that one must watch for a class (third year students have lots of required movies). Among the many assignments each night (grammar, reading, vocabulary, etc.) is often a trip to the language lab in Sunderland, which opens early each morning and stays open until about 1 a.m. Students are expected to spend about an hour a night here, which KT definitely does. Students listen to cassette tapes of the articles they've read, or watch videos to hear the language in different contexts. (In addition to the classroom teaching and the language labs, the Russian School offers help for students who are having trouble, with a specific assignment, or in some general area of their studies. There is a teacher who lives in Gifford with the Russian students whose job it is to help students, either one-on-one or in small groups.)

KT generally doesn't get to bed until about 1:30, after many hours of studying. And then it's up at 6 a.m. again, for another day.

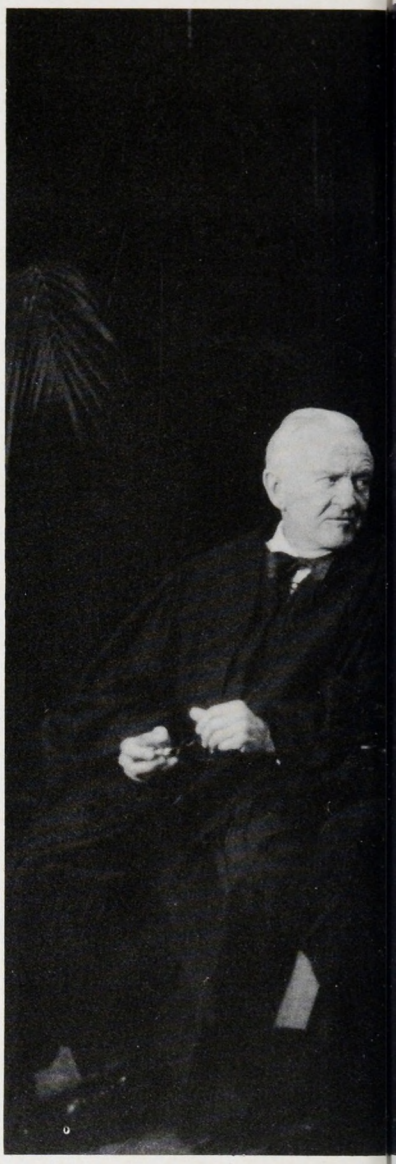
Although the program is hard work and at times a bit trying, KT feels the experience is worth it. Not only did she learn lessons that will be invaluable for her semester this fall at the University of Moscow, but she also met many new people — students and professors. Some of these new friends attend Middlebury, and some are from other schools, or simply have jobs that require the ability to speak Russian. But all of the students share a love for the language, and a dedication to improving their knowledge of it.

Katherine E. Ball, better known as Kebby, is a junior English major from Atlanta, Ga. She, too, spent the summer at Middlebury, working in the Public Affairs office, and writing for the magazine.

The Rehnquist Court revisited

Conservative revolution stalled, or transformed?

By Murray Dry



Three years ago I wrote an essay for this magazine examining how far Chief Justice Rehnquist had moved the Supreme Court "to the right." My findings were mixed: the Court had become more conservative on affirmative action, employment discrimination and abortion, but it remained liberal on free speech. This is a good time to take another look. Despite the replacement of liberal Justices Brennan and Marshall with conservative Justices Souter and Thomas, who were generally seen as providing the votes for a "conservative revolution," last June the Court handed down three liberal decisions supporting individual rights, in the areas of freedom of speech, religion and abortion. The cases merit examination not only to discover why the "turn to the right," which was anticipated in the religion and the abortion cases, did not occur, but also to understand some of the divisions on the Rehnquist Court and their effect on constitutional law. In each case — including the speech case, where the outcome was decided by a 9-0 vote — the Court divided sharply and by a 5-4 vote on an important constitutional issue. In each case, constitutional law, or doctrine, became more complex. I intend to show that while each decision can be defended, in two of the cases the Court could have been more candid in explaining the reasons for the division and the resulting complexity in doctrine.

1. Freedom of Speech: R.A.V. v. St. Paul

In this case, the city of St. Paul prosecuted "R.A.V." (the names of juveniles are withheld for confidentiality) under a Bias Motivated Crime Ordinance for allegedly constructing a crudely made cross and burning it inside the fenced yard of a black family. The authorities apparently chose to prosecute under the ordinance, rather than more specific felony statutes, to highlight the city's condemnation of "hate crimes." The ordinance made it a misdemeanor for anyone to place on public or private property any symbol, such as a burning cross or Nazi swastika, "which one knows or has reasonable grounds to know arouses anger, alarm, or resentment in others on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, or gender. ..." The state district court found the ordinance in violation of the First Amendment, but Minnesota's Supreme Court reversed, upholding the ordinance by interpreting it to reach no more than unprotected expression under the "fighting words" doctrine. According to that doctrine, which originated in the Supreme Court Chaplinsky case in 1942, "fighting words are those which by their very utterance inflict injury or tend to incite an immediate breach of the peace."

The Supreme Court unanimously reversed, holding the ordinance unconstitutional, although the justices divided 5-4 over the rationale. Justice Scalia wrote the court opinion, joined by Justices Rehnquist, Kennedy, Souter, and Thomas, accepting the state's interpretation of the ordinance as limited to "fighting words" but then applying the "content-neutrality" rule to strike it down. The doctrine of "content-neutrality" means that government cannot regulate or prohibit speech or expression on the basis of "its message, its ideas, its subject matter, or its content" (from Police Dept. v. Mosley, 1972). The doctrine is complicated — sometimes it is presented in a narrower version as "viewpoint neutrality" — but it had always been applied to speech that could be indirectly regulated but could not be prohibited. For example, an otherwise legitimate regulation of speech on the basis of time, place, or manner (i.e., no picketing near a school when it is in session) would be invalidated if it discriminated on the basis of the content of the message (i.e., no picketing near a school, except for labor unions). For the first time, the Court majority applied the content neutrality requirement to categories of proscribable speech, such as obscenity or "fighting words." It was now impermissible to pick out certain "fighting words" on the basis of content for punishment. As Justice Scalia put it, if the Bias Motivated Crime ordinance were upheld, "one could hold up a sign saying, for example, that all 'anti-Catholic bigots' are misbegotten; but not that all 'papists' are, for that would insult and provoke 'violence on the basis of religion'."

In his concurring opinion, Justice White criticized the majority for deciding the case on these grounds, since it added unnecessary and problematic complexity to First Amendment law. The decision should have been based on the familiar doctrine of "overbreadth." As Justice White explained, with reference to numerous speech cases after Chaplinsky, the Minnesota Supreme Court had not narrowed the ordinance sufficiently, because it still criminalizes "expressive conduct that causes only hurt feelings, offense, or resentment," which is protected by the First Amendment. Even if petitioner's conduct would have been punishable under a narrowly drawn ordinance, given the importance of freedom of speech, he is permitted to challenge the ordinance in the name of those whose expression is unconstitutionally "chilled." If the majority had formed behind Justice White's "overbreadth" analysis, tighter "hate speech" codes would not have become presumptively unconstitutional, which is the effect of the court opinion.

Perhaps the majority's desire to go after such codes explains the sharp and apparently unnecessary division in this unanimously decided case. On the other hand, Justice White was not clear about what remains of the "fighting words" doctrine in light of the precedents he cited to explain why the ordinance was overbroad. A candid treatment, I think, would have concluded that the Court's 50 years of interpreting "fighting words" had so narrowed that category as to make it indistinguishable from speech which incites to "imminent lawless action," the Brandenburg test. Under such a test, most "hate speech" codes would be unconstitutional.

A final note about the case: Unfortunately the authorities, in choosing to prosecute R.A.V., a juvenile at the time of the incident, under the "hate crimes" ordinance, which was overturned, are precluded from prosecuting him under any law, since he is now an adult. St. Paul and other governmental authorities are left with the task of figuring out whether any form of such an ordinance can pass constitutional muster. Perhaps they should stick to prosecution under laws against terroristic threats, arson, criminal trespass or damage to property, and racially motivated assaults. The governmental message is nonetheless clear and conviction is more certain.

2. Religion: Lee v. Weisman

In this case, four days before her graduation from Nathan Bishop Middle School in Providence, R.I., Deborah Weisman, with her father, sued to prohibit school officials from including a planned invocation and benediction in the ceremony. The federal district court denied the motion for lack of time and the ceremony took place as planned. The school principal, Robert E. Lee, had invited a rabbi to deliver the prayers, supplying him with a pamphlet prepared by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, entitled, "Guidelines for Civil Occasions." The rabbi's 15-line invocation began, "God of the Free, Hope of the Brave," and his equally brief benediction began and ended with expressions of gratitude to "God" and "to You, Lord," respectively. The students and the rest of the assembly stood for the pledge of allegiance and remained standing for at least one of the rabbi's prayers.

After allowing the Weismans to amend their lawsuit, since Deborah was going on to high school where she would be confronted with the same kind of ceremony, the judge held such "non-denominational" prayers to be in violation of the Establishment clause of the First Amendment. ("Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.") The holding was based on the Supreme Court's Lemon test, according to which a government practice must: (1) reflect a clearly secular purpose; (2) have a primary effect which neither advances nor inhibits religion; and (3) avoid excessive government entanglement with religion. The court of appeals, 2-1, agreed with the district court and the Supreme Court affirmed that decision, 5-4, in a court opinion handed down by Justice Kennedy, joined by Justices Souter, Blackmun, O'Connor and Stevens. As the majority saw it, students were required to participate in the religious exercise or absent themselves from their graduation. Justice Scalia dissented, in an opinion joined by Chief Justice Rehnquist and Justices White and Thomas, arguing that tradition supported such a practice and there was no coercion to participate.

The Court had been asked to reconsider the Lemon test and to replace it with a "no coercion" test, which would allow support for religion in general or all religions in the absence of coercion. There was some reason to believe this might happen. Earlier cases — upholding the public display of a creche (Lynch v. Donnelly) and invalidating another creche while upholding a menorah next to a Christmas tree (Allegheny County v. Greater Pittsburgh ACLU) — raised questions about the Lemon test. And while Justice O'Connor joined in the result in those cases, emphasizing a "no endorsement" version of Lemon — the government must not be seen to endorse religion — Justice Kennedy joined those in Allegheny who argued that the "no endorsement" analysis reflected an "unjustified hostility toward religion."

In this case, however, Justice Kennedy rejected any reconsideration of the Lemon test. "The First Amendment's Religion Clauses mean that religious beliefs and religious expression are too precious to be either proscribed or prescribed by the State." In his concurrence, Justice Souter reviewed the framers' deliberations on religion in the First Congress and concluded that the case for "non-preferential" promotion of religion was "not so convincing as to require reconsideration of our settled law." He made two interesting points. First, if the framers had intended to allow "non-preferential" promotion of religion, they could have expressed that intention more clearly by placing the indefinite article (an/a) before religion, not establishment. Second, the concept of "non-preferential" promotion presupposes a clear distinction between sectarian and non-sectarian religious practices, which is not easily made; the rabbi drew on the King James version of Micah for his exhortation to "do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly." (Justice Souter made no reference to the rabbi's omitting "with thy God.")

The majority's argument from the separation principle makes a strong case but it is not by itself sufficient. First, as Justice Scalia points out in dissent, "from our nation's origin, prayer has been a prominent part of governmental ceremonies and proclamations," and it has also been a part of public school graduation ceremonies since 1868. Second, in 1983 the Supreme Court upheld legislative prayers, referring to "the unambiguous and unbroken history of more than 200 years" (Marsh v. Chambers).

The majority and the minority gave different answers to this question: Is prayer at a public school graduation ceremony more like prayer or bible reading in the classrooms, which the Court outlawed in 1962 (Engel v. Vitale) and 1963 (Abington v. Schempp), or is it more like legislative prayer, which the Court upheld in 1983? The different answers reflected different conceptions of coercion. Is "peer pressure" to stand, first for the pledge of allegiance and then for a prayer, unlawful coercion? And even if one stands, does that constitute forced participation in a government-sponsored prayer?

In what I regard as a close call, the majority held that impermissible coercion was involved; students at their high school graduation were in a constitutionally different position from lawmakers as an audience for ceremonial prayer. (Would the decision have been the same if the students had not been asked to stand?) While no one said so, I think the reason the Court decided as it did — and this surmise applies to Justices Kennedy, Souter and O'Connor especially — was out of a concern that a decision the other way would have brought prayer back into the public schools and the courts. The peer pressure argument, which Justice Scalia subjected to impressive criticism in this case, looks a lot stronger when considered in the context of daily classroom prayer.

3. Abortion: Planned Parenthood v. Casey

In this case, which displeased both sides of the abortion controversy, the Court had to pass judgment on five provisions of the Pennsylvania Abortion Control Act of 1982, as amended in 1988 and 1989. Guided by the joint opinion — an unusual practice — of Justices O'Connor, Kennedy and Souter, the Court, with Justices Blackmun and Stevens joining the joint opinion, first affirmed what it called the central holding of Roe, that a woman has a right to abortion prior to viability. Then in considering the act, the joint opinion applied a new test, which allows state regulations if they involve no "undue burden" on the woman's right to choose abortion. Using this test, the Court upheld four of the five provisions: a medical emergency definition, which applied as an exception to other regulations; an informed consent requirement, with 24-hour waiting period; a parental consent requirement for minors; and a record keeping requirement. But it invalidated the the fifth provision, a spousal notification requirement. While they would have overturned Roe, Justices Rehnquist, White, Scalia and Thomas voted with the joint opinion to uphold the four provisions; Justice Blackmun, who authored Roe, would have invalidated every provision, and Justice Stevens would have invalidated every one but the record keeping requirement.

The joint opinion explained that a regulation constitutes an "undue burden" when it "has the purpose or effect of placing a substantial obstacle in the path of a woman seeking an abortion of a non-viable fetus." However, a state may, prior to viability, "enact persuasive measures which favor childbirth over abortion, even if those measures do not favor a health interest," as long as "truthful non-misleading information" is provided. Acknowledging that its "undue burden" test, which Justice O'Connor had argued for in two earlier cases, repudiates two earlier post-Roe abortion decisions (Thornburgh and Akron I), the joint opinion clarifies and confirms the movement away from the entire Roe framework, which the 1989 Webster case signaled. The abortion right remains, up to the point of viability, which Roe took to be at the end of the second trimester but which is now somewhat earlier, between 20 and 24 weeks; the trimester framework is out and the state is given substantial freedom, under the "undue burden" test, to regulate abortion prior to viability, in the interest of furthering childbirth as well as the woman's health.

Justices O'Connor, Kennedy and Souter supported their unusual joint opinion with an argument about the woman's liberty interest (from the 14th Amendment's "no person may be denied life, liberty, or property without due process") and an appeal to stare decisis — standing by what has been decided, or respect for precedent — and its importance for the Court's legitimacy. This combination was said to outweigh "the reservations any of us may have in reaffirming the central holding of Roe." I want to start with the discussion of precedent to show that that question cannot be resolved without considering the merits of the substantive issue.

The precedent controversy involves two issues. First, the dissent ridicules the joint opinion's claim to be following precedent. Chief Justice Rehnquist argues that only the "outer shell" of Roe exists, that it "stands as a sort of Potemkin Village, which may be pointed out to passers-by as a monument to the importance of adhering to precedent." And Justice Scalia calls the appeal "contrived," since he thought "the arbitrary trimester framework" was as central to Roe as "the arbitrary viability test." Granted, "pro-choice" advocates denounced Casey for revising Roe, repudiating earlier post-Roe rulings, and upholding four of Pennsylvania's provisions. But since the fundamental controversy has been over the woman's right to have an abortion prior to viability, the joint opinion — and the Court — must be seen as affirming the essence of Roe, even though it jettisoned the trimester framework.

The second and deeper controversy over precedent is, why follow it, especially when the authors of the joint opinion acknowledge reservations about the original decision? The joint opinion begins with a striking general assertion: "Liberty finds no refuge in a jurisprudence of doubt." As explained, this means that frequent overrulings are unsettling and that major decisions which come under fire should only be overturned for "the most compelling reason," lest they "subvert the Court's legitimacy beyond any serious question." To illustrate, the joint opinion compares the abortion controversy with racial segregation, which the Court upheld in Plessy (1896) and then overturned in Brown (1954), and economic substantive due process, which the Court affirmed in Lochner (1905) and then overturned in West Coast (1937). The abortion controversy resembles these in its magnitude; but where either a change in facts, or in the Court's understanding of the facts, accounted for the reversals in those controversies, no such change has occurred since 1973 to justify Roe's reversal. The dissent argues, on the other hand, that Roe is just like Plessy and Lochner: an incorrect decision, with a dissent which said so at the time.

An argument from legitimacy has an inherent fuzziness about it, however; it straddles the fence between an argument for what is right on the merits and a description of what has simply won out, for whatever reason. (Consider Max Weber's definition — "legitimate, i.e. considered to be legitimate.") As for settling matters once and for all, that was what Chief Justice Taney wanted to do for the slavery controversy in his Dred Scott decision, as Justice Scalia points out in his dissent. According to Justice Scalia, the Court should stick to its lawyerly task of "reading text and discerning our society's traditional understanding of that text," since it gets into trouble when its "pronouncement of constitutional law rests primarily on value judgments."

Apparently, "reading text" is understood to be straightforward and "value-free." Yet in his reading of the Constitution, Justice Scalia interprets a general term such as the due process clause as limited to those specific applications known and discussed at the time the constitutional language was framed and ratified. Surely such an interpretation cannot be described as "factual," or scientific; it needs an argument, just the kind that the Justice places beyond rational discourse in his Casey dissent. Since Justice Scalia has not demonstrated the truth of his assertion regarding the non-rational character of all arguments about liberty or justice, we can now examine the joint opinion's argument in support of the woman's right to an abortion based on the liberty of the due process clause.

That argument begins with a broad conception of autonomy: "At the heart of liberty is the right to define one's own concept of existence, of meaning, of the universe, and of the mystery of human life. Beliefs about these matters could not define the attributes of personhood were they formed under compulsion of the State." Focusing on how this argument is applied specifically to abortion, the opinion states: "The mother who carries a child to full term is subject to anxieties, to physical constraints, to pain that only she must bear. ... Her suffering is too intimate and personal for the State to insist, without more [sic], upon its own vision of the woman's role, however dominant that vision has been in the course of our history and culture."

I think the joint opinion makes a strong case when it focuses on the nature of the deprivation of liberty if a woman is denied the right to choose abortion and forced to carry her pregnancy to term. The general argument from "the woman's role," however, which the joint opinion returns to, seems more appropriate for political rather than judicial resolution. That is because abortion restrictions do not discriminate against women as women, as did laws (no longer valid) preventing women from practicing law or from administering an estate. From the perspective of the concrete liberty involved, however, given the availability of safe and effective abortion procedures prior to viability, it is hard to understand why the government should be permitted to compel a pregnant woman to carry her unwanted pregnancy to term. This is especially so since the Casey Court allows the state to use "less intrusive means" to make its case for childbirth over abortion.

One argument against this position, which Justice Scalia has presented, is that since the question of when life begins cannot be settled scientifically, the Constitution should not bar the states from defining life as beginning at conception. But that argument seems to go too far, in light of our constitutional polity's emphasis on securing individual rights. It would allow states to define the fetus as a legal person, with the consequence that abortion would be (not just could be) prohibited in all cases, including those where pregnancy resulted from rape or incest, save those where the woman's life was threatened (self-defense). The choice of viability as the demarcation for the right to choose abortion has a largely symbolic significance, but it does reflect the fact that if a fetus is "life," it is uniquely "dependent."

At this point we should recall the joint opinion's argument from precedent; if the pros and cons on the liberty issue are roughly even, then the fact that Roe has been constitutional law since 1973 may be said to strengthen the case for not changing it in the decisive respect.

Finally, what is the effect of the Casey decision on the constitutional law doctrine concerning fundamental rights? That doctrine says that if a right is fundamental, as Roe held abortion to be, then any government restriction on that right was subject to "strict scrutiny," which meant that the burden was on the government to demonstrate a "compelling interest" and the absence of alternative means of satisfying that interest. The classification of the right often determines the outcome of a case, since few laws pass such a test, and few non-fundamental rights claims are upheld. The joint opinion's recasting of the controversy between a woman's allegedly fundamental right and the state's allegedly compelling interests (neither "fundamental" nor "compelling" was used in the opinion) can be described in two ways. As applied to rights, it distinguished between a woman's right to choose abortion prior to viability and her right to to be free from any governmental attempt to persuade her to the contrary; as applied to governmental power, it distinguished between the power to prohibit abortion on demand prior to viability and the power to enact regulations aimed at making the case for childbirth.

Conclusion

How, then, do these cases demonstrate the absence of the conservative revolution on the Rehnquist Court today? In each case the Court stood by doctrine or affirmed precedent favoring individual rights claims against government. These results were due, in the two most striking cases, to the jurisprudence of Justices O'Connor, Kennedy and Souter, who were expected to effect the conservative revolution. The decision in the religion case reaffirmed the familiar Lemon test and struck down ceremonial prayer at public school graduations, thus preventing reconsideration of the divisive and constitutionally problematic practice of prayer in the classrooms. In the abortion case the joint opinion undertook the ambitious task of ending the divisiveness over abortion once and for all by allowing states to enact regulations aimed at making the case for childbirth, as long as the woman's right to choose abortion prior to viability is protected. In both cases the argument on the merits — regarding the establishment clause and liberty in the due process clause — was well developed on its own and then buttressed by precedent (Lemon and Roe).

As for the divisions on the Rehnquist Court and their effect on constitutional law, I have two brief observations. First, while the justices are frequently combative in their disagreements, their discussion of the issue is not always completely candid. In the speech case, the Court refused to discuss the viability of Chaplinsky's "fighting words" doctrine, even though no conviction has been upheld on the basis of that doctrine for 50 years; repudiating the doctrine, in contrast to what the Court did, would have sent a clear message to cities and towns — as well as colleges and universities — that hate speech codes cannot be authorized by government. (Middlebury College recently passed a harassment code, which includes a definition of harassment that probably would not pass a First Amendment challenge, but as a private college Middlebury is not bound by federal constitutional law.) In the religion case, the prospect of prayer returning to the classroom if ceremonial prayer at graduation had been allowed was the basis, I believe, for the decision, even though this was never said. Second, constitutional doctrine has become more complex in the areas of freedom of speech and abortion law. In the first case, the extension of "content neutrality" into proscribable categories of speech was unnecessarily complex, and could have been avoided with a full discussion of "fighting words." In the second case, the abortion decision complicates the "fundamental rights" doctrine, but I think that result is defensible, given the difficulties with that doctrine and the manner in which the Casey Court gave recognition to both the woman's right to choose abortion and the state's interest in childbirth.

As for the future, the fact that Chief Justice Rehnquist and Justices Scalia, White and Thomas oppose the abortion and religion decisions so firmly, combined with Justice Blackmun's age (83, which he mentioned in his Casey opinion) signifies that in the short term the character of the Court will be affected by the presidential election. In any case, this Court will continue to reflect a division between justices with an inclination to follow precedents and developments in tradition, even in the service of liberal ends (O'Connor, Kennedy Souter), and justices with an inclination either to restrict judicial review of government action (Rehnquist) or to interpret general legal principles according to specific practices, and hence support an unchanging tradition (Scalia).

While either side can claim the mantle of conservatism, I think the current Court majority, with its respect for precedent and openness to changing applications for ancient principles, such as liberty and due process, offers a sounder interpretation of the Constitution.

A FEW WORDS FROM THE MCAA PRESIDENT

The 1991-92 year was a strong one for MCAA regional chapters, with dozens of events nationwide, ranging from Alumni College to visits by professors and the president of the College, from Tall Ships to parties for incoming students. More important is the wide spectrum of alumni who were involved in planning and attending these events.

This past year was also a year of building, with the resurgence of groups in San Francisco and New York City. The MCAA continues to strengthen the reach of the College across the country.

Most of all, this was a year of planning. The MCAA board formed a Long Range Planning Committee to develop statements outlining the role of alumni as well as principles, goals and recommendations for inclusion in the College's long range plan.

Our role as alumni is summarized by the guiding principles as outlined in the plan:

1. The alumni of the College are valued members of the College family and thus share in both the College's success as well as the responsibilities of supporting and nurturing the institution. These include:

a) increasing alumni activity and involvement;

b) supporting the College in attracting excellent students;

c) supporting current students and alumni through career networks, social events and community service, both on and off campus;

d) supporting the College in its educational mission by encouraging opportunities for extending the reach of the College's academic programs beyond the immediate campus; and, e) supporting the College financially.

2. Alumni of the College are representatives of the College in their own communities and their contributions to the larger society reflect on the College.

As you can see, there are many ways in which we can and do support the College. The MCAA board and the regional chapters are constantly working toward fulfilling these principles, but can only do so with the support of alumni. We encourage you to stay involved in Middlebury, whether through alumni admissions work, career counseling, hosting groups from the College, or organizing local events.

I look forward to hearing from many of you over the next two years.

Ginia V.V. Ziobro '82
President, MCAA Board of Directors

Virginia "Ginia" Van Vranken Ziobro became president of the Middlebury College Alumni Association in July, succeeding William H. Kieffer III '64. Ginia recently moved to Boston, where she and husband Peter await the birth of their first child in November. Alumni who wish to contact Ginia may write to her in care of the Alumni Office, Kirk Alumni Center 6180, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753.

DRUE GENSLER '57 CHALLENGE SUPPORTS WOMEN'S CENTER

Drucilla "Drue" Cortell Gensler '57 has challenged Middlebury alumni to help her and others in the renovation of space on campus for the May Belle Chellis Women's Resource Center.

Drue Gensler has had a passion for women's and girl's issues "for more than two decades," she writes, "since I left my founding role and office management job for Gensler & Associates, Architects, to spend more concentrated time raising four sons ... I went back to school (while still on the board of directors of Gensler & Assoc.), to see what was happening in the behavioral sciences, and studied women's history. Off I went into years of advocacy ... traveling all over this country lobbying and caucusing (all night, many times) and political campaigning."

Drue Cortell Gensler '57

Among the organizations with which Drue Gensler has been associated as a volunteer leader are the Marin Commission on the Status of Women, the ERA Committee for the National Women's Caucus, the Advisory Board of Abused Women Services, and Planned Parenthood. For the past several years, she has also been a major supporter of the Women's Studies program at Middlebury.

Early this year, Drue's commitment to the program took the form of a challenge grant for the renovation of campus space to house the Women's Resource Center. Prompted in part by Drue's gift, the College designated Tilden House (behind Proctor Hall) as the space, and last spring the building was renamed the May Belle Chellis Women's Center in honor of May Belle Chellis, Class of 1886, Middlebury's first woman graduate. The center is envisioned as a place where issues of gender and human relationships will be the focus of discussion and research. The center will house the Alison Fraker '89 Memorial Library.

"I know there are many, many alumnae who will respond with warmth and generosity to women's studies and the center," Drue writes, "IF we let them know about the wonderful plans and extraordinary staff, teachers and students who need our support NOW!"

To begin the renovation of Tilden House, the College requires that $70,000 be raised. As of late summer, $25,000 had been received or pledged. To respond to Drue Gensler's challenge, write or call Mona Meyers Wheatley '56, Development Office, Forest Hall 6121, Middlebury College, Middlebury VT 05753, 802/388-3711, ext. 5194.

ALUMNI BOOK AWARDS REWARD ACHIEVEMENT, PROMOTE MIDD

More and more alumni are sponsoring Alumni Book Awards in their local high schools as a way to promote the College. And those who are doing it recommend it highly. Rick Vomacka '68 recently established an award at Field High School in Brimfield Township, Ohio. "The program is quite easy to implement," he says, "the Admissions Office and College Store are most helpful, the College benefits from the highly favorable publicity, and you derive a warm fuzzy all for yourself!"

To establish a Middlebury Alumni Book Award, contact your local high school and offer to establish the award — on behalf of the alumni of Middlebury College — to honor a student in the junior or senior class who has demonstrated outstanding achievement in one of the liberal arts. Ideally, you should commit to sponsoring the award for several years. In Vomacka's case, he has signed up for five years.

According to Vomacka, "The school is asked to select the recipient according to its own criteria and to provide you with the student's name and field of excellence. You then select as the award a book by someone connected with the College, either one you like or one that fits the student's interest. This year's recipient is particularly fond of Shakespeare, and it seemed a nice touch that we could present a book of prefaces to Shakespeare's plays by John Wilders, John Hamilton Fulton Professor of Humanities at Middlebury and a leading Shakespeare scholar. The Admissions Office furnishes a certificate and bookplate, and you arrange with the school how the presentation will be made."

Another recent Middlebury Alumni Book Award was established by Judy Bosworth Roesset '62 in Austin, Texas.

To find out more about establishing a Middlebury Alumni Book Award in your local high school, write to Carolyn Leggett Perine '73 in the Admissions Office, Emma Willard House, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753, or call 802/388-3711, ext. 5153.

D.C. CHAPTER CELEBRATES 'CHRISTMAS IN APRIL'

On Saturday, April 25, more than 45 Washington, D.C., area alumni (whose graduating classes spanned the period from 1936 to 1991) participated in the Northern Virginia "Christmas in April" project. The Middlebury participants painted Bailey's Crossroads Shelter, a 12-room facility with the capacity to house between 50 and 75 homeless adults.

Christmas in April is a nationwide community service organization that renovates, over the course of a single day, the homes of low-income, elderly and disabled people. The program's mission is to improve the quality of life of the recipients. This year's project was gratifying, so much so that the Washington alumni hope to tackle a more ambitious undertaking — the renovation of two houses — as next year's Christmas in April project.

The Washington, D.C., chapter recently added this community service program to complement the social, cultural and networking activities that the chapter has traditionally offered. In addition to continued Christmas in April involvement, the chapter plans to establish a tutoring program in one of Washington's public high schools. For more information about the activities of the Washington, D.C., Middlebury Chapter, contact Tom Knox '84, care of the Alumni Office.

SCENES FROM A WEEKEND: REUNION '92

Reunions — an annual celebration of Middlebury alumni. From the arrival of the 50th and 25th classes on Thursday afternoon until the last shuttle bus returns from the airport on Sunday evening, alumni spanning nearly 75 years of Middlebury history find themselves reconnecting to the College and to one another. Here, then, is a glimpse of the 1992 chapter of this continuing story. Classes ending in '3s and '8s: Mark your calendars! Reunion '93 takes place May 28-30, 1993. / Photos: Gabriel A. MIDDLEBURY RECEIVES TWO MAJOR BEQUESTS

Middlebury College has received two bequests totalling more than $800,000 from the estates of Ruth A. Hesselgrave '18 and William E. '30 and Ethel L. Henderson.

Ruth Hesselgrave devoted her life to education. She received both her bachelor's and master's degrees in English from Middlebury and a master's degree in English from Yale University. Her distinguished teaching career in Seymour, Conn., and at Warren G. Harding High School in Bridgeport, Conn., spanned 40 years. Following her retirement to Middlebury in 1958, she served as part-time librarian at the College for 13 years.

Miss Hesselgrave was a member and leader of several education and service organizations. In 1973, she was awarded the Alumni Plaque by the Middlebury College Alumni Association for outstanding service to the College.

Miss Hesselgrave's bequest will augment the Alpha Chi Memorial Scholarship for Women, a fund in the permanent endowment of the College. The Alpha Chi Scholarship was established in 1982 by gifts of alumni and friends of the College to commemorate the influence of women at Middlebury during the past 100 years and especially those women who were members of Alpha Chi from 1883 through 1926. Miss Hesselgrave stipulated that the College should provide and maintain a permanent display of memorabilia of Alpha Chi so that the contribution and influence of this organization in the development of women's education during its early years may not be forgotten. The display is installed in Starr Library.

William E. Henderson '30 attended Middlebury for one year and transferred to Columbia University where he earned both bachelor's and master's degrees. He served during World War II in Europe and Africa. He retired in 1968 from the Dime Savings Bank as senior real estate appraiser. Mr. Henderson died in 1987 and Mrs. Henderson died earlier this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson's bequest will establish a scholarship fund in their names in the permanent endowment of the College. Income from the fund will support scholarships for worthy students.

College records indicate that William Henderson had little contact with the College after he left in 1927 following his freshman year. Senior Development Officer Gordie Perine '49 recalls that he often attended alumni events in his area and in Florida where he and his wife would spend the winter months, but the College has no record that he ever returned to the campus.

The Hesselgrave and Henderson bequests represent legacies from two very different Middlebury alumni. In both cases, however, what they have passed on to the College represents a tribute to the education they received and the value they attached to their experiences on the hill. Generations of Middlebury students will be their beneficiaries.

ANNUAL FUND CHAIRS READY FOR A BIG YEAR

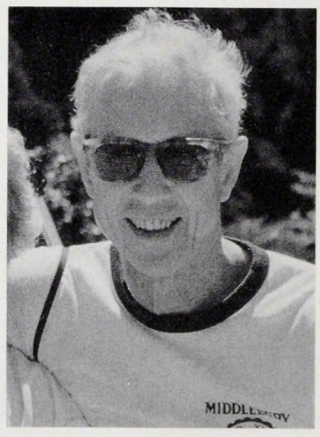
A record number of Middlebury alumni — more than 400 — are volunteering in support of the Annual Fund for the upcoming 1992-93 year. Leading their efforts as co-chairs of the Annual Fund Executive Council are George L. Cady Jr. '72 and Paula A. Hartz '60. Working with them on the council are decade chairs for the '50s through the '90s, as well as reunion and special gifts chairs.

George is the president of his own real estate investment company. Long an active Middlebury volunteer, George has attended New York phonathons since '78 and served as a class agent from '84-'89, when he became leadership gifts chair of the AFEC. He co-chaired his 15th reunion fund drive in '87 and is a past director of the MCAA (1981-85). He became co-chair of AFEC during the 1991-92 Fund year and also participated as a member of the class of '72 20th reunion gift committee.

A freelance writer, Paula has attended numerous alumni events, including Alumni College and New York City Chapter events. She is a regular phonathon volunteer and Alumni Leadership Conference contributor. She was a class agent from '85 to '89, when she became decade chair for the '60s. This will be Paula's first year as AFEC co-chair.

DONATION ESTABLISHES CLASS AGENT AWARD

The Annual Fund Executive Council is pleased to announce the establishment of the Class Agent Award, donated by Sidney G. Kay '50. A class agent for many years and a loyal friend of Middlebury, Sid worked with members of the council to develop a way to recognize annually the outstanding class agent.



Sidney G. Kay '50

"The purpose of the award is to highlight the agent whose performance and service to Middlebury College is exemplary," said Kay. "With such a strong volunteer group from which to choose, the Executive Council will now have the challenging task of selecting the winner."

The Class Agent Award will be presented at Alumni Leadership Conference each year. Names of the recipients will be engraved on a plaque that will be displayed in the College's Alumni Giving Office.

GIFTS THAT GIVE BACK: ALUM HELPS MIDD, AND HERSELF

In 1987, on the occasion of her 35th reunion, Lee McGowan Allison '52 wanted to make a special gift to Middlebury. Since she and her husband, Hugh (Brown '46), were planning for their retirement, she selected a Deferred Charitable Gift Annuity.

Donating 150 shares of appreciated securities valued at more than $11,000, to establish a Deferred Charitable Gift Annuity, Lee elected to defer income for four years and receive quarterly income payments of $217 at a predetermined date. In addition, she reduced her capital gains tax liability and received a charitable tax deduction of almost $6,300.

When Lee's 40th reunion rolled along, she decided once again to take advantage of the many benefits of Charitable Gift Annuities. This time, though, she elected to establish a regular Charitable Gift Annuity in the amount of $5,000 to supplement her Deferred Gift Annuity income. With this gift, she increased her fixed quarterly income payments to $300. Along with receiving a charitable tax deduction of $1,600, a portion of her income qualified as tax free.

Careful gift planning has allowed Lee to donate more than she had originally expected. The combination of Lee's gifts is providing her and her husband an annual fixed income of $1,200 for life. Additionally, she has benefitted from charitable tax deductions, attractive capital gains tax treatment, membership in Middlebury's Gamaliel Painter's Cane Society and, most importantly, the satisfaction of giving to Middlebury in celebration of her reunions. Ultimately, Lee's gifts will support the work of the College through the College's endowment.

For more information about the College's Gift Annuity program and other ways to plan a gift to Middlebury, call or write the Gift Planning Office, Forest Hall, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753, 802/388-3711, ext. 5200.

WHERE TO WRITE FOR INFO ON STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

From the African-American Alliance to WRMC-FM, from the Economics Club to the Mountain Club, the Italian Club to Habitat for Humanity, Hillel to Winter Carnival, student organizations are alive and well at Middlebury. Student organizations are often eager to seek the support and counsel of alumni who may have been members of their organizations or who may have a special interest in their current activities. We hope to make news of student organizations a feature of Midd Update in future issues. In the meanwhile, if you are interested in hearing more from a student organization or if you are willing to lend advice, counsel and support, please write to Cathy Walsh, director of Student Activities, McCullough 6161, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753.

At a new student welcoming party in Lexington, Mass., this summer are, from left, Diane Jepsen and her son David '96, and Orian Greene and her son Ned '96. The party for Boston area students and their parents was hosted by Middlebury parents Gail and Ken Nill.

PARENTS ASSOCIATION SAYS WELCOME TO MIDDLEBURY

During the summer, new students and their parents were welcomed into the Middlebury family at informal get-togethers around the country, all sponsored by the Parents Association Office. Ranging from dessert to pizza to barbecue to pot-luck, these popular gatherings offered new students and parents an opportunity to connect with current students and parents — to ask questions, arrange car pools, and, perhaps most importantly, be reassured that upon arriving on campus, there would already be a few familiar faces.

Locations and hosts for the 1992 parties included: Minnesota, Dale and Richard Jensen P'93 and '90; Los Angeles, Jan Day '41; Colorado, Katie Schiller '89; San Francisco, Judith Starbuck Hannemann '61 and P'93; Boston, Gail and Ken Nill P'95; Washington, D.C., Phoebe-Jane and Beekman Winthrop P'94 and Sherry and Ken Bachman P'94; Chicago, Brenda and Clifford Lenahan P'94 and Connie and Tom Hodson P'93; Houston, Jacqueline and Mark Yeoman P'93; Westchester County NY, Carol and Harry Harwood P'94; Northern New Jersey, Jacqueline and Andres Fontao P'94 and '96.

Parents and alumni interested in helping welcome new students and their parents next summer are encouraged to call the Parents Association Office at the College, 802/388-3711, ext. 5192.

MCAA SEEKS NOMINEES FOR HONORS, LEADERSHIP

The College and the Middlebury College Alumni Association bestow several awards each year upon alumni for service to the College, and for personal and professional achievement. The MCAA board also nominates alumni for election as alumni trustees to the Middlebury College Board of Trustees.

If you know of individuals who should be considered for recognition, or if you would like to be considered yourself, please complete the following and return it to: Kim Ehritt Smith, Director of Records, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753-6121. Also, feel free to include additional background information, or clippings from newspapers and magazines.

CC&P OFFICE INAUGURATES 'CAREER CONVERSATIONS'

The College's Office of Career Counseling and Placement is expanding its Career Panel Program and changing the name of this service to "Career Conversations." The program will begin this fall.

Career Conversations was developed in response to suggestions from alumni and students who felt the need for more opportunities for students to meet with alumni and friends of the College in informal settings to gain insight into career options. CC&P staff expect that the Career Conversations program will provide significantly more opportunities for students to be exposed to career fields than the three to four panel sessions previously offered each semester.

Alumni and friends of the College who are willing to volunteer or assist with Career Conversations are encouraged to contact Valerie Szymkowicz, Director of Career Counseling and Placement, Adirondack House, 802/388-3711, ext. 5100; fax: 802/388-6436.

Also at CC&P: To further our understanding of the post-graduate experiences of Middlebury students, CC&P is conducting a survey of the members of the Class of 1991. The survey, mailed in July, is designed to determine the job and educational status of graduates one year after graduation. CC&P looks forward to a strong response from the class and plans to share the results of the survey in a future issue of the College magazine.

TRANSCRIPT HINTS AND MORE FROM ALUMNI RECORDS

To obtain a transcript of your undergraduate records ...

Transcript requests must be made in writing. As of September 1, 1992, there is a charge of $5 for the first copy of a transcript sent to one address and $1 for each additional copy mailed to the same address.

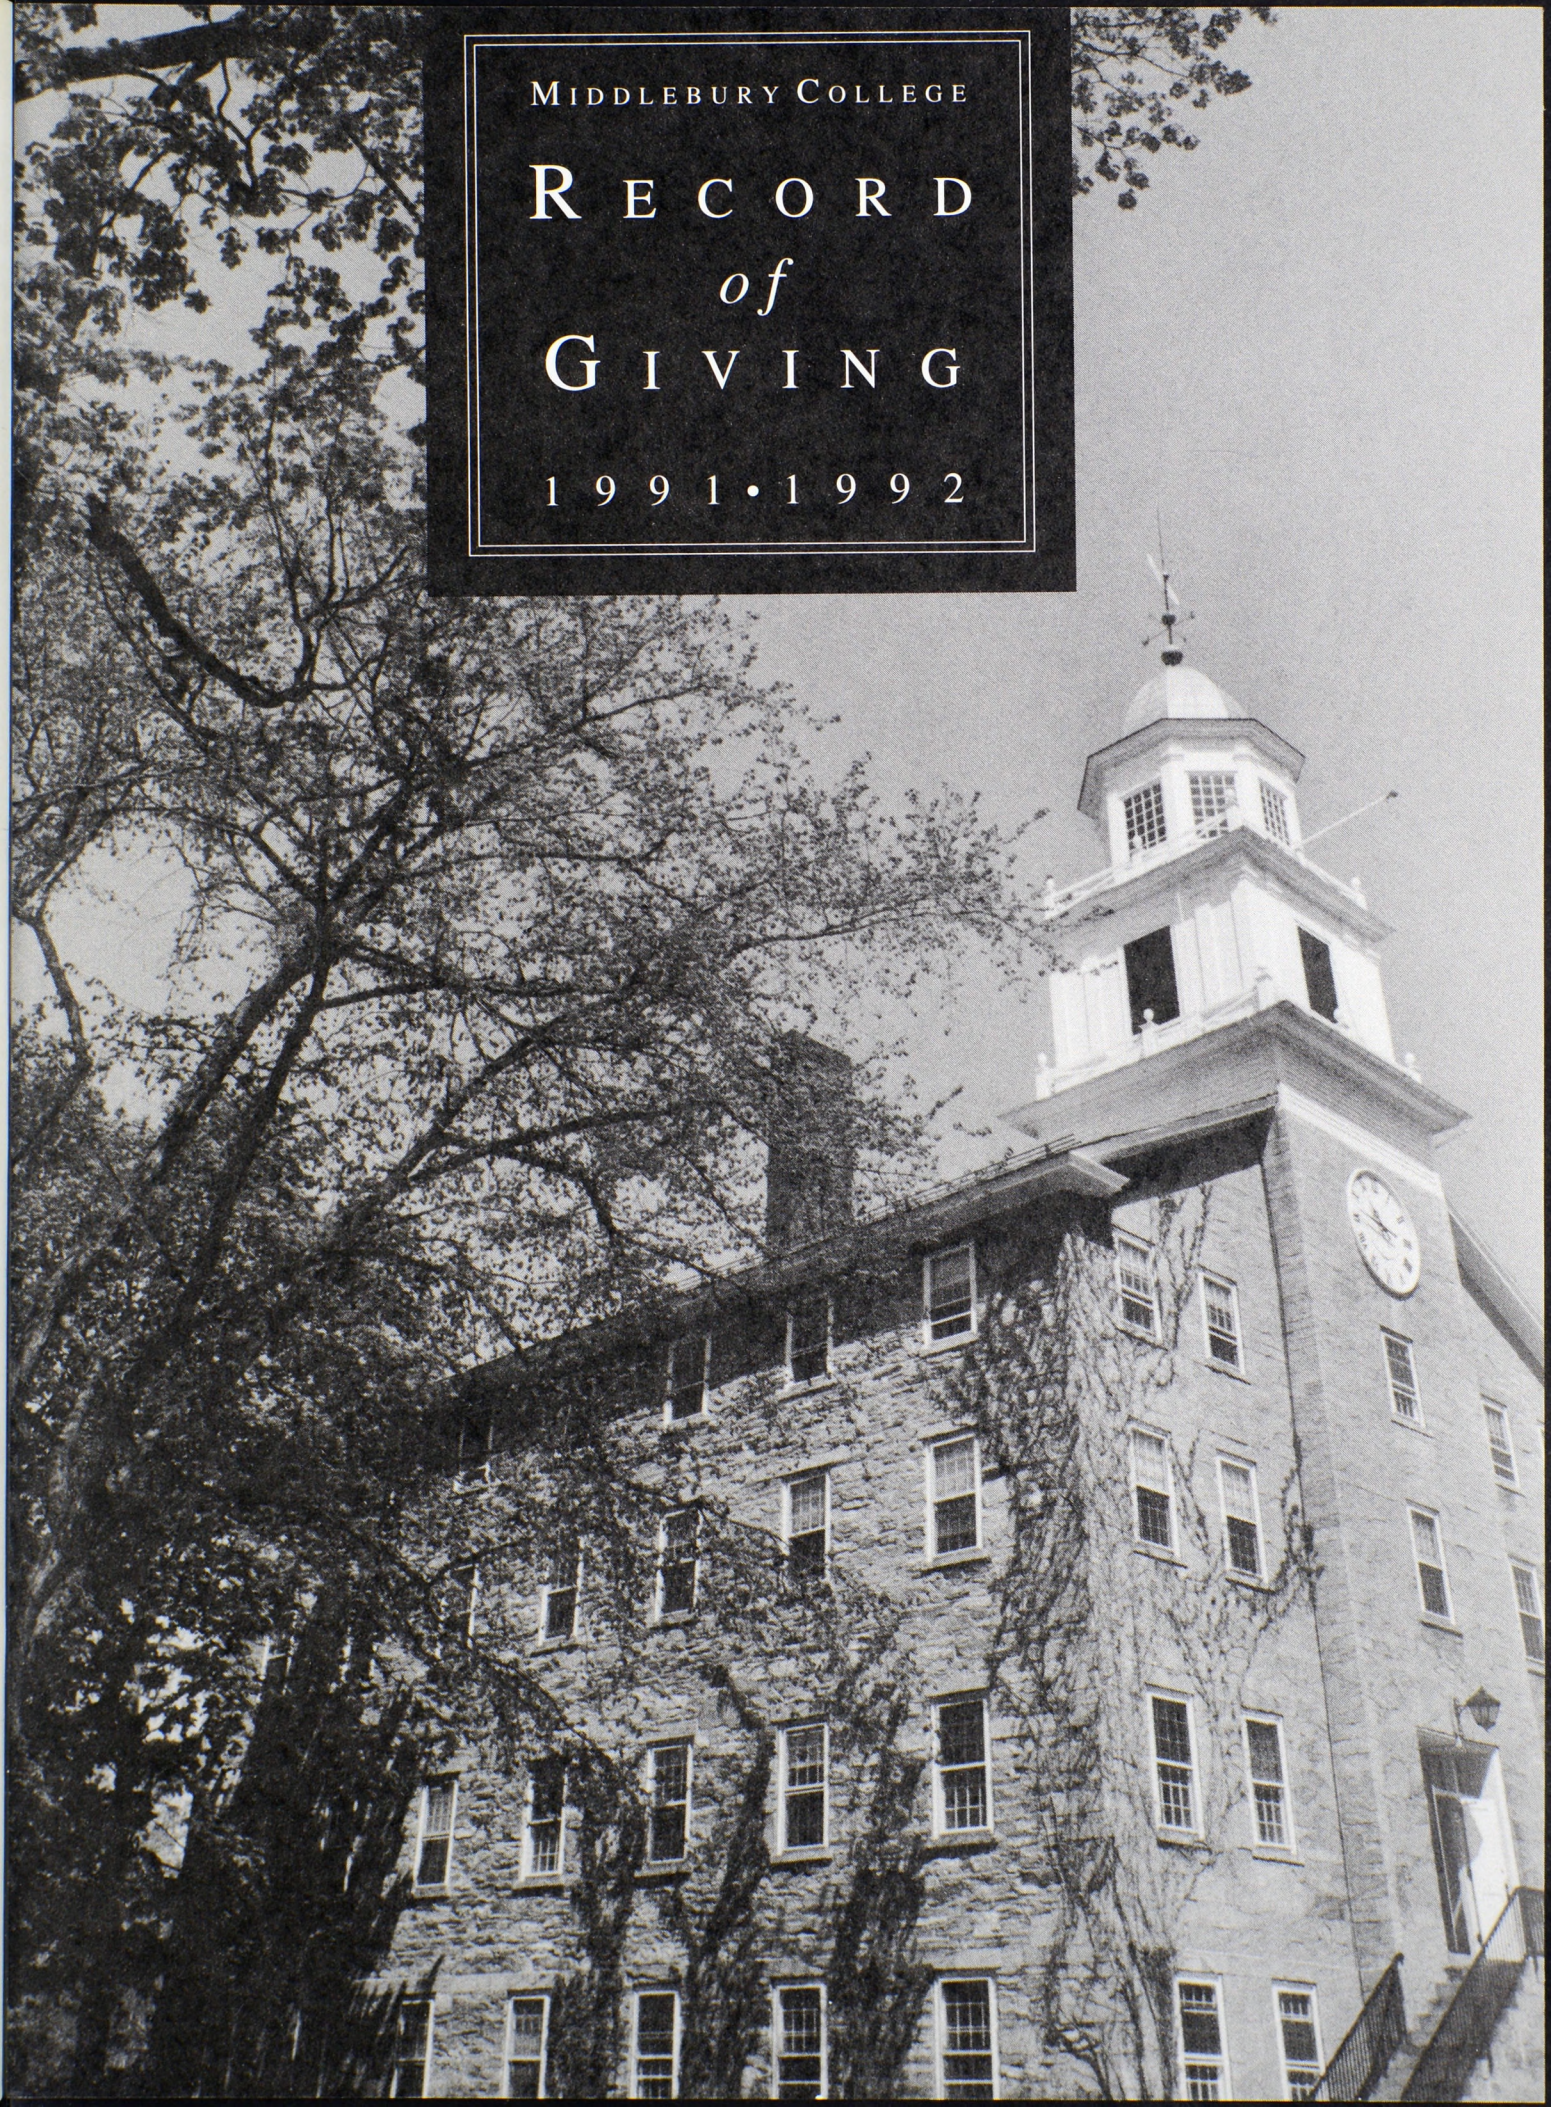
Transcript requests and questions should be sent to Denise Heath, A.B. Records, Old Chapel 6005, Middlebury College, Middlebury VT 05753. Phone (802) 388-3711, x5376.

To update the College's records about you for mailing...

Name and address changes should be sent to the Alumni Records Office, Forest Hall 6121, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753.

The Alumni Records Office seeks information about alumni to include in campus and College publications. Items of interest may also be sent in care of the Alumni Records address above.

The Alumni Records Office attempts to accommodate requests from alumni for current addresses of other alumni. The office does, however, have a responsibility to protect the privacy of individuals and questionable requests either by phone or in writing will be denied. Requests for alumni information should be received in writing and should indicate the class and name of the requesting alumnus or alumna. Phone numbers are not made available.



MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE

RECORD of GIVING

1991•1992

Message from President McCardell

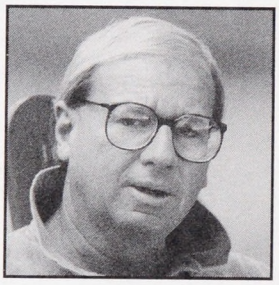
On behalf of all of us at Middlebury College, I am pleased and honored to extend sincere thanks and gratitude to the more than 13,000 individuals and associations who contributed to the College during 1991-92. This Record of Giving demonstrates the generosity and loyalty of Middlebury's many alumni, parents, and friends.

Each year your gifts help make possible one of the finest liberal arts institutions in the country. Particularly important are contributions to the Annual Fund. You can take great pride that Annual Fund gifts support faculty, students, and programs that maintain outstanding educational opportunities for today's students.

Commitment to the Annual Fund is evidenced by the steadily increased number of dedicated volunteers working on its behalf. I congratulate our many Fund volunteers, the Annual Fund Executive Council, class agents, reunion gift committee and parents committee members for their extraordinary leadership in helping us meet our goals and continue our tradition of excellence.

The College has also received gifts for the endowment, capital and other special projects. These generous gifts guarantee the future of our institution as we move into the next century, and we are most grateful for this support.

During the past year, members of the College community have been actively engaged in planning and in establishing priorities for Middlebury to continue to move forward. I am confident that with your support and the dedication of our faculty and staff, Middlebury will choose wisely and will remain true to its commitment to offer exceptional educational opportunities to outstanding students. We thank you.



Thank you for your continued support of Middlebury College during 1991-92. During a time of economic difficulty for many, more than 9,000 undergraduate alumni and over 1,300 graduate alumni made gifts to the Annual Fund and other special projects. As members of the Alumni Association, we can share great pride in our College and in the generosity of our alumni body.

Our financial gifts to Middlebury are more important each year. Middlebury depends on our continued contributions to maintain its exceptional programs and facilities, and our support ensures that present and future students have the same opportunities we received.

Thank you for your support and I hope that you can return to campus soon to see the "Midd" of today. I know you'll be impressed.

William H. Kieffer, III '64
President,
Middlebury College
Alumni Association

On behalf of the Annual Fund Executive Council, we extend our appreciation and thanks to over 9,000 fellow alumni who made a gift to Middlebury during the 1991-92 year. We are indeed fortunate to receive financial support from more than 47% of our alumni.

During the past year, members of the Council have worked with 440 class agents and reunion gift committee volunteers to help raise the level of giving to the Annual Fund, directly supporting students and programs. Alumni gifts to the Fund increased by 4.4% to almost $1.65 million, over half the total Annual Fund. Special thanks go out to our extraordinary volunteers and our generous alumni.

We have enjoyed the opportunity to share a "return to Middlebury" with so many of you. We thank you for your support this past year.

Co-Chairs,
Annual Fund Executive Council

Middlebury College's strong tradition of helping parents feel connected with their student's college experience is reflected in the generosity of Middlebury parents. A significant number of parents of alumni continue this tradition of giving to the College long after their child's graduation.

We wish to express our appreciation to the 1,235 Middlebury parents of graduate and current students who contributed $358,255 to the 1991-92 Parents Fund. We also wish to thank the 100 family members of the Parents Committee who served the College in so many ways.

The Parents Fund represents unrestricted gifts used for academic programs, faculty support, the enhancement of library resources, the arts, athletic programs and various student services. We are deeply grateful for this continued support of Middlebury's commitment to excellence in the liberal arts tradition.

A note from Harry Williams informs us that his mother, Caroline Buttolph Williams turned 100 years of age in 1991. She is the widow of Harry Williams who died in 1952. She would like to hear any news of Middlebury, as she was also born in the town of Middlebury. Her address is Mediplex, 1 Burr Road, Westport, CT 06880.

A personal note from Lois Bodurtha Ester brings the news that she is in her 98th year (birthdate, September 8, 1894). She lives in a retirement home where she is able to go to the dining room and enjoy most of the activities. She writes that she "will always have fond memories of Middlebury College and my years there."

20

22

Aimee Putnam Riker (Box 23, Spencer, NY 14883) has three children, six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. On May 24, 1990, she was named Senior Citizen of the Year for her community service in Tioga County, New York. The mayor of the city of Spencer, N.Y., issued a proclamation which officially named July 7, 1990, as Aimee Riker Day. An open house celebration on that same day celebrated her 90th birthday in Spencer. She broke a hip on August 2, 1991, but now walks with a cane, drives a car and is involved in all her former activities. ...Florinne Pratt Stuart attests to the fact that Aimee Riker "is about and driving her car again, active as ever." Mrs. Stuart lives with her Siamese cat in Horseheads, N.Y., where she belongs to several clubs, does genealogical research and tends her flowers.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Frederick M. Meek (Amy Hunt), Box 447, Kennebunkport, ME 04046; telephone (207) 967-2440.

We are saddened to learn of the death of Margaret Harriman Seely on March 11, 1992. "Harry" was a good friend to many of us, a vital person, and fun to be with. She will be greatly missed. A letter of sympathy has been sent to her daughter. ...Jessie Bennett Veit is another one of us to attain her 90th birthday. We should like to hear how she celebrated. Certainly such a day is an event! ...Marion Pellett Nielsen and her husband spent the winter months in Hawaii, as they have done for several years now, but they were planning to return to their home in New Hampshire for the summer. In April Marion celebrated her 91st birthday by going to a Thai restaurant in Hilo. She writes, "The squid mixed with other seafood was served in a sauce so hot it brought tears to my eyes. It was somewhat alleviated by iced tea with coconut milk." ...Helen Cleveland Elder has moved into the Pierce Baptist Retirement Home in Brooklyn, Conn., not far from her previous apartment and nearer the post office. Her number will remain the same. She feels quite at home with some of her own furniture and her pictures on the walls, all in a newly-completed wing of the building. ...Brad Houston writes that he still sees Peg (Margaret Brown Houston) each day in the nursing home in Guilford, Conn., which is four miles from their home in Madison. Brad adds, "We now have two great-grandsons and two great-granddaughters, nicest anywhere around." Brad visited his Vermont family for a week last winter. He has attended so many reunions with Peg over the years that he seems now to be one of the members of the Class of '24. ...Arthur Ferry is "hale and hearty at almost 90. However, I know I am not a youngster any more. This retirement community, Heath Village, characterizes itself as 'unique' and it is most comfortable. I have a small vegetable garden. My friend, Connie, and I go to a nutrition center each week day where 60 or 70 senior citizens gather to enjoy good fun and sociability. I still drive my car, but only in town. My best wishes to classmates." ...Anna Wilkinson Pratt celebrated her 90th birthday on Christmas Day at the Darien Senior Center. Her daughter-in-law had arranged a card shower and "the cards came pouring in." ...Reginald Savage wrote following the death of Dorothy Taylor Savage: "It is hard for me to realize that she

HIGH NOTES

Walter E. Boehm '35 was named Outstanding Physician of the Year by the Tennessee Medical Association in April 1992. Wally was honored for his life-long dedication to improving medical care for children with birth defects. In 1986, the Chattanooga Birth Defects Center was renamed in his honor.

E. Sherburne Lovell '38 has been chosen 1992 Citizen of the Year in Springfield, Vt. He has been involved in countless community activities since retiring from his medical practice there.

Jean Hebert '44, a teacher and administrator at the Canterbury School, recently completed 1,000 hours with the New Milford, Conn., Hospital and has worked with Habitat for Humanity and the Christmas in April program. He also plays with a musical group to entertain senior citizens and nursing home shut-ins.

Jean Williams Schoch '45 has been elected to another term on the housing authority in the Acton, Mass., area. She recently helped sponsor a pilot program for support services to single parent families, a program which has been judged an outstanding success.

Karl Limbach '54 has been named one of the top patent lawyers in the state of California in California Lawyer.

The Association for Women Geoscientists Foundation has bestowed its 1991 Outstanding Educator Award upon Dr. Laurie Brown '68, a full professor in the geology department at the University of Massachusetts. The award recognizes her for her outstanding teaching as well as her record of scientific research and service.

Greg Lewis '69 was the only network sports announcer to work at both the Winter and the Summer Olympic Games in 1992. He hosted coverage of freestyle skiing and speed skiing for CBS in Albertville, France, during the Winter Games, and then covered gymnastics for NBC's "Triplecast" coverage of the Summer Olympics from Barcelona.

In August, Harper San Francisco brought out a series of books by Guy Kettelhack '73. Designed as guides for those in recovery from alcohol and drug abuse, the books are dubbed "pocket meetings" by the publisher. The titles: First-Year Sobriety: When All That Changes Is Everything; Second-Year Sobriety: Getting Comfortable Now That Everything Is Different; and Third-Year Sobriety: Finding Out Who You Really Are.

Paul W. Cousins '75 has been nominated to serve on the National Board of Television and Radio Broadcast Meteorologists for the American Meteorological Society. These directors will be shaping the purpose and policy of weather forecasts issued via the broadcast media over the next several years.

Michael Blount '77 recently placed second in the National Guard Bureau's Soldier of the Year competition. (He missed winning by one point of a possible 635.) He was also named Soldier of the Year of the 43rd Brigade, the Connecticut Army National Guard and the First U.S. Army, which comprises 19 other states.

Daxing Zhang '85 is back in the States after a seven-year struggle to regain his passport from the Chinese government. While in China, he produced a small movie, acted in a few, including Bernardo Bertolucci's The Last Emperor and Steven Spielberg's Empire of the Sun, and appeared in many TV commercials. He also worked for NBC News as a special consultant during the student uprising and the resultant massacre in Tiananmen Square. He is now enrolled in the School for International Training in Brattleboro, Vt.

Juliet Lambert '86 has been touring Japan, Australia, England, Scotland and Ireland in The Music of Andrew Lloyd Webber. She performed the Christine material from The Phantom of the Opera opposite Michael Crawford in Australia. In London, she sang for the Queen at the Royal Albert Hall.

is gone, despite not having had one 24 hours of life together in eight months because of her illness. She was doing quite well at the nursing home, but caught a cold. Being susceptible to pneumonia, this infection soon assumed the more serious illness. She was transferred to the hospital where even their acute care could not bring her back. She died May 17. I had wonderful support from my two sons and daughter-in-law. They have now returned to their homes and responsibilities, but they are very good about communicating, so I am a lucky man."

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Donald D. Fredrickson (Dorothy Johnson) 199 Central Avenue, Madison, NJ 07940, and Mrs. Arthur A. Headley (Dorothy Tillapaugh), 648 Forest St., Apt. B, Eaton Rapids, MI 48827.

Marian Peterson Rogers writes from Daytona Beach, where she has lived for a number of years. She is healthy and active considering her years, but she has been saddened by the recent deaths of several contemporaries. One was Evelyn Ryle '23, her neighbor and close friend since 1970 when Marian moved to her present apartment. She also misses her sister-in-law, the only "family" she had left, who recently went in a nursing home some distance away. Marian continues, "I really shouldn't complain. I am able to take care of myself, eat and sleep well, get out for a walk every day, have good friends and neighbors. I live upstairs, in fact have to climb 17 stairs (no elevator) every time I go out, usually four times daily." Recalling college days she writes, "When we were freshmen, six of us lived off campus in a house on Shannon Street, just down the hill from the Catholic Church. It was owned by Mrs. Florence Gates, a widow with three children—three extra bedrooms, two to a room—Helen Stone Eaton and Helen Sheldon Durkee, Janette Woolsey and Polly Bromell, my roommate Ruth Taylor and myself. I remember we all often wanted some sandwiches in the evening and Ruth and I were always elected to go down to Joe Calvi's for them—a shoe box full! Those were the days!" Marian sends greetings to all '25ers. ...The alumni office informs us that Esther Brown has moved from Freeport, where she has been for some time, to Carillon House, 800 Park Ave., Huntington, NY 11743. Has a nice sound, doesn't it? ...Elizabeth Smith Lewis promises a letter soon. ...Florence Reed writes that she is still enjoying her "Camelot" home, which she wrote about several years ago. She has a severe leg problem, resulting in her having to spend much of her time in a "Lazy-Boy" chair with her leg stretched out, but she is healthy otherwise. She enclosed a copy of "Where the Otter winds the willow," a song which she had written down from memory. She says, "I catch myself singing this from time to time. I wonder if they still sing it at Middlebury." We wonder, too. Do you know? ...Ruth Baldwin Murray is still teaching for G.D.E. programs! Ruth is a member of a true Middlebury family. Her sister, Annie Baldwin Potter graduated in 1922. When Ruth transferred from Mount Holyoke after their father's death in 1923, her sister, Martha Baldwin Thompson '24, was a senior whom some of us remember. Both sisters have died, Martha in 1982 and Annie in March 1992. Ruth wrote of teaching French and English in Massachusetts and New Hampshire high schools. Her second marriage is in its 50th year. Their children are both married. Their son is in the research department at Boeing and their daughter, a graduate of Vassar with her master's in computer science, has given Ruth and her husband two bright and lively grandsons. Ruth has kept in touch with Hester Dwinell '28, with whom she waited table at Bread Loaf for two summers. And, in 1939, they traveled together, going to Europe on the Queen Mary. The Murrays have added extensions to several visits to their son in Seattle, traveling to Tahiti, Hawaii and Alaska; they have also sailed around Mexico and through the Panama Canal. She recalls taking their eight-year-old daughter to Europe on a boat and plane trip. ...When you receive this issue of Middlebury Magazine you may be watching some college football games with pretty cheerleaders exhorting their classmates to Cheer! Cheer! Cheer! Have you ever wondered when all that female participation got started? If so, you may be interested in this excerpt from a letter written by a Middlebury coed to her family in the fall of 1922: "The game was with Tufts. It was an unusually good game—plenty of thrills. We won 6-0 and what do you think—in the last few weeks or so, they've allowed the girls to cheer and now they are even asking them to! Isn't that corking! We just meet outside the Chapel about three times a week for cheer practice! The Annual Freshman P-rade preceded the game and between halves they put on an imaginary game that was ever so funny." We don't know when women at other schools started on the road to becoming cheerleaders, but at Middlebury it all began 70 years ago, in the fall of 1922.

Class Secretaries: Elizabeth Goodale Murray, R.R. 1, Box 396, Perkinsville, VT 05151, and Lindley W. Robinson, 33 Christian Ave., Concord, NH 03301.

Newton Perrin writes that he isn't taking long trips any more or doing any exciting new things, but just living quietly in Heaton House in Montpelier. He does refer to the Midd-Harvard game of 1923 and some of the Milwaukee gang who played there. He also mentions the Band and Glee Club and their appearance at Carnegie Hall. ...Dana Hawthorne writes that he now lives at 7400 Legacy Court in Santa Fe, New Mexico—too far for the trip to Midd for the reunion gathering. He says that he is doing his own personal legal work and enjoys his hobby of reading books. He says he is doing as well as can be expected for a 90-year-old. He would be glad to hear from any of his classmates. ...Dick Allen (705 New Britain Ave., N16, Hartford, CT 06106) writes that he is comfortably settled in a large room at Avery Heights retirement village, where there are excellent meals and a good program of recreational activity. Other Middlebury residents include Gertrude Parsons Crehan '28, Carleta Ottman Haugh '21 (the widow of Charles Haugh '21) and Barbara Wishart Erickson '36. Quips Dick, "Midd is well represented, N'est-ce pas?" He says that at age 90 he doesn't expect to be able to attend future reunions. ...Nancy Carboy Woodall '56 sent word that her mother, Margaret Sturtevant Carboy moved into a nursing home on February 7. Her address is Oak Springs of Arlington, 2000 S. 5th St., #213, Arlington, VA 22204 (phone 703-685-0765). I am sure she would be pleased to receive messages from her Middlebury classmates. Back in our college days, Margaret and her sister, Ruth Sturtevant '26 and Mable Thornley were great friends and members of Pi Beta Phi. ...Roland Bennett celebrates his 91st birthday on June 1 on their farm in Preston, Conn. He was recently hospitalized for the removal of a small ulcer. When I (Betty Goodale Murray) talked with him on May 24 his wife, Helen, was out walking "Dolly," their 14-year-old Morgan who had had 40 feet of her intestines removed. So their momentary concern was for the health of their brood mare. ...In April, Betty Goodale Murray took a seven-day Western Caribbean cruise, accompanied by son Bruce. They sailed on the Holland American Line from Tampa, Fla., visiting such exotic places as Cozumel, Ocho Rios, Grand Cayman and Duuns River Falls. Two days were spent entirely at sea, with only sky, clouds, water and an occasional ship. The translucent turquois water, soft sandy beaches and unusual scenery gave spring a highly different twist. Back in Weathersfield in May, many birds are daily visitors at the Murray feeders. To protect the rose-breasted grosbeaks, chickadees, goldfinches, purple finches, tufted titmice and red-winged blackbirds from the neighbor's high-jumping cat, there is a unique arrangement of wire under the feeders. ...In the "small world" department, your secretary reports that Constance C. Coughlin '75 is the interim pastor at the Perkinsville Community Church. A former attorney, Constance is studying for the ministry. She has two children, Gardner and Abigail. ...Doris Howard Goodwin, a former third grade teacher, lives in Oakdale, Conn. Now widowed, she has a daughter, Dorothy Hughes, two sons, John and Peter, and seven granddaughters. Dorothy is an art teacher in Clinton, Conn.; John has a demolitions company in Cape Meddeck, Maine; and Peter is with the Pfizer Drug Company in Groton, Conn.

Class Secretary: Miss Rachel L. Spear, Villa Pacific, 3630 6th Ave., #509, San Diego, CA 92103.

Outgoing secretary Howard Cutler reports: Eva Menotti Fitzgerald had no news, but sent "best wishes to all my classmates." ...Mary Alice Barker Pierson regrets not making the 65th Reunion but holds out hope for the 70th. Then she writes, "Imagine my surprise to have a greeting and visit by telephone from Rachel Spear from California—clear across the continent. I surely appreciated it. Life in Southampton (N.Y.) runs on—active and pleasant with semi-annual visits to Vermont. Best wishes always." ...Rhoda B. Southall reported her spring activities: "As soon as the snow is gone I uncover our flower beds. This year our daffodils were especially beautiful, followed by tulips. Years ago I broke a branch off a forsythia bush on the Rye Parkway. I planted it and it has flowered this spring in all its glory. Goldfinches flock to our feeders. Deer and turkeys come at nightfall for their corn." But all is not serene for this ardent gardener: "I have planted rose bushes in the front yard, but it is a battle between me and our two dogs to keep them from digging them up. All best wishes to my classmates returning for our 65th Reunion." ...Speaking of our 65th, Julia Austin reported that, "as always, the College did a marvelous job of putting on reunion weekend. I am sure all seven of us from 1927 were very glad we came. I was anyway. The Grand Buffet followed by the delightful Cabaret put us into the reunion mood. Saturday was a full day but how enjoyable it was! Everybody should go back to a class reunion if for no other reason than to join the parade of classes up chapel walk into Mead Chapel. Of course we, being among the so-called elderly, did not have to do that walk. We were seated early in a chapel filled with people, including the three sides of balconies. (Remember the balcony was at the rear only in our day.) The weather was with us Friday and Saturday. Even though the rains came Sunday, we went to chapel before leaving for home." Indeed we were blessed with two days of fine sunny weather, with rain on only the third and final day. Unfortunately your class secretary found it impractical to be there for more than the taking of the class picture and the Saturday evening Class Banquet in the President's Dining Room in Proctor Hall. The seven members of the class who made it to reunion were Joseph Finnegan, Halbert Phillips, Elizabeth Adams, Julia Austin (who had kindly consented to oversee reunion arrangements), Katie Roberts, Rachel Spear and your class secretary, Howard Cutler. Some class members were accompanied by relatives or friends whose presence added to the festive pleasure of the event. Perhaps the highlight of the dinner hour was when Rachel Spear gave a spirited rendition of a short quotation testifying to affectionate regards extending over many years. Other highlights for '27 certainly included the all-classes social reception Friday evening; the Reunion Parade and Alumni Convocation on Saturday morning; the conversation with President John McCardell, the taking of the class photograph Saturday afternoon, and the social hour which accompanied the banquet Saturday evening. Also, for those who were able to remain on campus, the Sunday morning Chapel Service was very evocative of our own college days. The Class of '27 had a grand 65th reunion and, as Rachel Spear put it, "It's not too late to wish we might see some of you at our 70th." ...Howard Cutler was planning to turn over the secretarial reins at an appropriate point at our reunion but, as it turned out, he was unable to arrive until after that appropriate point had passed. It was only in private conversations later that he was able to discuss the matter with Rachel Spear and she has graciously agreed to serve as class secretary for the Class of 1927 for the coming term. "Cut" sends all good wishes to Rachel and urges everyone to write to her at the above address.

Class Secretary: William K. Donald, 14740 Eden St., Palm Acres at Shell Point, Fort Myers, FL 33908; Acting Co-Secretary: Miriam (Mimi) Sweet Coombs, 13 Highland Ave., Concord, MA 01742.

Helen Revere Hatch and Bill Donald attended an informal Middlebury alumni luncheon late last February at the Sarasota Hilton. The meeting was hosted by Bill '42 and Mary Bidwell Ouimette '43. Gordie Perine '49, senior development officer, spoke of the College's excellent condition and the continuing high quality of applicants for admission. Mike Schoenfeld '73, director of development, gave an upbeat report on the campus, its buildings and its infrastructure. ...The cabinet designed for the Moody era collection of books, documents and artifacts should be completed by the time you read this. A large part of the cost has been taken from the Jane Carrick Oviatt Memorial fund, in accordance with her wishes, but contributions are still welcome and may be sent to Gordie. ...We are delighted that Joan Todd will again be making reunion arrangements for our care, comfort and enjoyment. For those of you who have not already made plans to be at Midd May 28-30, 1993, Bill provides this Saturday Evening Post quip: "Staying home from class reunions is a cyne you are getting auld." Probably this applies only to high school graduates. ...Returning home to Amherst for the summer, Dot and Hank Ferry said a sad farewell to Winter Haven, Fla., and to the Red Sox, who will now do their spring training at Ft. Myers (where Bill reports that facility construction is under way). Hank has recovered from a slight stroke and Dot from a bruising mugging and handbag snatch which occurred as she was leaving their apartment. ...In Franklin, Vt., Marge Dewing is using her well-known math skills as treasurer of her church and of the senior citizens organization. She still finds time for a bit of knitting. ...It was good to hear from Ruth Simmons Dinkel who has been in the ICU unit at Havenwood (the address is still 33 Christian Ave., Concord, NH 03301). Ruth informs us that they are accumulating a tiny colony of Middlebury-ites there. "Marion Morgan Herrlich '27 dropped in to see me a few weeks ago. But no one from '28 so far." ...Mimi Sweet Coombs wants you to know that being chosen Concord's "Honored Citizen of the Year" carries obligations as well as perks and privileges. "My service began on Sunday, April 5, in a Town House public ceremony, in the presence of town and state officials, family and friends. Preceded into the hall by 'Minutemen' who stayed on guard, I received documents and gifts, heard the citation read and tributes from representatives from the organizations I have served, covering the last 20 years since my retirement from teaching. The couple so honored during the past year then gave me the symbols of office.... Middlebury was represented by son John '60 and by Marjorie Burditt Striker '40, a friend and former associate at Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High, herself a committed prison volunteer, as I am. My first official appearance was at the 7:15 a.m. Easter Sunday, April 19, dawn salute. Town officials gathered at Buttrick Hill, above North Bridge, to await the expected arrival of Sam Prescott (Dr. Dimare) who brought the news that "the British are coming. Spread the alarm!" (The alarm was very real to the children, who watched him ride away to do that.) Immediately the Minutemen began to assemble, firing their muskets as the cannon roared. The next event was pure joy. I rode in a 'surrey with the fringe on top,' accompanied by my son, Allan, and two grandsons at the head of the April 20 Patriots Day Parade. My 'coachman' put down a piece of carpet as I alighted at North Bridge for the reenactment of the battle between the British and the Minutemen. Memorial Day parades were more somber, with stops at memorials, cemeteries and the reading of the roll of Concord men and women who had given their lives in American conflicts since the Civil War. In addition to the minutemen's fife and drum selections, a men's chorus of 50 'Doughboys' in World War I uniforms sang the Battle Hymn of the Republic at the major stops. As she wrote, July 4 was to be her next appearance, and so it will go until next April—with Minuteman protection all the way! ...Bill received a letter from Al Leahy which expressed his appreciation of Mimi: "Our class always has someone in very important places and Mimi is to be congratulated on her appointment as the Woman of the Year in her city." Al reported that he suffered a slight stroke last December, which has curbed him somewhat. All of us who were privileged to attend our 50th Reunion remember Al as our witty and personable master of ceremonies at our jovial banquet in the Chateau. We fervently hope you may join us again, Al, at our 65th next May. Do drop him a line at R.D. 3, Box 300, Claremont, NH 03743. ...The sad news of the death on April 28, 1992, of John March's widow, Helen, came from their daughter, Jeanne Shugrue. Helen always accompanied John to Homecoming. In fact, after she came the first time, she enjoyed it so much that she made sure that they never missed coming. We enjoyed her, too. Through the years, she and John joined Ruth and Nap Blanchette and Dot and Hank Ferry at the Middlebury-Williams football games. We have sent our sympathy to Jeanne. ... Betty Hoadley is in Essex Meadows Health Center, Essex, CT 06426, according to her friend Jean Dudey. Jean sent the message to tell Mimi of her happiness that her years of service are being rewarded. ...Louise and Bill Donald went to California in May to be with daughter Diana and family, and again visited with Evy and Ab Carney. He has recovered from last summer's brush with debilitating illness which occurred in Spain before they could attend the three-week Elderhostel. It seems that to them, hope springs eternal! He confided that this summer they have arranged for two more Elderhostel sessions—one in Ireland and the other in Texas. Such a buoyant spirit attests to the saying, "You can't keep a good man down," especially if his wife is Evy. ...We were happy to say, "Yes, indeed!" to Dot Tillapaugh Headley '25, who wrote to ask if an issue of The Campus, published on June 17, 1925, the week of their graduation, would be an appropriate artifact for the Paul D. Moody collection. We certainly intend it to be a Moody era preservation project. The issue she has contains articles about the Commencement dedication of both the Chateau and Porter Hospital, Commencement speakers and the text of Prexy's Baccalaureate address, especially important to '25 because he began his presidency in 1921 with their class and they claimed him as a class member. We urge others to save, bring or send similar treasures for the Moody collection at Kirk to Gordie Perine '49, who is guarding them until the cabinet is ready, or to Mimi or Bill (addresses at head of column). ...When you send birthday cards to the following, tell them if you plan to be at the Reunion: Edward (Hank) Ferry (January 5), Abbott Carney (January 6), Mimi Sweet Coombs (January 12), George Eaton (January 17), Gertrude Parsons Crehan (January 21), Albert D. Leahy (March 3), Earle Hindes (March 7), William K.Donald (March 11) and Theodore T. Goodwin (March 28).

For the moment, the sole item available to report is that (as of June 13, 1992) your faithful correspondent has a new address (see above). All communications on the activities of class members should be sent there. I hope for an abundance of them.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Beecher W. Dudey (Helen Kendall), 220 Ash St., Corinth, NY 12822.

Henry Newman has a new address: 306 Jack Road, Ortanna, PA 17353. ...We are sorry to learn that Blanche Emory died on May 4, 1992. A sevice was held in New London, N.H., where Blanche had lived for the last 15 years. Burial was in Sturgis, Mich., where she had been an occupational therapist before moving to New London, where she was secretary to her friend, Dr. Eleanor Gillespie. ...Elizabeth Davis, widow of Dr. George Davis, tells me that Ted and Nathalie Hall Jones were very helpful during George's last years. Ted is also gone now. ...Ginny Knox says that Esther Longwill '23 fractured her hip. Ginny talks every Saturday with Betty Norman who is "holding her own." Ginny fully enjoyed the Middlebury breakfast held in Hartford last May when she chatted with Emily Miller MacDonald and others. Ginny has a booklet about scholarships to schools like Midd. ...We understand that Howard Huntress has had to give up several activities. He is working on a religious history. ...Marian Cruikshank enjoys living in her comfortable and pleasant apartment and finds that the available meals are good. Marian has heard recently from Carolyn Allen. ...Ted and Helen Huntley Pidgeon have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary! This surely beats my story—Beecher and I celebrated our 10th in July! ...Clinton Demeritt says that they don't get out much, but that their weather had been beautiful. ...Thelma French Walker, who was hospitalized a few days in May for her blood count, has also had to go to Burlington for transfusions. She had to have an implant in one eye, the other eye having been treated two years ago. Thelma is able to go to the Essex Senior Center in the local senior van.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Edward W. Toomey (Mary Stolte), RD 3, Box 301, Grafton, VT 05146 (May 1 to October 26), 17615 W. Hwy. 98, Panama City Beach, FL 32413 (October-May), and Mr. E. Parker Calvert, 6251 Old Dominion Drive, #225, McLean, VA 22101.

Who says that we '31ers are old? Dick Fear is still doing things about which many people only fantasize. Last April he flew to Lima, Peru, and from there he and his group went to Iquitas, Brazil, headwaters of the Amazon. A river boat then took them to "explore one half of the most remote areas of the earth," the jungle, the Indian tribes and the flora and fauna of the region. The cruise terminated at Manaus in the very center of the continent. We hope to hear more about his fascinating trip. ...Bob and Gwen Mason Lake took a tour to Fort Myers and later journeyed north to Clearwater where they had a mini reunion with George '32 and Nathalie Lewis Emery. A nice break for them all. Nathalie also telephoned Hugh Gosselin who winters in Stuart. In addition, she chatted with Henrietta Olsen Smith who was planning to visit Sandy '32 and Theta Conant Claflin before her return to Mexico, N.Y. We are all happy that Sandy has had no recurrence of Whipple's disease. ...We wish Bill and Betty Pease Felt a better year this year than last. The old flu bug seemed to be a permanent visitor last winter and curtailed their plans to visit the Claflins. ...Everyone will be happy to learn that Harriet Eliot's chest X-rays finally showed her to be "in the pink" last October—too late, unfortunately, for our 60th which she had planned to attend. "Shadow" is rounding off 10 years in her retirement home studio and keeps busy with garden, college, glee and literary clubs, as well as her own garden. Like this writer (Mary Stolte Toomey) she enjoys the symphony and trips to museums, not to mention jigsaw puzzles. ...As we write in May for the fall issue, spring is burgeoning and Ruth Wills Meade is bemoaning the fact that she can no longer accomplish the same wonders in her lovely garden. Join the club, Ruthie. ...Helen Legate Roberts has just finished a stint for the Federated Women's Club of Massachusetts on the scholarship committee and has been appointed district director for the next two years. ...Thirty-one had a number of representatives at the spring Tri-State meeting: Priscilla March, Helen Legate Roberts, Sam Abbott, Mary Stolte Toomey and Marian Tolles Chase and Phil. Everyone at the Lake Morey Inn Resort enjoyed a delightful luncheon, free golf and the increased attendance of Midd men. ...Tolles, we were happy to learn is a true historian and town archivist in Henniker, N.H., where she has been working with 8th graders in their search for material of historical interest. ...The best news for all of us is that Walt Crocker is making steady improvement after a series of three operations. Elsa merits top honors as his helpmate. ...From Hollywood came word that Ken MacClelland is glad he no longer lives in L.A., as 35 years ago he and Jo were only a few blocks from last spring's terrible disasters. He is still busy completing revisions on his novel. In addition, he became a proud great-grandfather in May. In June, he and Jo went to Vancouver for the wedding of their youngest daughter, Nora. Family and guests all gathered for the ceremony and reception aboard a yacht. ...Ah wilderness! Right in Grafton, Mary Stolte Toomey has announced that her pond has become an attraction for a moose, so drive Route 35 with care. Winter roads may not be the only hazard. ...Not much news from the men of the class, but Phil Bates began his long and satisfying letter with a line typifying all of us: "Not too much new with us as we seem to be well settled in our routines." We agree that we should be settled in our routines when our children are actually reaching retirement ages in many cases. Our own Admiral Jack retired in August and attorney Bob retired a year ago to cruise the South Pacific! The real surprise to me (Parker Calvert), as well as others, however, is that we are changing our address for a continuing care retirement home in the Washington, D.C., area. Although this trend is popular with many of our classmates, I never thought the Calverts would leave idyllic Mount Desert Island for the limited space of an apartment! It's a chore even to plan the move, as many of you know. Monty and Prue Ingham Montgomery have been very helpful with their advice. So, do note the change of address, and write if you get work!

"Many happy returns" was indeed the sentiment of all Class of '32ers who came for our 60th Reunion. Some were accompanied by spouses and a great time was had by all. Our student hosts were super, attending to our every need promptly and efficiently. We were awakened Saturday morning by screams of "I can't get out! I can't get out!" Ella Congdon Purple was trapped in the bathroom—the dead bolt would not fully retract when locked from the inside. Our hosts and classmates rallied to the rescue and aided in her escape, shaken but unscathed! The display in our lounge included a panoramic view of the entire student body in 1929 taken at the foot of the hill leading up to New Chapel; a display of prints of Scrap Melbye's exquisite bird carvings; prints of Gray and Georgiana Hulett Taylor's dollhouse; a print of Gray's winter of '91 project—a handcrafted red oak rolltop desk; Alice Cady Russell's volume of genealogy and her truly beautiful water colors; Jo Walker Hoecke's handsome hooked rugs. The Saturday morning Alumni Convocation was even more thrilling than usual with a record number of alums parading into Mead Chapel and our banner flying with the others from the balcony. ("Bill" Eleanor Benjamin Berry had "updated" it since our 55th.) Middlebury's new president was introduced. Immediately following the convocation we were transported to the president's home where we met John McCardell and his gracious wife. A delicious luncheon was served in the garden. Some of our class attended the panel on "The New World Order." Peg Witt and Georgiana Taylor visited the Women's Resource Center behind Proctor Hall. It is to be named "May Belle Chellis House" in honor of Middlebury's first woman graduate. At 5:30 we all gathered for our class photograph. Following this, we boarded a college bus to be transported to the Berry Farm in Shoreham for dinner. Bill Berry had gone on ahead in her own car. After we had settled in our seats, the bus driver turned to us and asked, "Where do we go?" No one had given him directions—and not a single person on the bus knew how to get to our destination! An urgent SOS brought Hugh Marlow to our rescue and off we went! Bill was most charming and hospitable. Special guests included Bill's son, Timothy '73, his wife, Barbara Clemens, Dick's daughters from Crown Point, Kay Gunnison and Penny Carr, and David and Dorothy Rice. David Rice is a grandson of our affectionately-remembered past president of Middlebury, Paul Moody. At dinner David and several of our classmates shared delightful memories of "Prexy." George Owen paid homage to our deceased members in a moving memorial prayer. Alice Cady Russell, in costume, read her paper on the New England rebel, Anne Hutchinson. Gray and Georgiana were elected to serve another five-year term as class secretaries, which they accepted on condition that all classmates send news items regularly. Sunday morning chapel and the alumni choir's Sevenfold Amen brought tears to our eyes and concluded a perfect weekend. We regretfully said "Goodbye, we'll see you in 1997—and let's keep in touch." Members of the Class of 1932 in attendance were Bill Benjamin Berry, Elinor Lente Clements, Ed Doty, Frances Gale Dulac, George Emery, Avis Collins Fleischer, Evelyn Clement Green, Betty Brown Hearne, Jo Walker Hoecke, Belle Ingalls Leighton, Dick McDermott, Charkie Adams Merriam, Marion Jones Munford, George Owen, Marian Wilcox Patterson, Ella Congdon Purple, Alice Cady Russell, Emily Smith, Jo Saunders Taggart, Gray and Georgiana Hulett Taylor, Eva Tuttle Walsh and Peg Witt. ...Dan Riccio writes that his wife's convalescence from surgery prevented their return for Reunion. He continues to play golf: "Nine holes, three times a week and (we) have a large garden which supplies us with many vegetables which we preserve. I own a home and two apartments which keeps me busy. Never a dull moment! Not enough hours in the day and not enough days to get everything accomplished." Keep up the golf, garden and the maintenance work, Dan, for they help us stay alive! ...Indefatigable Freddy Weaver is still interested in teaching at Farmingdale at a summer session. His daughter is a social psychiatric worker at Cincinnati University Hospital. ...George Emery, our class authority on the Civil War, talked with Barbara (Bobbie) Landis See about coming to Reunion. She regretted that multiple fractures from a fall prevented her return. In their conversation, Bobbie mentioned that her grandfather was gunned down at Marye's Heights, Fredericksburg, Va., but was rescued during the evening lull. Otherwise, she said, she wouldn't be here! ...We are saddened by the deaths of two of our classmates. Anna Pope Antonewicz died on April 23, 1992, at her home in Springfield, Vt. She had set her goal to be at Reunion and was looking forward to seeing old friends. Katherine (Kay) E. Gates died on March 21, 1992. The class extends sympathy to their families.

Clark Corliss and Louise recently sold their New Orleans home and moved to a rental on the north shore of Lake Pontchartrain, about 40 miles from New Orleans. They will be near a daughter and her family. Their new address is 214 Pineridge Court, Mandeville, LA 70448 (phone 504-624-9131). ...Ken Dodd reports that he and Helen, like many of us, keep in regular contact with the medical fraternity, but so far they have been able to cope. Their principal problem is maintaining a house and its grounds. However, a hired service to tend the lawn, shrubs, and leaves helps a great deal. ...Lyle Glazier's late winter project was an attempt to modify the preamble to the Town Charter of Bennington. The original statement was: "The people of Bennington reaffirm faith in government of the people, by the people and for the people." To this he proposed the added statement: "The charter reflects concern to improve the quality of life for all people, whatever their age, sex, or national origin." In order for this to be placed on the June ballot, he had to secure 500 signatures of supporting citizens. As of April 8 he had 630. We hope for a further report after the balloting. ...Ev Gould wrote in April that he had had a tough winter. Illness had forced him to go into the hospital at Christmas time and then to live with his daughter, Barbara, in Stow, Ohio. He was still with her in April and didn't know when or whether he would be returning to Kinsman. He did say that Barbara's cooking was helping a great deal, necessitating the purchase of a new pair of slacks to accommodate the 20 pounds he had put on. He then added, "I hope that by our 60th Reunion I will have recovered enough to make the Middlebury trip possible. His temporary address is c/o Barbara Mellinger, 3355 Lakeview Blvd., Stow, OH 44224 (phone 216-688-3678). ...Reg House passed the eye test implicit in his Midd '33 birthday card but said, "It's getting out of bed in the morning that is difficult." However, he added that he was looking forward to golf this summer. ...Marge Haynes Lacher and Halvor make constant use of a recreation building he fashioned by remodeling an old chicken coop. He put in a furnace, and with the south wall consisting entirely of windows it is bright and sunny and warm, even when the outside temperature is 30 degrees below zero. They have a collection of exercising machines, including an exercycle, trampoline, rowing machine and treadmill. Marge walks 25 to 55 minutes a day on the treadmill and he rides 5 to 6 miles on the exercycle. ...Aaron Newton has been pursuing the hobby of marquetry for the past couple of years. For those who, like your correspondent, have to look it up, marquetry consists of "making inlaid work of variously colored woods or other materials, especially in furniture." He says he has pictures of some of the pieces and we hope he brings them to our 60th Reunion. ...Red Page persuaded Luella to write us a note in mid April while he was finishing their income tax. She said they were planning a trip to Chicago in July, "God willing and the crick doesn't run dry." Hope the IRS refund covered the trip. ...Al Painter had a "delightful trip to Hawaii in October and a month in Florida in January. Otherwise, I enjoyed an exceptionally mild winter." ...In clearing out possessions preparatory to moving into a retirement community, Ruth Redman Southworth came upon a present she made for her mother for Christmas 1929: a booklet of Middlebury town and campus photo postal cards with identifying overlays—e.g., "gymnasium where I play volley ball and have phys. ed." She sent it to us and we plan to have it at the 60th reunion next year, so be sure to look for it when you come. Thank you, Ruth. ...Ginnie Whittier Warthin and Tom are now settled in their new quarters. They went to Paris in mid-March for a 10-day visit with their son, Whit, and his family. ...Helen Wooding wrote in March that Milton was admitted to the Southington Care Center in January. ...George Yeomans has a new address: 2801 NW 83 St., #210, Gainesville, FL 32606. ...Aaron Schefkind wrote, "After living in Newtown, Conn., for 20 years of retirement, Chris and I established a residence in Florida. I have maintained my interest in Masonic affairs and have become a member of the square club. I continue swimming and do a mile a day when the weather permits." New address: 13155 SW 7 Court, E 102, Pembroke Pines, FL 33027 .

Class Secretary: Mrs. Ruth Ells Crane, P.O. Box 1077, Coe St., Winsted, CT 06098.

My husband and I keep busy with our various activities. Our plans for the summer included attending my husband's 60th Reunion at Hamilton and a visit to my daughter, Janis Ells '68, in Louisville, Colo., for a week. ...Congratulations to James Fish, who says he is now (as of December 1991) completely retired from his work in New York City. ...We are sorry to report the death of Clara May Hemenway on April 19, 1992. Her great-grandfather, Asa Hemenway, was a member of the Class of 1835; her grandfather, Lewis H. Hemenway, graduated in 1864; and her uncle, George R. Hemenway, in 1911. Her memorial appears elsewhere in this issue.

Wally Boehm received the highest honor of the Tennessee Medical Association in April when he was named Outstanding Physician of the Year. He was nominated for the honor by the Chattanooga and Hamilton County Medical Society for his life-long dedication to improving medical care for children with birth defects. In an interview with the Chattanooga Times, Wally said that before World War II "there was a complete disinterest in birth defects [which] were considered a hopeless situation." His interest and efforts culminated in the creation in 1963 of the Chattanooga Birth Defects Center, which was renamed in Wally's honor in 1986. He was affiliated with the Neurological Group of Chattanooga for 32 years. His sons, physicians Peter E. and Walter M., practice with the same group. Wally performed the first "shunt" operation for hydrocephalis done in Tennessee. The procedure, which routes fluid from the brain to the heart, is a vast improvement over earlier procedures. The TMA presented Wally with its Distinguished Service award in 1974 and, in the same year, the Sertoma Clubs of Chattanooga honored him with a Service to Mankind Award. The Boehms took a South Pacific tour last winter, visiting the Fiji Islands, New Zealand, Australia and Hawaii. "It was great," he says; "the people wonderful, the scenery magnificent, the weather ideal, and the trip well laid out. We arrived home content but tired." ...Wy Smith has visited Wales and England since our last column. While in London he and Grace attended two plays by G.B. Shaw and a third "modern, stupid one." He writes that "our maple syrup production (1992) was the best ever—made 250 gallons of Grade A." His son, Jonathan, and three grandchildren did most of the work. He and Grace signed on for an Elderhostel at Russell Sage College in July and planned to attend Alumni College in August. "Good to be alive," he closes. ...Since his retirement from Exxon 13 years ago, Francis Cady says he and wife Mozelle "have stayed pretty close to home, where I spend my time puttering around at odd jobs in my house and yard." They still tolerate the heat and humidity of Houston summers for the sake of the mild winters. They traveled to Keystone, Colo., with their two sons and their families in 1990 to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary: "a wonderful and not-to-be-forgotten experience." He writes, "I often think about Middlebury and the many pleasant experiences shared there with classmates and friends. Those were truly great days!" ...Don Brown and wife Jacqueline planned to visit Castine, Maine, in September, to be followed by a trip to Denver to visit their youngest daughter in October. ...Phil Mathewson was just back from wintering in Florida when his note was written in May. "The first assignment," he writes, "is to get the gardens and lawns ready for summer production." Phil and Jean celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary in August. Another cause for celebration, he writes, was the birth this year of their first grandchild. ...Harry Emmons says that he hasn't any news but he writes with enthusiasm of the College: "The news from the College is great. Congratulations to the trustees on their selection of a new president for Middlebury." ...Despite a cold, rainy spring in Connecticut, your secretary (Leland Hunt) furthered a 10-year program of soil improvement, development of an orchard of dwarf fruit trees, perennial beds and vegetables. ...Beth Loomis Baseler writes that she still plays tennis a couple of times a week, which isn't surprising to those who remember the many sports she participated in while at Midd. Besides tennis, a small vegetable garden and several small flower gardens, maintaining a good-sized house, trimming bushes and weeding keep her busy. Part of her "routine," as she calls it, is to see that the trees are topped to maintain her beautiful view of Hartford and beyond. She also finds time to be publicity chairman for a very active Garden Club, to run the Re-Use-It Shop for the church fair and to do "a few other incidentals around town." Wood carving may become another hobby. She traveled to Florida in '91 and to Alaska last summer, but since husband Dick's death, traveling has lost its charm and she is content to stay at home. Her family has grown from two stepsons and two daughters to 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She is in fine shape, with the exception of two cataract operations. She'd have to be with the routine she follows. She extends an invitation to visit when you are in the area. ...From Anna Micante Majors came a short note reminiscing about her years at the University of Florence in Italy and teaching Italian at Wellesley. There she met her future husband who was teaching at M.I.T. No wonder Wellesley has a special charm for her! ...Avis Fischer writes that Louise Fleig Newman visited her in Frederick, Md., and added that our new College president, John McCardell, was a student at Frederick High School while she was teaching there. ...Alice Flagg Tilford sends greetings to the class via her husband Arch Tilford '36. Thank you, Arch, for the note. ...Millie Aubrey Monagan is watching the progress of Middlebury's new Center for the Arts with great interest. It was hoped that it could be open in October. To quote her, "it really is something!" We look forward to details. Millie and Walter went to the Winter Carnival in Quebec but are reluctantly relinquishing extensive travel. "It's not easy to adjust to this new life-style." And so say we all. ...Thanks to Bette Congdon-Martin '71 for news of her mother, Betty Coley Congdon, who was to spend part of June in London and then hurry down to Sagamore for the family July 4th get together. ...Doris Tucker Kniskern's letter was filled with the surprise and delight that the progression of the years sometimes brings. Her granddaughter graduated from Syracuse in May and a grandson expects to do the same next year. She has three married granddaughters and several great-grandchildren. She writes, "My life gets busier every year, or at least it seems so. Perhaps I am slowing down and don't want to admit it. I often think of my wonderful years at Middlebury." ...It is always hard to learn that a classmate has died and even harder to pass it on to the rest of you. But a note from her son informed me that Suzanne Treillet LaBounty passed away suddenly on March 9, 1992. Her son added, "I know she had a great love for and pride in Middlebury. She often talked about the French department and the friends she made in college. ...Though it is inexcusably late, we send our love and sympathy to Louise Fleig Newman whose husband, Hank Newman '33, died last November. ...We have also received the sad news of the death of Ivis Dayton Brush's husband, Howard Brush. We send our sympathy to you, Ivis, and to your family. ...It is delightful to hear of your plans and activities and news of children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. To be complete, the news must include the darker side of our lives as well. To all of you who have faced what you'd rather not, we wish for you a measure of peace and consolation. To all of you—please write. We want to hear from you.

Anniversaries and birthdays sneak up on us quietly and quickly these days, but rarely do the two of them come at one time. As I write this early in the morning of late May of what is going to be another "ho-hum" beautiful day in Arizona, it occurs to me that it will be read, God willing, in the early days of fall 1992. So happy birthday, Middlebury Class of 1936! Happy 60th birthday, because that's when you were born, and happy anniversary to each and every one of you as you mentally celebrate again the memory of those wonderful first days and weeks of that freshman year, when days were mellow and filled with all the happiness and joy and wonder of being a part of the college you chose. The juniors and seniors were golden gods and goddesses. The sophomore men, charged with keeping the freshman men (those callow fellows) on good behavior, took on the pleasant chore of dating the girls of '36—or at least they attempted to date those who had not as yet caught the attention of the junior and senior men. A wonderful fall, that fall of 1932, and wonderful too are the friendships that began then and still exist in this, the fall of '92. ...Katy and Gus Brooks were back on campus in spring for the graduation of granddaughter Megan Richardson and great-nephew Edward Kyle. Granddaughter Susanna Richardson is a sophomore. Gus reports that his medication problem has been solved and that the loss of appetite and weight has been turned around. Katy sounded bright, happy and ebullient, but then she always does. Their pride in their granddaughters bubbles up through their conversation. Gus, like many others, expresses concern over the expansive and expensive building program at the College but, conversely, is a McCardell booster. ...Bill Dawes, while in Phoenix visiting family, called the Howards as he had promised to do. We couldn't pry him away for dinner—maybe next time. He expressed concern and disappointment at the results of the college vs. fraternity confrontation and dismay at the apparent demise of DKE at Middlebury. This is a recurrent theme in many of our talks with members of '36, women as well as men. ...Frank Boyce is still in Sarasota, Fla., where he enjoyed seeing Bill Dawes for a few days as Bill worked his way north from the Keys. Frank's wife died in January after 13 years of debilitating illness. These years were spent in a health care facility. We all know how devastating this can be and wish Frank all the best. He plays golf at least three times a week, hides from the snowbirds and sends good wishes to all of you. ...Stan Gage is happy in Ripton, Vt., and is enthusiastic in his support of John McCardell. He expressed approval of McCardell's prompt and efficient handling of minority protests on campus. (Secretaries' note: Yes, there is unrest on campus and minorities are expressing their concerns to the administration. Shades of the '60s when many of us had sons and daughters in school. What goes around comes around!) Stan plays tennis three times a week and stays even younger by "helping out" with the high school team. ...Things are about the same in the Doug Hall household according to Caroline. Doug is confined to bed with Parkinson's. Bouquets to all of you who dropped him a line. To those of you who forgot, his address is 7098 Bobolink Court, Lake Worth, FL 33467. ...Connie Hoehn is happy and cheerful in West Harwich on Cape Cod. He is active in golf circles on the Cape and reports that they spent 10 days on a golf holiday at the Belmont in Bermuda, as well as enjoying some time in the Lake Worth-Palm Beach area of Florida. ...Dick Hubbard and Vera are well but find that living in close proximity to the campus has some draw-backs these days. Celebrations by the undergraduates vary greatly from those in our day. Their revelry lasts around the clock with a decibel reading that is off the meter and at times ends up with lost characters wandering around perimeter residential areas in states of physical disarray and mental disorientation. ...Ed and Ruth McNulty Howard continue to enjoy Arizona. Minor surgery was planned for Ed in mid-June, cataract removal plus an implant. Had one done three years ago. A trip to Cleveland was also planned for the graduation of our second granddaughter from Hathaway Brown. We could extol her prowess, but that is only what every grandparent does. Suffice it to say she is to attend her first choice in colleges, Amherst, and is a recipient of a major academic scholarship. We are happy to see her at a relatively small New England college. ...Roxanne Lewis Blackmore is writing and phoning to promote AAUW's (American Association of University Women) policies and lobbying before the elections. The Association contends (as I think we all do) that females are not given the full attention that males receive in our educational system. Roxy is chairperson for the Schenectady branch. She also keeps very busy with gardening and volunteering at Girls Inc., an organization with a wide variety of ethnic groups. She expects to return to Midd for the 1996 Reunion and make more "noise" than she did in 1986. ...Frances Whitwell Broad reports not much change in her life. In addition to volunteering two half days at the local library, she is also a volunteer at the Emerson Museum from May to October. Fran has joined a group of gardeners who maintain wild flower gardens connected with a state historic site, a mansion that has been in the same family for more than 100 years. The grounds were acquired by the state at the time of the '76 bicentennial. The Garden Club project greatly improved the existing wild flower area and has become a very popular spot for visitors and sightseers. ...Isabel Davies Emmerich attended a granddaughter's graduation from Macon (in Georgia), followed by a small reunion. Her son, David, is raising sheep and children (ages 13, 11 and 8) on a small farm in New Jersey, where they garden and raise corn and hay to sell to horse farmers. Isabel is active in the American Chemist Society, the Society of Industrial Archaeology and the local Historical Society. They gave up having a television due to poor reception caused by the mountain behind them. ...Anna Mayo keeps busy golfing and gardening. She plans to move to a retirement community, Wake Robin, in Shelburne, Vt. Anna didn't play golf until she retired and plays now at Wilcox Cove, a friendly place for retired people.

Much of the time she doesn't keep score, just gets out and hits the ball. ...Frances Wilkinson Russ has been back to Hancock and is pleased with what the new owners are doing to the old Wilkinson homestead. She's fine and hanging in there. She volunteers at Dewey School and at the State Library, as well as playing lots of duplicate bridge. ...Phyllis Sanderson has taken no trips lately. She says she "smashed" her shoulder in August '91, riding a bike, and hasn't been the same since. However, she bounced back and is in quite good condition now. Lost two and one-half inches in height and is now 4'10" and can't reach anything "up there." One afternoon in May she washed windows when the temperature was 100 degrees in the shade. The next day it was 47 degrees. She is busy with her work on the retirement board, sees that people in the hospital get their Sunshine Baskets, and goes to the theater often. She saw Lauren Bacall and Richard Kiley in Love Letters and Julie Harris in Lettuce and Lovage. She has season tickets to Pops, Boston Ballet and Beverly Music Theater. ...Bless you all, and we leave you with the news that Middlebury's comprehensive fees are now at $22,900. It's much easier to be grandparents than parents in 1992, isn't it?

Class Secretary: Mrs. Barbara Hopkins (Barbara Gregory), 1021 W. Devonshire Road, Delafield, WI 53018, and Rev. Loring D. Chase, 10 Surry Hill Drive, Keene, NH 03431.

Another wonderful three days of returning and remembering, of sharing times "way back when" and the "here and now," some humorous and some sad. However, the feelings of joy at being together again took priority for all 39 attendees of the Class of '37. We missed those of you who were not with us; you were in our thoughts so many times. Name tags were more essential than ever and the large print was helpful but, once these hurdles were passed, conversations were pretty much nonstop. Due to the great job our chairpeople did in sending all of you current notes from many of our classmates, this letter will include only a few additional bits of news received in answer to my last plea for the latest events. ...Cay Branch Frasure's big plans for 1992 included a cruise to Bermuda before reunion, visiting family and friends in New England and, in October, traveling to Australia and New Zealand for a visit with friends they met on previous European tours. In her usual enthusiastic manner, Cay says she loves retirement and the new horizons being opened thereby. ...It was good to catch up on Betty Ann Hunt Greene's pleasant life in the deep south. Her husband managed the New Orleans Symphony for many years and then worked in the development office of the New Orleans Zoo and Tulane University. The Greenes raised three "New Orleans children," all of whom still live in the area. Betty's husband died four years ago. In the last two years she has enjoyed three great trips: an Elderhostel to Sorrento, Italy, a Tulane group trip to China and a trip with daughter Suzy to Rome, Venice and Florence. At home she gardens, volunteers at a hospital, reads with children in a local school and plays some "not very good" golf. ...A correction here: Marion Perkins Hackett really does like retirement. She is happy to be back in St. Albans where she keeps busy with her tennis and duplicate bridge, spending time with her three grandchildren and, of course, enjoying her home on Lake Champlain with a beautiful view of the Adirondacks. No, retirement is really not bad! ...Charles Harvi enjoyed a recent trip to France where he visited Nat Groby and his daughter and granddaughter in Germany. ...Marjorie Fielden Kimball is a bit slowed down by recent foot surgery, but is doing well. She enjoys living near her children in Raleigh, N.C., and was planning to visit her son, Bob, and have the joy of meeting and caring for a brand new grandchild. Hopefully she will then cross the Wisconsin border and get together with your secretary. It's about time some Midd '37ers came this way! ...Joyce W. Kingsley writes of the three G's in his life: 1) grandchildren—now 14 in number and spanning the ages of one month to 25 years; 2) garden—five weeks late due to cold and rain; and 3) golf—no comment. "King" celebrated his 50th wedding anniversary on April 7, 1992. We might add what a humorist this classmate proved to be at our reunion banquet. Funny, funny! ...It was good to hear from Clifford Laws after all of these years. He writes of his most rewarding 60-year ministry, including a hitch as a chaplain in World War II. Although his travel is now somewhat limited by failing eyesight and fatigue, Cliff enjoys a little puttering in his garden, occasional visits from his children and their families, and is happy to remember all his good friends. He sends "hello" to any classmates who might remember "the preacher" who came to classes from his pastorate in New Haven, Vt. ...Harriet Coley Lins is recovering from successful recent eye surgery. She was even able to drive to Washington, D.C., to spend a week with her son and his family! ...Richard Lucas writes that he has been spending much time in the hospital, both in Gloversville and in Florida, and hopes he is "being cured." He has been having many questions regarding the recent leadership in the college and the decisions made concerning the fraternities on campus. ...The big news of this column is that Chuck Chase has agreed to be co-class secretary. You may all anticipate a letter from him from time to time, as well as an improved and excellent news column for '37.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Herbert Ellison (Virginia Fischer), Wood River Village, 3200 Bensalem Blvd., #C102, Bensalem, PA 19020, and Bruce Brown, RD 2, Box 167, Hamilton, NY 13346.

While Becki Abbott Brooks was in San Francisco last winter, she attended a Midd reception where she met and heard then acting President John McCardell. She was very impressed. ...Emory Hebard's wife of 51 years died in April, following a long and courageous fight with cancer. Em plans a trip to Okinawa to visit his oldest grandson, a major in the Air Force. ...Jean Dusenbury Brown is moving to the Phoenix area where she will be near her daughter. As of October 1 her address is 10604 West Runion Drive, Peoria, AZ 85382. She says her "health and activity are 150 percent of normal." Great! ...Janet Randall Cook Morgan has had a busy, interesting, happy and sad year. In August of '91, about 150 attended the 200th anniversary celebration of the Cook family settling in Mt. Holly, Vt. Her mother died in January at the age of 100. In February she spent three weeks in Florida, followed by three weeks in France, where they met a granddaughter. "After 60 years our French was not that good," she states. The spring was taken up with weddings and graduations. ...Betty MacCulloch Mattox spent three weeks in Spain in the winter, "mostly driving around—down steps once when we couldn't back up." Betty was looking forward to a fall get-together with Polly Overton Camp, Jean Hoadley Dudley and Betty Osborne Hadden. ...Jim and Florence Hulme Miner enjoyed a great trip to the antiquities of Egypt from Alexandria to Abee Simbel, including a four-day cruise on the Nile. ...Ginny Fischer Ellison had a taste of our 55th coming up in '93 when she attended husband Herb's 55th at Midd last May. ...Mark the date! May 28-30, 1993—55th Reunion for the Class of '38. ...We have lost two valued members of the class recently; Richard J. Sheehy died on February 25. Virginia Howe Hay passed away on March 21. Their memorials appeared in the Summer issue of the Magazine.

Class Secretary: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Murray (Gertrude Bittle), P.O. Box 303, 6 Wilson Road, Cornwall on Hudson, NY 12520.

We are very pleased to announce that Tom and Gertrude Bittle Murray have graciously agreed to be '39 class secretaries until our 55th Reunion in 1994. Be sure to send all of your news to them at the above address. Outgoing secretary Ruth Coleman Skinner reports: Stat and Mary Louise Race Tonge moved last December to the Quail Ridge section of Spartanburg, S.C., near Bolling Springs. They are enjoying the area very much, especially the pleasant weather in the winter months. Mary Lou anticipates spending the rest of her life landscaping their new home, with all the birds and wildlife in mind. ...Frank and Betty Anne Dunning Jones were in Springfield, Vt., visiting Sherb '38 and Marjorie Kohr Lovell in April. Ruth Coleman Skinner and Borden and Louise Roberts Avery joined them for lunch at the Norwich Inn. Betty Anne and Frank are making new friends and associations in Fort Collins, Colo. They do miss Vermont but are happy to be close to their son's and daughter's families. ...Roger Thompson's planned trip to the East last year was aborted when he developed a blood clot in his leg and ended up in the hospital. He and Marilyn are bemoaning their daughter's move with family to Green Bay, Wis., a distance of 200 miles. ...John Golembeske wrote to thank your secretaries for the birthday card. He would like to hear more from classmates. ...Coco Ferrier Wade and Pat Brewer Chadwick went on another Victory Chimes windjammer cruise during the first week in June. A cold trip, but they go prepared with flannel pajamas, etc., plus "a pack of cards for a below-deck game of bridge." ...A note from Joyce MacKenzie Cropsey to Coco in April mentioned Joyce had damaged her left hip in a December fall, resulting in surgery and a ball/joint replacement. With spring's arrival, Joyce was out cleaning the bluebird house, starting tomato plants and planning the vegetable garden. ...Thor and Carol Miner Gustafson are finding their home and grounds in Brookside more of a challenge. Although they are grateful for every day together in good health, they feel they are slowing down and should make a move. The deer have discouraged them from pursuing their flower garden, but Thor still has a vegetable garden which is surrounded by an electric fence. ...Marjorie Marsh Veronneau moved back to Burlington on June 23: 38 Hayes Ave., South Burlington, VT 05403. Her son-in-law has finished his Ph.D. in statistics at Cornell and will take up his tenure at St. Michael's College in Winooski. "Ithaca was fun but we love Vermont too!" ...Tennis, golf, reading, traveling, yard work and building things are keeping Boyd Carr young and healthy. The Carrs went to Europe last year to visit their youngest daughter and family who were living temporarily in Amsterdam. They saw a lot of Europe in too short a time: "Even Northwest Airlines couldn't find my luggage until I got home." Because the winters up north are too long for them, the Carrs spend two months in Ponto Vedra, Fla., playing golf, tennis and beachcombing for shark's teeth. In the summer, Boyd plays super senior's tennis in the over-75 doubles! A lot of fun, great camaraderie and visiting exciting places like Longwood outside Boston. Boyd reminisced about the bull sessions in John Kirk's room on the top floor of Hepburn, sometimes with Duke Nelson '32 present. "Those were the Days. Golden Years?"

Class Secretaries: Bob and Bobbie Plumer Alden, 51 Otterside Court, Middlebury, VT 05753.

Patty May wrote that she hated to say it but, due to her back, she has moved into a retirement home in Kennebunk, Maine. She misses her garden—but at least she is near the beach, which is always a good place to be. ...We had a nice note from Ed Reichert thanking Bob for the snapshot of the Class of '41's Chi Psi group. Ed, who said he was impressed with the healthy appearance of the group, was sorry not to have been able to be there to greet them personally. He says he has no other exciting news—no travels, no awards and no more grandchildren. ...Stanley J. Moore served as dean for the Troy Conference Summer Learning Fellowship School of Christian Mission at Green Mountain College. He is serving the Ballston Spa United Methodist Church as interim pastor from July 1, 1992, until June 30, 1993. ...Congratulations to Donald J. Noonan, who celebrated 50 years of wedded bliss on April 4, 1992. They spent their second honeymoon at Williamsburg, Va., and Atlantic Beach, N.C. Afterward, they visited their daughter and family in Brookhaven, Pa., and then prepared for their annual trip to their summer cottage in Rushford, N.Y. ...Your secretaries, Bob and Bobbie Plumer Alden returned to their summer home at West Dennis, Cape Cod, where they enjoyed being beach bums once again. We are most interested in seeing the recovery that the trees and shrubs are making after the devastation caused by Hurricane Bob last August. ...Please send us any news you might have. We would like to hear from all of you. Just send the notes to our home address and we will be able to keep our class column alive!

Class Secretaries: Topsy Wadlund House, RD 1, Box 3039, Hyde Park, VT 05655, and Lester W. Ingalls, P.O. Box 583, Middlebury, VT 05753.

Writing these notes during reunion week 1992 brings to mind the joys of yesteryear. What a glorious time we had! Your letters and cards continue to remind us. Keep 'em coming. ...Ol' Gordo Brooks, as he signs himself, wrote from Sarasota, Fla., about his experiences as a Navy frogman, or SEAL as officially designated now, during WWII. He is on the board of directors of the SEAL Museum in Fort Pierce, Fla., where they trained then and also where all the SEALS since have trained for big and little wars—Korea, Vietnam, Panama, Granada and the Persian Gulf. Otherwise, friend Brooks plays a lot of tennis and "enjoys the off-season" at his Florida resort. Originally from Woodstock, Vt., he saw that summer place become a winter sports haven because a Dartmouth alum saw a ski tow in Europe and cloned it to Vermont. ...Al Coffrin, our most honorable, continues his valuable activities in the judge business, now elevated to Senior Judge of the United States District Court in the Second Circuit at Burlington, Vt. ...Charlie De La Vergne went on the Middlebury Galapagos voyage in January: "A wonderful adventure and a great group of people from all the colleges. Good to see Dave '40 and Mary (Polly) Ruby Goodell and Bert MacFadden '39. Midd biology professor Sallie Sheldon knew her stuff!" ...Don Kitchin's first grandchild, Anne Evelyn, arrived last February. She is the daughter of son David and wife Katie, who live in Seabrook, Md. "We have many wonderful memories of the 50th," says Don. ...Priscilla and John Hicks were off to L.A. in May for a visit with Frank and Jan Day. John stays busy with editing assignments from the University of California Press and index preparation while enjoying the good life at their chalet in Carmel, Calif. ...Duke Latham wrote in March that he and Peg had just returned from La Jolla, Calif., where they visited relatives and participated in an inter-club tennis match with the La Jolla Seniors who would return the challenge in a home-and-home series at Boar's Head Sports Club in Charlottesville, Va., in May. During the year Duke heard from Fred Butler, who had dined with Pat and Bill Bursaw, and also enjoyed an airport lunch with ol' Gordo B. in Florida. You really get around, Duke! "The glow of the 50th still clings. In case you didn't know why the Chi Psi's were so boisterous at the reunion, when Don Chapman arrived for the final night dinner, we had 100 percent of all living members of our pledge class present!" Perfect gentlemen, as always. ...Bob Martin wrote in April from his Florida home that he had talked on the phone with Roger Griffith and Bill McMahon. Great to keep in touch. Bob and Toni have spent many summers in Vermont and planned to be at Telemark Village in Killington again this year from July to October first. ...Ed and Connie Girard Brown celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in May with a trip to Virginia. The real celebration was to be in August when children, grandchildren and friends would all be available. ...Jane Skillman Sara has been commuting from northern Virginia to New Jersey to be with her 97-year-old mother—who had a heart attack on Christmas Day, when in Virginia. Jane gets together with Marge Barkdull on a regular basis. They also keep in touch with Audrey Hope Wouters, who is often in New Jersey with her mother (age 98), who still lives alone. ...Robbie (Evelyn) Robinson Sedgwick informs us that her true, updated address is 1112 Main St., Waldboro, ME 04572. They have lived in the same house for nearly 15 years but the town has changed the address three times! They still adore Maine and, except for late spring and summer when the shop is open, they get into the car and explore the state nearly every day. ...Dingy Vernon Wright sent Joe House several copies of Foundation, a Navy magazine. One had a very interesting article by Dr. Stephen A. Freeman, Naval Aviator #1091. If anyone would like a copy, contact Joe or Topsy. Dingy and Rose were hoping to get to Vermont this summer for a mini-reunion with the Wrights, the Houses, Red and Ginny Brooks Huttons and any other available classmates. ...Barbara Baruzzi writes that she kept reliving Reunion all winter long. Didn't we all? She enjoyed her years of teaching French and had many talented and capable students. One of them went to Midd and was valedictorian of her class. Barbara is looking forward to the 55th and continuing to renew old friendships. ...In March, Bill and B. Grow Grim took a trip to Pensacola. While there they had lunch with Packy (Ruth) Packard Jones in Destin. They had a wonderful time but all too brief, as they both wrote. Packy went to Maine in early June, stopping in Essex Junction with daughter Sue. She took a side trip to Hyde Park to see the Houses. Again, all too brief. ...Among other things, Charles and Doris Wolff Bartlett's daughters gave them plane tickets to Paris for their 50th anniversary in 1991. On May 18, they left for a six-week trip, primarily in France and Germany. They also have their first great-grandchild! ...Jean Connor visited Amsterdam, Paris, and Nice in early '92. The highlight of the trip was a Rembrandt exhibition. ...A class vignette: Not only were Ellen Currie Hill and B. Grow Grim born the same day, but they both lived in Brooklyn, N.Y., and their mothers pushed their prams in Prospect Park. Many years later, although each had moved, they ended up in the same class in the same small college in the little state of Vermont. ...Joe and Topsy Wadlund House took their spring trip to Tucson this year. It was a long drive, but worth it to see the sights along the way and return to the Southwest. All the cacti but saguaros were in bloom, snow was on the high peaks, and we even saw antelope playing in eastern Colorado. ...As the lion said as he finished his lunch, "That's the end of the Gnus. I'll be back in a moment with the sports and the weather." Let us know how it is out there!

Class Secretaries: Mr. and Mrs. William Andrews (Margaret Buscher), 107-A Heritage Village, Southbury, CT 06488.

Outgoing secretaries John and Nancy Rindfusz Bates report: What happy memories we have of our 50th reunion weekend! Middlebury stands alone among colleges in rolling out the red carpet. The events planned by the College were outstanding! Our class also came through in attendance and 99 percent participation in the class gift. With so many of our classmates present (76, plus 38 spouses), you've probably all heard about our reunion. A special honor, election to Phi Beta Kappa, was bestowed on Peter Stanlis and Charles Sanford. We missed those of you who couldn't make it. Here are some messages from those not present. ...Irv Senne sent best wishes with a lovely song from the Middlebury song book, "Alma Mater of the Snows," and said he was enjoying a mini-reunion via the class book and complimented the book committee. ...Alice Taylor Thornycroft had planned to attend but cataract surgery nixed that. She volunteers at the local Children's Hands-On Museum and had over 30,000 visitors to herd around. ...Dan Davis had a long siege in the hospital in South Carolina but now is back home in California. He would like info about Bill Blackmore '40. ...Betty Hamann sent best wishes to all from the Dominican Republic. No, she hasn't moved there. ...Heidi Miller Scheuck made it as far as Florida to visit her sister and planned to come to reunion, but her boss needed her back in the office. She sent a warm hello to everyone. ...Parke Wright wrote he had fond memories of life at Middlebury, the friendliness of the students, playing saxophone with the Black Panthers and with fraternity sports. ...Charlie Morse hoped to make it but found too many road blocks. ...Scott Morrow is still pursuing info about Eddie Gignac. He also sent best wishes. ...Bea Simpler Braun and husband had to cancel at the last minute because her husband became ill. We hope by now he's fully recovered. We were all looking forward to seeing you, Bea, and hearing first hand about your experiences in Korea. ...John Corbin and his wife couldn't make it. He's been busy in retirement finishing the legal portion of Willard Gorman's The Complete Book of Research, to be published this year. He sent a gift to the Middlebury library, an autographed copy of his book, Find the Law in the Library. He asked to be remembered to his good friends and classmates. John's new address is 1111 Airport Freeway, Suite 147, Irving, TX 75062; phone 214-264-1370. ...The following had these remarks: Elma Boyer: Fabulous reunion! She keeps busy with church work and was going to England again this summer. ...Elinor Dickie Rankin: Still doing physical therapy part time for the hospital home care department. ...Bill and Meg Buscher Andrews had a wonderful trip to four islands in Hawaii and can't decide which one they liked best. ...Tony Wishinski was excited about reunion and thanks everyone who worked on it. ...Howie and Margaret Fell Council enjoyed an extended trip east by the southern route and returned across the north. They loved reunion and appreciated the student hosts. "A visit to Middlebury restoreth the soul." ...F. Alfred "Bo" Patterson Jr.: "How utterly blessed we are by our association with Middlebury staff and students (both past and present), as shown by our 50th Reunion." His only scheduled recent travel was a trip to Las Vegas to visit a new granddaughter and a two-year-old grandchild. ...Marcia Sanders thought it was great to renew friendships and see what had become of everyone. ...Bill and Virgie Witte Miller felt the trip from Arizona was worth it. ...Dottie Milligan Schuck said "reunion was perfect and convocation a very moving experience. Having our class applauded when entering the chapel was a surprise and caused an undescribable new emotion. How proud we were of our class participation. ...Bob Bredenberg thought reunion super and wouldn't have missed it! ...Carl Richardson and Josephine were impressed with the many changes on campus. They feel it's truly a beautiful place to pursue an education and well equipped to enter the next century. They will remember their visit for a long time. ...Mary Eimer Leinbach said, "It was a special treat to hear President McCardell speak four times." She loved the whole weekend, seeing old friends and particularly making new ones. The golf was fun and the view from Kirk beautiful. "There was a lot of love there and the common denominator was that we were the lucky ones to make it back." ...Charlie and Ruth Taylor Clapper looked pretty good for great grandparents! Had an unforgettable weekend with classmates. "Has it really been 50 years?" ...Robert Ryan and Pat were off on a long trip after reunion to New York State, Milwaukee for a squadron reunion, California to visit a son and, in December, a Mississippi steamboat from New Orleans to Vicksburg. (Don't miss the battleground there!) ...John Comstock now has a part-time job as a village trustee appointed by the mayor. ...Dixie Davis capably ran the golf tournament, then won it! ...Myrtle Bestick Sylvester wrote, "It was a wonderful weekend. Everything was done for our comfort, convenience and pleasure. Thanks to everyone who worked on it." ...Hope Rood Redway: "I had a most fantastic time at our 50th. It was well worth the trip from England. A fun time, an emotional time, an enriching time as we renewed old friendships and fell in love again with the beautiful campus, and especially those magnificent Green Mountains." ...June Perry Conklin: "50th reunion was a great success in all ways. Even the weather was kind with beautiful sunshine, a far cry from the weather we had as entering freshmen." ...Wilfred Ouimette: "This was the best reunion of any class or year in the history of the College. President McCardell's talks were excellent and very informative, the entertainment and other activities could not have been better. It was great to see so many classmates." ...Joan Calley Cooper: "50th reunion weekend was a delightful nostalgia trip, an abundance of cheerful chats, a series of pleasant experiences—four days I wouldn't have missed for most of the wine in California." ...Lucille Plasman Grosse: "I almost didn't come but am glad I did to renew acquaintances. I was very impressed with the new president and believe he is just the person to lead Middlebury in a positive direction." ...Jean Dermott Burhans had a second 50th reunion at Johns Hopkins with her husband. Then a visit with friends and family and a trip to Northern Ireland at the end of June. ...Sue Hulings Ottinger and Harry had a fantastic weekend. Sue ran the tennis tournament and her presentation of the prizes was the comedy hit of the weekend. They had a March vacation in Costa Rica which they recommend for bird watchers and environmentalists. ...Roger Arnold: "It was great to see so many classmates in such good health." ...Hope Barton Fitzpatrick had a glorious time and appreciated the bus and van service and the student helpers. ...Helen Hooley Young was up north for the summer and enjoyed reunion. "The college outdid itself in gracious hospitality." ...Harriet Tillinghast Fuller and Hope Rood Redway managed the memorabilia room that had many interesting displays, including a table of pictures of Robert Frost loaned by Peter Stanlis. Peter wrote a beautiful poem, To the Class of 1942 on its Fiftieth Reunion, which he read at our banquet. The committee chairpeople not mentioned before were Mary Clough Johnstone and Bill Hennefrund (Class Book); Phil and Betty Blanchard Robinson and Jack and Nancy Rindfusz Bates (the Gift Committee); Tony Wishinski (Hospitality); and the banquet entertainment was created and performed by Charles and Dodie Watson Kitchell and their able actors, Dick and Cherry Dionne Files and Allan and Sarah Tyler Vickers. They presented Pictures at an Exhibition, which recalled our college years, the carefree time leading to the war. Now, to tie up our reunion, our whole class owes a big debt of gratitude to Betsy Gleason, who led us, prodded us and kept us on the straight and narrow, as well as putting in long hours keeping everything moving on schedule all weekend. Who will ever forget her doing the highland fling, or whatever it was, to amuse us while we waited for the photographer to take our class picture! The Bates were overwhelmed with the generosity of the class. The crystal heart presented us is beautiful! Our thanks to you all and especially the committee members who made our 50th a success. You're a great group! We've enjoyed being your secretaries. This is our final entry, as Bill and Meg Buscher Andrews take over from here. As the Ella Fitzgerald song says, "We'll meet again, don't know where, don't know when. But we'll meet again some sunny day!"

Class Secretaries: Mrs. A. Cutler Silliman (Kathryn Sempepos), 279 Chestnut St., Fredonia, NY 14063, and Dr. S. Peter Nikitas, 41 Stonehenge Road, Pittsfield, MA 01201.

For your class secretaries not a week goes by without a letter or phone call relating to our 50th Reunion. Like you, we have struggled to compress 50 years of living into a one-page autobiography for our anniversary yearbook. The yearbook committee—Chick Johnson Doe and Roger Easton, co-chairs, Barbara Counsell Atwood, Bing and Ann Cole Byington, Jim Clark, Lois Groben Gilmore, Helen Bouck Hildebrandt and Evelyn Young Shepard—promise delivery by mid-December. If you're not yet caught up in 50th Reunion fever, browsing through this collection of memories should do the trick! ...Carolyn Ohlander De Podwin writes that she and Horace are still "unretired." She is a real estate broker whose activity has slowed down somewhat because of the recession. The birth of grandchild #4 kept them from attending our 45th Reunion. Since #5 was born in April, Carolyn says they feel safe in planning on the 50th. ...Mary (Polly) Hickcox Lecko has achieved some kind of record by attending all but one of the Middlebury Alumni College sessions. She worked for several years in her town public library and continues to do volunteer work there. The Leckos' four children are grown and scattered; one daughter lives with her family in Curacao, a good reason for Mary to travel south. Expect to see Mary at reunion! ...Denise Aubuchon Ouellette sends greetings and a nostalgic 1941 photo of nine junior women gathered in Yvonne Golding Weinhardt's room at the Chateau, listening to music and knitting. Do you remember the occasion—Jean, Ibi, Bookie, Alice, Bobbie, Putt, Yvonne? (For you mathematicians, Denise and Kay were the other two). The music was supplied by a portable wind-up record player. How times have changed! In August the Ouellettes enjoyed a reunion with their seven children and their families on Frye Island, Maine. ...Two address changes: Elizabeth Scherholz Pell, 1202 Cotorro Ave., Coral Gables, FL 33146; Evelyn Young Shepard, R.R. 3, Box 526, Halladay Road, Middlebury, VT 05753. ...I wish I could include all the news from the active lives of Rod and Virginia Clemens Lowman (their Christmas letter was four single-spaced pages). Highlights follow: Ginny continues as an adjunct chemistry professor at SUNY College at Westbury and as co-chair with Roger Easton of our 50th Reunion Gift project. Wanting to learn more about endangered rain forests and global warming, the Lowmans spent three weeks at an Elderhostel in Brazil. Their Christmas note included a picture of them, wearing broad-brimmed hats and life vests, floating down the Amazon. The caption reads, "Traveling the backwaters of the Amazon in search of capybara, world's largest rodent, as large as a pig." Can you top this?...Albert and Elaine Herron Hadley departed Ohio when Al retired. They have settled in Sedgwick, Maine, a small town which lies between the fashionable peninsulas of Bar Harbor and Boothbay. In summer they sail the coastal waters; in winter they escape to Hilton Head. The Hadleys hope to see "the rest of us grey-hairs next May." Lonny's note paper featured a spotted owl, which, she says, reflects their deep interest in the environment. ...Giles and Nancy Cowgill Zimmerman, who spent their summer in Japan and China, will also join us in May. ...Ed Grosvenor sent in a short note: He's already packing for the 50th Reunion. ...Stanley Tupper writes that since January 1992 he has been a regular panelist on a weekly political talk show, called Mainely Issues. It's on WMTW-TV, an ABC affiliate. Stan is a Boothbay Harbor attorney. He has had a long and distinguished career in government service. He is a former state legislator and congressman. He has also served as a U.S. ambassador, an International Fisheries Commissioner and a U.S. border patrolman. ...Think about this, classmates. Do the old nicknames still pertain, or have they slipped away? Inky, Bounce, Bing, Cressey, Scotty, Chum, Fritz, to name a few. What's in a name? Whatever you're called these days, it'll be wonderful to see you again next May.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Charles A. Brown (Elizabeth Broadbent), 1190 Princeton Lane, West Chester, PA 19380, and David Stebbins, 5 Brennan Drive, Bryn Mawr, PA 19010.

Frances and Jean Hebert have been heavily involved in volunteer work since retirement three years ago. Jean recently completed 1,000 hours with the New Milford, Conn., Hospital and has worked with Habitat for Humanity and the Christmas in April program, while Frances is busy with the Thrift Mart and Friends of the Library. Jean continues his music activities, playing with a group for senior citizens and nursing home shut-ins. No more night "gigs" though. Mixed in with all these activities the Heberts manage to find time for an occasional trip. Last October they visited the canyons of Arizona and Utah with their "breath-taking scenery." Grandchildren and golf occupy the rest of their time. As Jean says, "I wouldn't work this hard for money." ...Nancy and Malcolm Collin enjoyed a two-week "holiday" in St. John, Virgin Islands, last April, accompanied by two of their sons, one daughter and seven grandchildren (ages 2 to 10); a joyful experience but different from previous trips with adults or older grandchildren. Last year the Collins took their Volkswagen van on a 63-day tour of the country from Plattsburgh, N.Y., to Glacier Park, Victoria, Seattle, Yosemite, Grand Canyon, Tucson, Albuquerque, New Orleans, Pensacola and much, much more. ...Dave and Irmy Nierhaus '48 Stebbins paid their second visit to their new (13-month-old) granddaughter in Breckenridge, Colo., last winter. Beautiful country, both winter and summer. Beautiful granddaughter, too! They also attended the Middlebury Alumni College Seminar at Bryn Mawr College last spring. This is a biennial well-attended one-day affair with Professor of English David Littlefield, this year presenting "A Case History of Mythology's Most Notable Frequent Flyers, Daedalus and Icarus." A most enjoyable day. ...Tom Rooney still calls Newport, Vt., home but has a place in New Smyrna, Fla., where he and Yvette spend the winter months. Tom keeps in touch with Art Pepin who, he says, is doing fine and who was recently honored by the Boy Scouts of America. Following his retirement from the U.S. Customs Service several years ago, Tom's position as assistant judge, Superior Court of Orleans County, continued to keep him busy and he has served as president of the Assistant Judges Association of the State of Vermont. Tom plans on making the trip to Middlebury in '94. ...Bob Liebert worked with Tom Rooney and retired from the U.S. Customs Service in 1978, moving to Sanford, N.C., in "Duke Country" and not far from Pinehurst. Bob and Dave Stebbins find that they had similar war time experiences. They each ran into Art Pepin on Guam. Art was awaiting a Marine-sponsored trip to Okinawa, Bob was piloting B-29's to Japan, and Dave was anchored safely in the harbor. Bob has a son living in Windsor, Vt., with a cottage on Lake Dunmore, and a daughter who is supervisor of export operations for Coty International, a division of Pfizer Corp. Bob admits to a few "aging problems" which may prevent a trip to Middlebury in '94, but would like to combine reunion with a stay at Dunmore, if possible. ...Two well-written book reviews in the New Yorker by Louis Menand, caught the eye of "Tommy" Ring Hennefrund. She kindly called Lou's writing ability to our attention with the thought that we might mention it in the column. To our surprise, Louis Menand of literary fame is the son of Louis Menand III, Class of '44. Dad retired three years ago after 25 years as a political science professor and assistant provost at M.I.T. His wife, Catherine, who wrote legal history for the Mass. Law Review, retired at the same time from her job as director of archives and records for the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, saying, "I didn't want to miss the fun." The Menands travel a lot, mostly to Italy with stops along the way. Lou enjoys the calls he has received congratulating him on his second career. ...Betty Broadbent Brown has enjoyed working for a tax counseling service for the elderly during February, March and April. The nation-wide program is sponsored by AARP, working with the IRS. We have a week of intensive training and learn a lot. Have any classmates been involved in this program? Your two class secretaries and spouses, quite by chance, went to New Bern, N.C., in May. Dave and Irmy Nierhaus '48 Stebbins visited Atlantic Beach for a week with four other couples, Sperry-Univac friends. Betty and Charlie stopped in New Bern to look for a new house. The Browns have sold their Villanova, Pa., home and are looking for a minimum upkeep house on a golf course! All suggestions welcomed. ... William and Catherine Cadbury Lambe have decided to sell their home on Longboat Key, Fla., and move in with their horses at Myrkka City. As reported earlier, Kit and Bill have bought a 400-acre old cattle ranch in central Florida and built a barn for their five horses with small living quarters and a big hay loft on the upper level. Kit says they found themselves spending so much more time at the horse farm than in Longboat Key that they decided to enlarge their barn-living space and move there full time. The Lambes enjoy riding, jumping and dressage. Kit competes in nearby shows, but Bill doesn't enter shows at all—he is enjoying his retirement after 36 years as a civil engineering professor at M.I.T. The Lambes have five children who are scattered: a son is a professor at North Carolina State; a daughter is in Londonderry, N.H.; a son in Seattle; a son is a doctor in Rehobeth, Mass.; a daughter is a registered nurse near Richmond; and 14 grandchildren! Kit's father was a Quaker missionary doctor in Canton, China, where Kit grew up. She and her siblings lived and attended school on the university campus in Canton until eighth grade, when they went off to boarding school in Shanghai and then to the Philippines. Shortly after the Cultural Revolution in China the Lambes were gifted with tickets to go back to Hong Kong and Canton and were able to visit the hospital where her father had worked until he was 71 years old. Kit says she was surprised to find one doctor who remembered her father, having worked with him before the Communist regime. All the physical aspects of the area had been allowed to deteriorate but, she has heard, have been recently restored. ...Frederick '45 and Priscilla Bryant Kelly are active in community affairs in their retirement home in Belfast, Maine. Fred retired 20 years ago from the FAA. He had been a pilot with the Air Force and then Northeast Airlines. His work with the FAA took them all over the country while raising their three daughters and a son. Now, Priscilla says, "once the boats are pulled in October in Maine, there's not much to look forward to until Memorial Day!" So they hope to sell their home and return to a condo in Woodstock, Vt., Fred's hometown, where they can "watch the skiing, even if we can't do it!" ...The Kellys' recently married son, James, who is a vice president with Chase Manhattan Bank in New York City, moved to Pelham, N.Y., in May. Their daughters have blessed them with 12 grandchildren so far! Priscilla sees Miriam Fleming Hale occasionally and tells us Mimi went back to school three years ago and got her degree at the University of Maine. She now works in the medical records department of an Augusta, Maine, hospital. The Hales have four children, two boys and two girls. ...We enjoy hearing from you and would like more of you to send us news of your activities. So keep those cards and letters coming. Your classmates really appreciate it!

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Winslow Wetherbee Jr. (Barbara Boyden), 1642 18th St., Cuyahoga Falls, OH 44223, and Alan Wolfley, 22 Canaan Close, New Canaan, CT 06840.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Ralph E. Shikes on March 28, 1992. He was the husband of Ruth Collins Shikes. As a writer, he focused on the social and political aspects of art and caricature. He was president of the Public Concern Foundation from 1975 to 1991. In 1979 he established the Shikes Fellowship in Civil Liberties and Civil Rights at Harvard Law School. Ralph was a good and generous friend to Middlebury and to the Middlebury group that enjoys a weekend reunion each August at the home of Betty Hatcher Hruby. His warmth and wit and involvement in causes for human justice and welfare have enriched many over the years. Ralph was the founder of the now widespread "Parents Without Partners" and the Creative Arts Rehabilitation Center in New York. Our sympathy goes out to Ruth and their daughters, Katherine Fredman and Jennifer Haines. ...Jean Williams Schoch has been elected to another term on the Housing Authority in her area. She helped to sponsor a pilot program for support services to single parent families. Financial help came from local service groups and area businesses. The program was an outstanding success for adults as well as for children. Jean has also served on the Prison Advisory Committee, the Acton Conservation Trust and the League of Women Voters. ...Jean Crawford, who retired two years ago, is still enjoying the house, her cats, her garden and traveling. She was off to Hong Kong and China this summer. ...James MacKenzie has a new address: 4320 Schoodic Lake Toad, Brownville, ME 04414. He will be spending summers at Schoodic Lake and winters in Dunedin, Fla.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Donald T. Means (Mary Nasmith), 3414 Miller Heights Road, Oakton, VA 22124, and Sheila Schmidt (Hamilton) Rowland, 1152 East St., Southington, CT 06489.

In February, Bill and I (Sheila Schmidt Rowland) did a week of sailing in the Caribbean, having rented a 42-foot boat crewed by us and my son, Michael '74, his wife, Daria, and his daughter, Megan, together with Bill's youngest son and his wife. We had a wonderful time visiting almost all of the British Virgin Islands. It is a bit of a euphemism to say that I crewed, not being a sailor by trade. But I can claim some of the onboard cooking and they were nice enough to say that the cook is as important as any crew member. We had some trepidation that the happy, smiling faces of our departure might be something else after a week in such close quarters but good humor prevailed and we remain good friends as well as relatives. ...Kelley DeLong Desmond is still a skier, traveling to Cortina in Italy last winter. The thought gives me pause! However, she did sustain some injuries this year and came home early for treatment. She is already planning her return so the spirit remains indomitable and hopefully the body will follow suit. Word has it they go together! It was fun to talk to her! ...When Roy and Fran Tenney Coombs returned from Florida, Fran reported hearing from Eileen Luz Johnston, who was checking out who in the Middlebury New Jersey group would be able to visit with Cindy Darby Westmoreland and Neal who were heading north in early June. Fran thought Barbara Flink Ewels, Jean Schwab Schork, herself and spouses would be able to be there. ...Wondering where Bill and Janet Shaw Percival were at reunion time produced a phone call to Delaware and a good conversation with Bill who retired last year. Missing reunion had not been their intent by any means, but a long-planned trip to Scandinavia was rescheduled several times and eventually occurred right when they had planned to attend the 45th. They have purchased a winter home in Dunellon, Fla. Bill mentioned they had fun visiting with Betty Hurd Wyant and her husband, John, there.

Jan and Bill's daughter's family, including two grandchildren, live in Gainesville where she is a faculty member at the Univ. of Florida. They also have a son living in Newton, Mass. Cape Cod also is home to them and they had lunch with Kay Craven while vacationing there last summer. ...The Hilton Head experience continues to be a highlight for those gathering there yearly. The Westmorelands are marvelous hosts. This year Vava Stafford Brown and Ross, Joan Campbell Shaw and Doug, Marilyn Arey McGeehan, Mary Caswell Jones and Bill and I made up the group. It is a lot of tennis for some, a lot of beach for others and also some golf. Charades have become an integral evening activity. It is classic Middlebury for those of us who lived out the war years at the College on the Hill, a small group with very special memories. Marilyn Arey McGeehan, "Breezie," went from there to her 50th reunion at Cushing Academy and wrote a glowing account of her visit with her Cushing roommate and others, saying, "Who says you can't go back?" I imagine a lot of us will be making this trip into our pasts. Send along your thoughts about it. ...I am sorry to report that our classmate, Joyce Mickey Erdman, died on February 11, 1992. Our sympathy is extended to her widower, Marshall. ...Congratulations to Edward C. Andrews Jr., who was awarded an honorary degree at the 1992 UVM commencement exercises. Ed's career includes dean of the Medical School at UVM, followed by the presidency of the college from 1970-1975. He then went to Portland, Maine, to assume the presidency of Maine Medical Center, from which he retired three years ago. His wife reports he has been fishing ever since. I enjoyed chatting with Jean. Our families have an ongoing connection at the next generation down. Jean also mentioned that one of her tennis partners is Betsy Barclay Wales. ...Carol Becker Hutchinson writes that it is a "keep busy" year for her. I am sure you all know that her husband, "Hutch," died last December. Chris has been in India for three weeks attending the wedding of the daughter of Hutch's former secretary. Chris notes that the Hindu festivities went on for days. She also spent a similar time in Florida with her sister and included a stop in Roanoke, Va., to visit with Allie Lou Bull who continues her post-retirement research, breeding fruit flies. ...Emory '44 and Charlotte Broemel Mersereau are still in Delaware. When I spoke with Charlotte, Emory had just sold his business where she in recent years had been employed. Charlotte used her language skills in her first job after graduation, working with a Dutch financier and doing his correspondence in German and French. From there she went on to a law firm where she set up their computer system and handled their finances. Charlotte was a gold medal-winning ice skater and mentioned an ice show put on in the freezing cold of the old outdoor hockey rink. She remembers Peg Romer Jones as one of the participants but couldn't remember others. Does anyone? It would be fun to know! ...New addresses sent from the College include Joanne Davis Hohmeister, P.O. Box 1074, Winsted, CT 06098; Carol Becker, 212 Sherwood Drive, Southport, CT 06490; Mary Caswell Jones, 4501 N. Wheeling 7 A-306, Muncie, IN 47304; Ann Curry Munier, 462B Heritage Hills, Somers, NY 10589.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Robert E. Fry (Betsy Hornaday), 405 Vassar Ave., Swarthmore, PA 19081, and Mrs. Benjamin W. Heath (Joyce Walsh), 13 Marble St., Brandon, VT 05733.

Outgoing secretaries George and Joanne Buckeridge Booth report: Just as film clips bring back to mind the movies of the past, so do our "memory clips" of the 45th class reunion, featuring some 30 classmates and another 20 or so of their spouses/friends. Beautiful, clear days started us off, and a cool, rainy Sunday finished us off, but in between we chatted, enjoyed the up-to-date comfort of the Chateau (some of us vividly remembering amusing/embarrassing/provocative experiences from our years there), were again amazed and awed with the glorious views from the high spots on campus, tried to remember the names of dorms we lived in (not to mention the name of the classmate standing opposite us), visited the many new buildings of these intervening years, explored the town and took in some lively and impressive lectures/discussions given by Midd faculty members. The Saturday morning convocation of all the reunion classes had the right dash of "rewards" to generous-of-time-or-money individuals and classes, and inspiration concerning the role of the College in our ever-changing global picture. Our new president, Dr. John McCardell, knows the College well through his years of teaching and serving in a variety of ways. His address moved us with its eloquence and vision. Although many of us are not "rah rah" alums, we couldn't help but be moved by the gathering of alums of all ages (from their 20s to their 90s) who marched in with their specially-made blue and white tee shirts, sporty hats, tote bags with College seal (us!), etc. And off and on during these days we all engaged in recollections of our most memorable profs (e.g. Cooke and Rafuse), learning to toboggan or ski on Chapel hill, the impact of the "Culture Conference" on our view of society (being "wowed" by Adam Clayton Powell and Hazel Scott at the piano), early morning cramming for exams, or late-night hijinks, frantic racing to get back to the dorm before 11 or whatever magic hour it was, and the never-to-be-forgotten "Sevenfold Amen" sung at the end of chapel services. Our banquet in the elegant (wallpaper and round tables with tablecloths) Chateau dining room was delightful. Between Cap Booth's humor, Jean Gunther's imaginative awards (impossible to explain), and a few serious remarks, the evening was a success. Please give a round of applause to reunion co-chairs Betty Galloway Masterson and Joyce Walsh Heath and their committee: Betsy Hornaday Fry, Lynn Bruhn, Virginia Stowell James, Phyllis Burke Cunningham, Sue Carr Pauli and Alice Neef Perine. ...Some recent news from M. Jeannette Atkins Louth (32 Long Hill Farm, Guilford, CT 06437): "On January 4, 1992, I married William Louth and moved back to Connecticut. Since then we have spent two weeks in Puerto Rico and taken a 10-day cruise, landing in Lisbon where we rented a car and spent two weeks touring a beautiful country." Our congratulations! ...Helen Tiffany Clark Nourse writes of visiting her daughter in Ripton, Vt., and her mother in Arizona. They took advantage of their time out west to visit the Grand Canyon and Big Sur, while appreciating the wildflowers along the way. (Haven't we all been admonished to "take time to smell the flowers?") Tiffany's volunteer work includes working in the office of the Lower Cape Outreach Council, serving the hungry and paying bills for the destitute. She writes: "We still see Lois Quirk Ray and cross paths with Lee Craven who are both well." ...Eric Bunzel writes that thanks to the phonathon he and his wife got together with the Jacob Samenfinks of nearby Wisconsin "for a delightful reunion of our own." ...Other news coming from the phonathon is that Dr. Howard Young has taught U.S. and British history at Hampton (Va.) Univ. for 40 years. Now semi-retired, he teaches a spring semester course on U.S. naval history. He is an avid cyclist and a steam train buff who, like many of us, remembers warmly the Rutland Railroad. He divides his free time between riding antique trains and cycling on converted RR right of ways. ...Vic Springer and wife Ann have "just purchased their first home (after 41-plus years overseas) and will settle at 111 N. Everett St., #306, Glendale, CA 91206." ...Address changes have arrived for Robert J. Brinning, 300 Park Shore Dr., #PHD, Naples, FL 33940; Prescott R. Carr, 3606 Arbutus Drive, N. Arbutus Ridge, Cobble Hill BC V0R 1L1 Canada; Alice Ashley Costello, 133 W. Channel Road, #8, Santa Monica, CA 90402; Kathleen Brittain Gose, RR 5 Box 20, Durrance Road, Victoria, B.C. V8X 4M6, Canada; Marjorie Williams Macdonald, 200 Glenwood Circle, #F5, Monterey, CA 93940; Ruth Barber Toner, 69 Grand Ave., Swanton, VT 05488. ...And last but not least, we turn over our class secretary responsibilities to Betsy Hornaday Fry and Joyce Walsh Heath with gratitude for their acceptance of these quarterly duties, and fade off into the sunsets of Maine and Virginia. Cheerio and aloha!

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Benjamin L. Smith (Fran Van Cleve), P.O. Box 1307, Pahrump, NV 89041, and Stew Washburn, 60 Lakeview Place, Fairfield, CT 06430.

Last issue, in reporting a move by Ann (Nancy) Bushnell Taylor, we omitted her new address: P.O. Box 471, Peterborough, NH 03458. ...A plea by Anne Grimshaw Kempers to "permit a proud mother to brag a bit" prompts attention to two recent publications. The 1990 America's Quilts featured a two-page coverage, including photographs, of the art quilt creations of Natasha Kempers-Cullen '71. A quick look at the photo on page 18 of the Winter '92 Middlebury Magazine will show you (in the background) the roofs of buildings at Sugarloaf USA, a ski area in Maine. The buildings are the work of Peter Kempers '73 and his crew. ...Fran Van Cleve Smith finds her own Creative Pursuits so demanding she hardly has time to trek across a couple of hills to metropolitan Rhyolite! Nevertheless the co-sec says she's now working on a novel. ...Charlie and Mim Wade Butts have organized and conducted tours to the British Isles. Tour #8 to four Scottish islands was scheduled for fall '92. Last December, Charlie retired as vice president, external affairs, responsible for Houghton Mifflin's government, media and community relations programs. Mim continues to be active as a lecturer on art, art history, New England architecture and collections at Boston's Museum of Fine Arts and other museums and historical societies throughout New England. The new recipient of our class' two-year scholarship award is Alyssa Sveden '94, an English major. Alyssa works as an aide in the admissions office and was recently selected to be junior counselor in a freshman dorm. ... Plan now to reserve May 28-30, 1993, for our 45th!!

Pat Perkins Flagg (P.O. Box 292, Hancock, ME 04640; 207-422-3494) retired as a newspaper reporter in the spring of '90 and is now writing poetry and short stories while working on a novel. Her two daughters live in California. Cherie graduated from Midd in 1975. Pat loves carpentry and built her home 10 years ago. In the spring of

1991, she built on an addition into which she moved her mother from Middlebury. Her mother walks daily and at 91 is still quite agile. Pat looks forward to our 45th Reunion. ..."Cindy" Cynthia Buehr Haas, 103/3 Pra Pokklao Toad, Lane 8, Chiangmai 50000, Thailand, lives a great life while writing and looking to work on documentary films. She struggles to learn Thai which has 47 consonants, 36 vowels (an exaggeration!) and five tones. She welcomes any student of Asian languages. Cindy has been to Laos and Viet Nam. Last year she stayed with Ellen Taussig in California and has just heard from Howie Boone, retired in Idaho (HC 76 Box 2298, Garden Valley, ID 83622). He continues to paint and sculpt, while also teaching. ...Judy Potter Kinter (916-944-1503) is a freelance writer of children's plays, poetry, stories and novels and adult articles on parenting. She has also published a novel for young readers and had two plays produced, with two more scheduled. Earlier poems have been in magazines and anthologies. Her avocation is being the editor of the Storytelling Guild and Marriage Encounter newsletters and treasurer of Pen Women. She participates in camping, gardening, ayurvedic medicine and Transcendental Meditation. She would love to attend TM Univ. in Fairfield, Iowa. Judy's children are scattered, with her son in Houston and daughters in Iowa and San Diego. ...Last May, Dorothy Britton Mauk, her husband and another couple spent three weeks in the Canary Islands and Spain. Barcelona was preparing for the Olympics, rebuilding and repairing the infrastructure. After the trunk lock of their rental car was broken, the two husbands located the thieves' car and chased the trio. The Mauks have been on two other trips in the past nine months, one to Scandinavia and the other to Turkey, which they dubbed their "least expensive and best trip ever." More on Dorothy will appear in the Winter issue. ...We recently reported about the coaching successes of Don Bates of Berlin, Conn. Don's golf team secured his 600th career coaching victory last May while he was hospitalized from a stroke suffered a month earlier. "It was quite a win and the boys have done it all by themselves. I haven't been able to get out there with them, but they have really played well the first two matches." We hope that by the time this is published Don will have completed his rehabilitation and be back on the course with his team. ...Hal Richardson, who has retired after 19 years as a parish minister for the United Church of Christ, has built a new house in South Windsor, Conn. Last spring, Hal attended a reunion of his infantry division in Orlando, Fla. He was looking forward to seeing an old buddy from his days in Stalag XIII D in Nuremburg—47 years ago! Hal's three sons live nearby and he sees his five grandchildren often. He also sees Bart '48 and Tiff Clark Nourse '50 on Cape Cod. ...Walt Savage of Madison, N.J., recently retired as a full-time faculty member and is now listed as "Distinguished Professor of English Emeritus" at Fairleigh Dickinson, where he teaches one graduate course. Walt received an honorary dctor of humanities degree from Monmouth College last spring. He has completed a two-year term as chair of the New Jersey Committee for the Humanities, and is now chairing the Arts Task Force of Morris 2000, a county planning group. Walt and his wife, Patti, spend a lot of time at their Cape May home where Walt is a volunteer tour guide during he summer. Patti, a retired librarian, is active on the Arts Council in the Morris area. ...Al Lehman is president of Lehman Bros. Printing Co. of New Haven, Conn. His son, daughter, and son-in-law all work in the company, making the fourth generation of Lehmans to do so. Al and his wife, Ann, raise Arabian horses on their farm in Bethany, Conn., and often take "riding vacations" all over the world. (A riding vacation is one where you travel on horseback for six or seven hours a day!) The Lehmans have traveled through Ireland, Hungary and Spain in this manner, staying in castles and country inns at the end of the day's ride. Al serves as vice president of the Long Wharf Theater in New Haven. Ann, a sculptor working in metal-welding, using steel, copper and brass, is producing a large sculpture to be displayed at the Girl Scout National Headquarters in Manhattan. She teaches at the New Haven Creative Arts workshops. ...Gil Myrick worked for Mass Mutual in Springfield for 34 years and took early retirement nine years ago. Gil has been active in hiking the Long Trail and the Appalachian Trail and has been skiing and snowshoeing during the winter. Unfortunately, Gil's wife, Rena, notified me that Gil became ill with ALS (Lou Gehrig's disease) several years ago and is no longer able to enjoy these pursuits. He likes to hear the news as reported in the class notes column (which Rena reads to him) and would love to receive mail from friends, classmates and fraternity brothers. His address is R.F.D.#1, Box 70, Milbridge, ME 04658. ...Cliff Forbush and wife Rita stopped in on their way home to Lexington, Ky., after spending some time in Myrtle Beach, S.C. Cliff is the vice president for investment for Kentucky Central Insurance Companies. Since we had not seen each other since graduation, we had a lot of catching up to do! Cliff and Rita have five children and seven grandchildren. ...Got a long letter from Gordie Perine, bringing me up to date on the Perine clan. "All is well with Alice and me. Alice recently joined me on a trip to Florida and we spent three days together in Sarasota and Naples. We stayed with our good friend Don MacLean '51 and his wife, Barbara, one night, and then I drove Alice to Longboat Key where she spent a week with Sally Caswell while I traveled the entire state. Believe it or not, I covered 1,185 miles by car in one week—not bad for a guy of 70! The kids are doing well. Perry '71 is an Episcopal priest in Pitman, N.J. Kenny '73 is president of the National Bank of Middlebury and his wife, Carolyn (Leggett) '73 is one of the associate directors of admissions at the College. They have four children—a son 16, and daughters 14, 12 and 12. Susie is working for the Fleet Bank in Boston. Ron and his wife and daughter live in Cheshire, Conn., and he is a chief accountant for a small advertising company in Farmington, Conn. Alice (Neef) '47 continues to be as busy as ever, serving on a number of boards and doing a lot of volunteer work."

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Robert Kingsland (Elly Flett), Foster Hill Road, West Brookfield, MA 01585, and Mrs. F. R. Young (Anna Sherwood), 24 Whitehall Ave., Edison, NJ 08820.

Horst Boog is senior director of research and military history in Freiburg, Federal Republic of Germany. ...Debbie Nye Eppler has moved from Morristown, N.J., to Tequesta, Fla. ...Peggy Teachout Meyer left Cool, Calif., for Medford, Ore. ...Bob and Jean Blanchard Parsons are in Forest, Va., where Bob is on a temporary job transfer. Jean say it's like an extended vacation with a golf course next door and weekend exploring trips to Civil War sites and to places like Ashville, N.C., where they toured the Vanderbilt estate. When their tour of duty is up (May '93), they'll return to their home in Radnor, Pa., and "probably" join the retirement crowd. They still travel regularly to West Suffield, Conn., to visit Bob's 95-year-old mother. When Bob retires, they hope to combine their New England trips with visits to old friends. Best you visit the Kingslands! ...Joan Delamater Turner is retiring from teaching in Acton, Mass., and sends "hi" to everybody. ...Priscilla Powell Lauridsen has also retired from a career in teaching foreign languages, but is now a volunteer teacher of English to Hispanics with L.V.A. (Literacy Volunteers of America). She is also tutoring some friends who want to learn Spanish. Petey and her husband have sold their 30-foot Mystic and are looking for "something smaller" to sail. Lots of sailors among the '50s! They were looking forward to an upcoming visit with June and Dave Wallace, old friends from high school days. ...Ginny Ringo Cleary is another convert to Elderhostel. (Remember Carol Carlton Hentz's enthusiastic description of Greek island hopping?) Ginny took a spring trip to Phoenix and mixed sightseeing and travel with three courses: Humor in Literature, Spanish, and the Architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright. Her professors/instructors, who were all from Grand Union Univ., a small Baptist college, were "excellent." There were field trips to museums and to such places as the Frank Lloyd Wright Institute, socializing and bridge in the evenings, free time for shopping, interesting, outgoing people (couples and singles)—all-in-all, a "great" vacation. ...Bud Mulroy made good on a promise to write "once a decade." Although he is "semi-retired" from teaching, he says he has never enjoyed it as much as he does now, despite the fact that teaching humanities in an engineering college "is like having Yasser Arafat cater a bar mitzvah." Bud recently brought to a close 20 years of sailing and racing on Lake Erie on Tartan 27's and 30's. A member of the forum committee of the City Club in Cleveland, Bud "has some impact" on the selection of speakers and topics. Speakers, who have included Ronald Reagan and Jane Fonda, must each submit to 30 minutes of questions. Scheduled in April, among others, were a talk by the president of the New York Stock Exchange and a debate between Walt Bagdanich, investigative reporter of The Wall Street Journal, and the CEO of the Greater Cleveland Hospital Association on hospital costs. Withstanding "pressures from Debbie Nye and Sid Kay," Bud claims to have attended his last reunion, the 35th. He sends greetings to all his classmates: "May you live 100 years."...BZ Friedlander is still teaching psychology at the Univ. of Hartford, writing articles for professional journals, riding horses and playing polo every week. A "committed non-athlete" during his years at Middlebury, BZ has become "a sports enthusiast on the threshold of old age."...Sheldon Flory, along with three other first-prize winners of the Arvon International Poetry Competition, was a judge of the 1991 Arvon. Responsible for reading and evaluating 3,000 poems at home, he then worked with the other judges in London to come up with 16 prize winners. Sheldon and his wife enjoyed six days in London, three in Devon, and a day in Oxford. ...Richard Barnes motored south in April, saw the Kitty Hawk, the USS North Carolina and the USS Yorktown, as well as Cape Canaveral, a "must see." He has plans for an Alaska trip, "another must see," and reminds us all that the 45th Reunion is only 2-1/2 years away. (Elly and Anna need no reminding!) ...Al Craz, now in his seventh year as a litigation specialist, has cut back to three-day weeks in summer and four-day weeks in winter, to give him time to fish, hunt and ski. His three male grandchildren, "demons," demand attention and "suggest perhaps a new third career."...Andy Namm and his wife, Anne, visited Africa and spent two weeks in Kenya visiting national parks and animal preserves. "High point was a hot air balloon journey, viewing elephants and giraffes."

Class Secretaries: Helen (Reid) and John Gilmore, 128 Bungalow Ave., Greenfield, MA 01301.

While finishing his M.A. in English, Curt Norris is actively pursuing his "true mysteries" avocation. He has an "unusual true crimes" book coming out in September and, depending on its financial success, will follow with a lengthy series. This may also be followed by a compilation of his "True New England Mysteries" columns, which have appeared in Yankee magazine. Also active in the Massachusetts State Guard, Curt is teaching a course on combat intelligence. He has an abundance of personal interests, from photography to antique car restorations (including a rebuilt 1937 LaSalle) to public relations to survivors of WWII in Bataan and Corregidor. Curt says that he loves what he is doing and has no intention of retiring, this or any other year. ...While visiting his daughter, Daphne '83, Dick Perry participated in a sociological project for her physical therapy thesis at the Univ. of Utah. Dick and Jean's primary address is Newbury, N.H. While in that area, Dick has seen Don Maclean who has a summer residence in New London. Dick is looking forward to attending Midd '51-KUA '47 45th Reunion. From our reports Dick Wasson and Don Christiansen are planning to attend. ...Don and Jane Yates Mochi were having fun making big plans for the 90th birthday of Jane's mother, Madelene Fletcher Yates '23. Don is playing lots of golf, while Jane is immersed in church and social work. They entertain as many of the northern snowbirds as care to travel to West Palm Beach, Fla. Jane and Don have three grandchildren who live in Hamilton, N.Y., with their parents (John and Susan Mochi Hechlau '79). John has a graduate degree in ecobiology from Syracuse. Son David lives in Mansfield, Mass. The whole Mochi family travels every summer to their fifth generation homestead on Lake Huron. Don and Jane see Peter Knight '50 who lives in West Palm Beach, Fla. ...Although retired from his full-time position at Middlebury, Jim Ross has done some part-time tax and legal consulting work for the College. He also did a five-month stint for the Addison County Economic Development Department, encouraging existing corporations to stay in Addison County and promoting new business ventures to locate there. He also works as a consultant for ADA, assisting firms with planning and installing ramps for the disabled. Jim and Ann (McGinley) '53 have three children. Son Peter '78 is an insurance agent with Mackey Insurance Agency in Middlebury and a representative with Century 21. Peter lives in Bridport with his wife, 3-year-old twin daughters and son (5 months). Daughter Lauren '81 is a fundraiser for Lenore Fulani (a candidate for U.S. president) in NYC. Daughter Patty, a UNH grad, coaches the Middlebury cross-country ski and track teams. Patty, who was on the Midd '84 Olympic team, lives in South Burlington. ...Victor S. Luke retired on May 1 after a career of nearly 40 years with Westvaco. In 1974, he was named manager of the fine papers division and, in June 1980, he was elected a senior VP and a Westvaco director. A Scarsdale, N.Y., resident, Vic got his MBA in marketing from Wharton School Finance. ...In Bethesda, Md., Phil Dyett is nearing retirement. He has been associated with the congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses in the Kensington area since 1978 and is now an elder. He became involved with Jehovah's Witnesses in 1969, serving for a time as an elder in Chapel Hill, N.C., where he assumed the responsibility of ministry school overseer. He reports that there are now more than four million Witnesses functioning in 210 places around the world. ...Paul Farrell says that he enjoys the good life—living in Sanibel Island, Fla., and commuting to eastern Massachusetts during the summer. ...Norma Horsford Whittinghill enjoyed a mini-reunion last winter with several classmates from Northfield School for Girls (now Northfield-Mount Hermon School). ...Phyllis Cole Deming forwarded a nifty photo of Jay McInerney (son of the late Marilyn Murphy McInerney) with Norris Church Mailer. The photo appeared in promotional material which Random House supplies to book sellers. Murf's other son, Chris '80, lives in West Deerfield and works for Esleeck Paper Co. Chris' wife, Linda (Cushing) '80 is director of development at the River Valley Playhouse & Arts Center in Deerfield. She has appeared in several professional Playhouse productions in Deerfield. Phyllis reports a BIG Deming family reunion in July in Wilmington, Del., including Bill and siblings and per stirpes offspring of each. Phyllis comments that so many were expected that they were working on color-coded T-shirts. Her book store is "bobbing along." Since Bill had to be in Sturbridge last April, Phyl and daughter Peg and children journeyed to the Atlantic Coast for several days.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Peter K. Race (Ruth Eldridge) P.O. Box 103, Boxford, MA 01921, and William H. Barber, 19504 Gallatin Ct., Gaithersburg, MD 20879.

Outgoing secretaries Mary Halsted Francoeur and Al Mutti report: The 40th was great, with beautiful weather on Friday and Saturday. The rain on Sunday had little adverse effect because of the indoor brunch that was held at Will '51 and Marty Belden Jackson's lovely home. Their spectacular house sits on a ridge overlooking the College—a beautiful setting for the final event of a wonderful weekend. Unfortunately, the croquet tournament had to be postponed for five years due to the rain on Sunday, but Charlie Rielle promised it will take place at our 45th. The tennis tournament, run by Bill Kirby, was won by Sally Baldwin Utiger while the golf match was won by Ken Nourse. Another highlight was Al Gussow's banner for the Class of '52. Al designed and made it. Since it is many times the size of other banners, it occupied a place of honor at the back of the chapel. Dinner at the Dog Team Tavern on Friday night provided many of us with some very fond memories of days gone by. Nothing has changed much and the food is still good. ...Jane Rupp Cooke and a group of approximately nine hiked the Long Trail, finishing near the Snow Bowl where an informal barbecue, orchestrated by Agnes Benedict James and catered by the Dog Team Tavern, provided us with Saturday night dinner. ...John Bowker recorded a video tape of many of our classmates, along with their amusing comments, at the Snow Bowl on Saturday night. Anyone interested in receiving a copy (for approximately nine dollars) for playback on their VCR should contact John at 1811 Fort Duquesna Drive, Sun City Center, FL 33573 (phone 813-633-1427). ...If a prize were given to the person who traveled the greatest distance to attend reunion, I believe it would go to Lindy Pahner Christie from California or to Jim Olson, who came in from Beaverton, Ore. This was Jim's first time back, as it was for Bob Woodbury from Broomfield, Colo. Bob said the trip was even more enjoyable than he anticipated. This was also the first reunion for Lindy Pahner Christie and Kate White. Lindy will be returning to Vermont in September for the second time this year (and in 40 years) to show husband Phil the sights. Kate has returned to St. Louis after living in Paris for over 20 years. ...Also among the not-too-frequent visitors were Paul Roman, Doug Webb, John Roy, Puls Bock & Judy Kirby Bock '55 from Montreal, Larry Draper, George and Margaret Nasmith Wedge from Lawrence, Kan., Hope and Bob Morgan from Great Falls, Mont., and King Woodward from Aspen, Colo. Jim Hutchinson came from Tennessee, the Rev. Charles Archibald from Durango, Colo., Marianne and Paul Lincoln from Kingwood, Texas, and Ray Ablondi from Hilton Head by way of Stratton Mountain. ...Barbara "Peanuts" Cummiskey Villet has had three books published: Blood River, Head Nurse and Those Whom God Chooses. ...Caryl Entwistle Huffaker has had five racy novels published under assorted pruedonyms which she will not reveal to anyone! ...Charlotte Olsen McIntyre writes from Cheshire, Conn., that her home is open to any classmates needing "refuge" (short term, I'm sure). She is busy with hospital and Hospice volunteer work and building muscles with enjoyable yard work. She saw Louise Erb Mayr when she returned to the U.S. for the birth of her first granddaughter. ...Special thanks go to Tim Budd who has performed the function of class agent for the past 10 years. Steve Baker has now taken his place and Bill Barber and Ruth Eldridge Race have graciously accepted the roles of our new class secretaries. They will have more news about other classmates and reunion in the next issue. Mary Halsted Francoeur comments quickly that it has been truly wonderful to be in closer contact with so many of our classmates. I am certain that I am not alone in counting my college classmates as some of the most delightful, educational and nurturing friends that I have ever had. I feel blessed to have attended Midd and to know you.

Class Secretary: Mr. Robert C. Kelly, 7 Governors Lane, Shelburne, VT 05482.

Our thanks to Marion Seymour for writing. Marion is involved in the resettlement of Amerasian youth, young people who were fathered by GIs in Vietnam. She is also doing consulting work with the expanding Head Start program in Rochester, N.Y. ...We were very sorry to hear from Clementine Wininger Gregory that her husband, Lyman, died of a cerebral hemorrhage on April 4, 1992. His death was entirely unexpected. I'm sure that I am extending the condolences of the entire class. Clemie is still working as a medical social secretary. Her son, Greg, has moved back East from San Francisco and is job hunting. Daughter Ruth was to finish up at the Univ. of Georgia in December. Clemie's address is 1092 Hendersonville Road, Asheville, NC 28803 (phone 704-272-0700). ...On March 31 John B. Nash retired from the Rockland (Mass.) Trust Co. He is now looking forward to spending quality time with his family. Two of his three children were married in 1991. John stopped to visit the Middlebury campus on the way to his son's wedding in Burlington in June of '91—his first trip there in 40 years. But he didn't stop in for a drink at the Kellys! ...Millard Davis writes from Cherry Hill, N.J., that his daughter, Lynn, is attending Rider College this year. ...Dick Ireland reports that his management consulting business survived the recession and is going strong. Dick is looking forward to retirement. ...No change to report for the Kellys. I still wonder how I ever retired into full time employment—until I receive the semi-annual bills from Babson College and Springfield College. It's hard to believe that the tuition at Middlebury in 1949 was $600 a year. You can't even buy the books for that now. We have our 40th reunion coming up in May and help is needed in organizing it. Let us hear from any and all who would be interested in lending a hand. Also, please write or call with suggestions for making this a memorable reunion. I can be reached by phone at 802-864-8346 during the day and 802-985-9555 in the evening. Please call!

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Peter B. Marshall (Cecily Mattocks), 290 Goodale St., West Boylston, MA 01583, and Peter L. Simonson, 105 Lower Flying Pt. Road, Freeport, ME 04032.

Stan Holt is organizing director for a national environmental group which helps citizens to clean up hazardous waste and to prevent pollution of air and water. He and Marge (Morgan) '55 have five grandchildren, all within two hours of their home in southern Vermont, where they grow Christmas trees in their spare time. ...For the last eight years, Pat McKegney has been a psychiatrist on the staff of Einstein Medical School, a part of the Montefiore Medical Center located in the Bronx. He is happily remarried and living close by—where "if you're alive, you're ahead." They come to Bridgeton, Maine, occasionally and like to visit Wolf Neck Park here in Freeport which is only a mile away from us (the Simonsons). Hey, Pat, be sure to stop by next time! ...Other Maine visitors are John and Erica Weiss Mollins, who enjoy the Mount Desert area. John has been working for the Boston bureau of the Associated Press for the past 25 years and has no plans for retirement yet. Their daughter, Jennifer '83, and her sculptor husband live in Edinburgh, Scotland, with their two children. Erica and John particularly like to fly over to visit because Erica has so many fond memories of England where she lived after the War. ...P.K. (Priscilla Kelly Sadler), having completed a couple of U.S. trips, went to France to ski in the Savoie and then visited attractions in the Normandy and Lyon areas. Particularly significant was a long-awaited trip to Mont St. Michel. She reports that France is getting very expensive these days—especially running a car. ...Classmates who made an effort to attend various receptions for Timothy Light last spring included Bob Gleason, Charles and Maureen Kane Steinecke, Carol Anderson Gwatkin and Wayne Daniels. Did any of you get a sense of what was on the horizon? ...Patent law is a highly specialized field where much of the work, except for some high-profile cases, is done behind the scenes, not in courts. A great deal of know-how is required in many fields, including electronics and biotechnology. Our own Karl Limbach has been named in California Lawyer as one of the top patent lawyers in the state. Congratulations Karl!

Former Chaplain Charlie Scott performed the wedding ceremony for the daughter of Carlene Snyder Howland '55 near Durango, Colo., on June 14, 1992, 37 years to the day after marrying the bride's parents in Middlebury's Mead Chapel. Celebrating after the ceremony were, front row, from left, Tana Sterrett Scott '65, Sue Cooke Turnbull '48, Edith Illick, Chaplain Scott, retired geography professor Rowland Illick, the Illicks' daughter, Priscilla Siano and her daughter, Kelly; back row, Phil Turnbull '50 and Carlene Snyder Howland '55.

Class Secretaries: Scotty MacGregor Gillette, 2309 E. Lake of the Isles Blvd., Minneapolis, MN 55405; Junie Stringer DeCoster, 726 Linwood, St. Paul, MN 55105; and Judy Zecher Colton (Mrs. Roger), 3 Long Marsh Lane, North Oaks Farm, MN 55127.

In the small world category, John Ackerman has just bought a house down the street from me (Scotty) and has the same wonderful view of sunsets across the lake. His new address is 2833 E. Lake of the Isles Parkway, Minneapolis, MN 55408. He is half time pastor at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church. In addition, he does "spiritual direction" at St. Mark's Episcopal Cathedral and runs five supervision groups for the clergy. ...Sylvia Metcalf Norton advises, "I just got back from an impromptu trip to Australia for scuba diving on a live-aboard boat on the Great Barrier Reef. Temperature zero degrees when I left, 87 degrees there! Get together with roommate Peggy Burkman Winslow quite often. Planning a scuba diving trip to Mexico (Cozumel) in June in our usual foursome." ...Lou Kempton reports that "life consists of work, grandchildren (2), skiing, tennis, biking, sailing, kayaking and back to work." He enjoyed a trip to Nova Scotia last fall and is looking forward to reunion in 1995—as we all are, right? ...We hope that Jerry Doolittle will come to reunion and sign his books for us. He states that "the third in my series of Tom Bethany mysteries, Bear Hug, is due out in November. (The first two were Body Scissors and Strangle Hold.) My wife, Gretchen Rath, received her master's in education from Harvard last year, in the same ceremony that our youngest son, Matt, got his bachelor's. We have three grandchildren." ...Lois Mathews Engleman writes that her daughter, Karen '83, a Methodist minister, was married to Ronald Burger in May and will move to Richmond Hill, Queens, to become pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church. Lois has a son in college, two other married daughters and no grandchildren yet. "We see my roommate, Barbara Harrison Naddaff, and her husband, Ed, at each other's weddings and hope to get together more often in the future." ...The new address for David Stone is 19 Dumas Ave. #4, Hampton, NH 03842.

Class Secretaries: John Chase, 2000 Sage Canyon Road, St. Helena, CA 94574; Virginia Collins Emerson, 15 College Road, Wellesley, MA 02181; and Maureen Craig Seamans, 12 Pelham Road, Weston, MA 02193.

Most of us open the Middlebury Magazine and read our class news first. It is of real interest to see what our classmates are doing. Yet most of us are terrible correspondents and lazy about getting news to class secretaries. This is too bad as many of us are involved in interesting pursuits or new endeavors and our classmates would enjoy knowing about them. ...For this issue I (John Chase) picked up the phone and called a number of classmates. One was a close friend I hadn't talked to in 36 years! Many thought I was asking for money, but when I explained, "No, just for news," there was a delightful reaction. Moral: Don't drop out. Rather, drop us a note about what's new in your life. We are interested! ...Norman S. Baier Jr., a partner in the architectural firm of Galliher & Baier of Simsbury, has been elected to serve as secretary of the Connecticut Society of Architects for 1992. Norm was also named unanimously by the trustees of the Williamstown (Mass.) Public Library as the architect for a proposed two-story addition to the historic Main Street structure. The recipient of five awards for architectural design, Norm has completed 11 projects involving the construction, expansion and renovation of libraries throughout New England. ...Theodora "Penny" Martin is completing her fourth year of teaching at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, where she chairs the education department. She received her doctorate in 1982, really enjoys teaching and was spending the summer on research, mostly in Maine ("we only have two and a half months of good weather") plus Cape Cod. ...Marvin C. "Kip" Cheney lives in Glastonbury, Conn., but frequently visits southern California where he is involved in the wind energy business. Wind parks are an increasingly important source of electrical power, both in southern and northern California. ...Despite its fiscal and human relations problems, California is a popular and important state for Middlebury alums. In the San Francisco Bay Area alone, there are more than 600 of us, making it the fourth most important area in the United States for Middlebury people. This information was gleaned from Mona Meyers Wheatley during her northern California visit in mid March. Mona is director of special gifts for the college and a delightful annual visitor to the West Coast. Strange how those Vermonters come to California in March! ...Long time San Franciscan, L.C. Spaulding Taylor, is a full-time artist. He completed a gallery show of paintings in San Francisco at the end of June. In early June, Spaul returned to his prep school, Kimball Union in New Hampshire, for his 40th reunion and to do a slide show of his work. ...Bob Lawrence was a recent visitor to the Napa valley with his wife, Eileen. Their youngest daughter, Elizabeth, is working in the Bay Area for a video game company. The Lawrences live in a 200-year-old farm house in Weston, Conn., and Bob is associated with Higbee Associates, Inc. (executive search), in Rowayton, Conn. ...Florence "Floppy" Hildreth White has retired with her husband, Ian, to a new country home in Sonoma County, Calif. Ian is painting and both are gardeners. They were leading a garden tour for two weeks in July, visiting two dozen gardens from the Hudson River to Connecticut, New Hampshire, Maine and concluding in Malbay, Canada. Floppy says it's one way to get back to Maine. In her spare time, Floppy is a teacher at the Ya-Ka-Yama Indian Center which helps Pomo children with general education. ...Your faithful correspondent John Chase and wife Barbara were off to Guatemala for a three-week spring visit of Mayan ruins and highland Indian villages. After spending the summer at the ranch in Napa County, a trip was planned to Sydney in September to visit son Bruce ('83) and family. ...Leigh Updike Johnson administers the Walk-About Program for Broad Ripple Hill High School in Indianapolis. This program enables juniors and seniors to apprentice themselves to a business or service organization in the Indianapolis area and earn high school credits as well as get on-the-job training. Leigh's job involves soliciting placements for students into the community and overseeing the contractual agreements which students make when entering the Walk-About program. It is a challenge! ...Kathie Lowrie Birkhaeuser and husband Dave had great adventures when they traveled to New Zealand and Australia recently. They undertook to hike the Milford Track, which took their breath away both in scenery and steepness. They also went out to the Great Barrier Reef off the coast of Australia. ...Zane Hickcox Kotker enjoyed a two-day visit at the California mountain-top home of Florence Hildreth White. They indulged in leisurely, lively conversation amid a landscape of roses and wild things such as bobcats. Back home in North Hampton, Mass., Zane, always alive to the possibility of new writing projects, goes daily to her writing office downtown. ...John McDermott spent last year in Tokyo as a visiting professor at Dokkyo University. He was married in April 1991 to Ji Hong, a law professor from Beijing, China. They have returned to California where John continues to teach at Loyola Law School. John and Ji live at 618 Shady Lane in Placentia, California (92670). ...We hope to hear from you all soon.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Alexandrine Post Koontz, 809 W. 57 St., Kansas City, MO 64113, and Mrs. Elizabeth O'Donnell Wallace, 201 Asbury St., South Hamilton, MA 01982.

Outgoing secretaries Wayne and Pam Clark Reilly report: Our 35th Reunion was fantastic. For the approximately 120 classmates, spouses and friends who attended, it was nostalgic, inspiring, rewarding and just plain fun. Our festivities began on Friday with dinner at Mr. Ups, continued with Convocation and the official class dinner on Saturday and concluded with a Chapel service and a great brunch given by Bob and Lee Hall Albern. Of course, these activities were interspersed with sightseeing walks, attempts at athletic achievement and just good times with old friends. Many thanks to Polly Pitcher Gabriel, Sally Holmes, and Ralph Woodbury who organized our weekend and even saw to some of the most beautiful Vermont weather in memory. ...The class of '57 not only did itself proud by our attendance and our class gift, but by the performance of two of our classmates. Frankie Hall received one of two Alumni Achievement Awards given at the Convocation in recognition of her long and very active service to Midd. Charlie Sykes was awarded an honorary degree by the college at this year's graduation to honor his career-long work with CARE throughout the world. On behalf of the class we send our congratulations. ...Donald Small writes that he has taken a two-year leave of absence from his post at Colby College and will be teaching at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point for that period of time. ...We know that we said that our previous letter was to be our last as class secretaries, but we thought it unfair to ask our successors to produce a letter on very short notice. Consequently, we have the opportunity to thank you again for making our job easy. Xanie Post Koontz and Liz O'Donnell Wallace "volunteered" as our replacements and we look forward to hearing from them in the next five years. Send them your news! To get them off on the right foot, we will conclude by encouraging you to (gasp!) think '97!

"Affection pours out for ill educator," was the headline in the Burlington Free Press. They even named a school after him. The Frederick H. Tuttle Middle School stands in South Burlington, Vt., where Fred has been superintendent since 1971. He switched from teaching to administration because "you really have the chance to shape a spirit and a climate in the school or the school district." His colleagues said mutual respect and compromise were the hallmarks of his leadership. "We need to create an atmosphere where kids can trust the schools," Fred said. "If you believe in kids, they won't let you down." His wife, Judy (Falby) '60 represented him at the renaming ceremony, as Fred was hospitalized and receiving daily radiation treatments for kidney cancer, which he said had spread quite a bit. Equally powerful medicine was an outpouring of love and support from the thousands whose lives he had brightened since 1959, when he began teaching at $3,500 per year. We are saddened to report that Fred died on June 6, 1992. Judy's address, should you wish to join the outpouring, is Lake Road, Charlotte, VT 05445. A memorial for Fred will appear in the Winter issue of the Magazine. ...Jim Witham caps a 24-year career at John M. Kirk Co. of Malden, Mass., by becoming its president. The company, with annual sales of $24 million, is a manufacturer's rep for a number of products in the steel and plastics world. ...Those intrepid sailors Sidney and Sandy Van Zandt have challenged our meager editorial skills, and triumphed, by gracing us with a five-page, single-spaced, marginless account of their voyage last year from the Chesapeake to New Zealand aboard their 39-foot cutter of steel, Sequel. Since we can't do it justice, we encourage you to write them for a copy, with sketch maps, at Box 9173, Noank, CT 06340. ...Barbara Stokes Kouts has launched her own literary agency and would love to hear from any "Middlebury authors in progress" at 249 S. Country Road, Brookhaven, NY 11719. ...Don Lawton has completed writing the history of his church, St. Paul's Episcopal in Watertown, N.Y., in time for its 125th anniversary. ...Speaking of church, Chaplain Scott phoned your NYC class secretary to report that he is now just a few blocks away as interim pastor of one of New York's loveliest churches, Grace Episcopal, on Broadway near the Village. (All right, Greenwich Village.) ...Mind-games we shouldn't play: If, in the spring of freshman year, we had looked up to see alumni returning for their 35th reunion, we would be seeing members of the class of 1920. Ready or not, our 35th looms next spring (the weekend of May 28-30), and we're hoping for at least a whelming turnout. If class attendance matches contributions to these notes, all events will be held in the old Observatory. The weekend will be packed with high spots, only one of which will be the election of new class secretaries. You should come. We're talking roots here.

News arrived from Marnie Sparre Burke at Westfield, N.J. Marnie is a business administrator at a Plainfield Presbyterian Church, having received three impressive sounding certifications. Her daughter was married last year and her husband has come out of retirement to become the rector of the Plainfield Anglican Catholic Church. ...Harriette Moseley Purdy reporting in from Bayport, N.Y., has logged 27 years as a teacher, presently of second graders. She thinks she's done with course-taking, having accumulated 75 credits beyond her master's degree. Husband Ken has a dental practice and their daughter is at home with two jobs. ...A heroic story concerning our own Martha Gerhart was reported in The New York Times on November 11, 1991. Seems that the Washington (D.C.) Opera opened a monumental production of Don Carlo at the Kennedy Center amidst a musicians' strike. Rather than sacrifice the production, the show went on, relying on just two pianos in the pit. One was played by Martha, "sturdily," according to the reviewer. Since the normal requirement is a 61-piece orchestra, we can assume that Martha's talents have increased geometrically! ...Another local news article contained a tribute to Dr. Patricia Sherlock Davidson. Back in February, she was the featured speaker at a Southborough, Mass., organization for schools meeting, "discussing needed changes in math curriculum and teaching styles in order to reach students who are growing up in the fast-paced 1990s." She is the director of Critical and Creative Thinking Graduate Program and a full professor of math at the Univ. of Mass., Boston. After Middlebury, she achieved her master's and doctorate in education from Harvard, where she was a Sloan Foundation Scholar. The author of many publications related to the teaching of math and visual/spatial thinking, she has traveled extensively in this country and abroad lecturing, consulting and conducting workshops. Pat, we applaud! ...Of particular delight was a Lancaster, Pa., luncheon reunion between your secretary and Carolyn Thrasher Weh. The years faded fast in the glow of that common Midd bond, and the familiar "Thrash" smile. She lives in Fort Atkinson, Wis., and reported her husband to be in career transition, her daughter married and handling computers for Hilton reservations in Dallas, and her son married and in Milwaukee working as a hydro-geologist. ...Fred Swan has transferred to the indoor air quality section at Clayton's Edison office. His wife, Pat, continues as a medical technologist at Robert Wood Johnson Hospital. Their son, Peter, is interning with a video production company. Son Eric, who served in Saudi Arabia as part of Operation Desert Storm from January to May 1991, is now majoring in chemistry at Rutgers-Newark campus. Fred saw Granthia Lavery Preston at Middlebury ceremonies in May '91 when Fred's niece, Lesley Humphreys, graduated. ...Arnold Bailey was recently named a member of the Board of Trustees, Southeastern College of Athens, Greece. ...Terry Twitchell was able to "finally talk one of my kids into going to Middlebury." His daughter is in Madrid on a master's program ("Couldn't be that the summer Olympics are in Spain.") After a long period without rain in Ojai, Calif., they finally got a good rain. So what does it do? Flood. "California is a crazy place." ...Bob Jones achieved another milestone for the Class of '59 when he received a Middlebury honorary degree at the 1992 graduation ceremonies. ...Bob Machon recently moved to Westlake Village, Calif., and Ed Uster is now located in Hackettstown, N.J. ...Congratulations to Bruce Phinney who was promoted to vice president of Paul-Tittle Associates, Inc., in McLean, Va. ...Get your name in the notes! Please fill out and return your yellow postcard when it arrives. We want to share your recent activities (large and small) with our classmates.

Class Secretary: Jean Seeler, Windmill Farm, 18 Upland Lane, Armonk, NY 10504, and Lars T. Carlson, 14478 50th St., S., Afton, MN 55001.

Please welcome Lars Carlson as our class co-secretary. Bernie Brodsky reluctantly resigned due to the demands of his young family, the move to Phoenix and his new position with the Resolution Trust Corporation. Lars has graciously volunteered to serve the remainder of the term. Thanks, Lars! Lars' son Eric '93 has returned to Middlebury after spending his junior year in Spain. ...Linda Fiske is the adult services librarian at Beauchamp Library, part of the Onondaga County Library System. Now single, Linda lives in Syracuse and has two grandchildren. All four of her children are involved with libraries: Richard works at the Baldwinsville, N.Y., library; Janet at SU's Bird Library; David at the Main Library in Syracuse; and Kathy is working on her MLS at S.U. School of Information Studies while working at Syracuse Research Corp. ...Lee Farnham, of West Trenton, N.J., left Prince in February to be a founding partner of International Business Management, Inc., an export management company developing international markets for U.S. sporting goods companies. He reports that prospects appear bright and they have several clients already under contract. ...Patricia Johnson Gallman continues her career as an elementary teacher in the rural upstate New York community of Worcester. Her son and daughter-in-law have purchased a home in North Carolina and Pat manages to make several visits each year. Pat, Janie Cain Bell and Sherry Bushnell Kingsley have been trying with moderate success to get together every summer, Janie from New Jersey and Sherry from Ohio. ...John Cowan and wife Elaine own the Bryman School in Salt Lake City, Utah. Bryman is a vocational post-secondary institution serving over 900 students each year. The Cowans recently purchased a cabin on Flathead Lake, outside of Polson, Mont., and hope some of us will come visit. ...Linda Sharp Cooper Hevly sent a wonderful long letter from Flagstaff, Ariz. In spite of budget cuts and her non-tenured status, her contract to teach accounting at Northern Arizona Univ. has been renewed every year. She built a new house a couple of years ago in the middle of a Ponderosa pine forest, with a beautiful view of the San Francisco Peaks. Linda has remarried and reports it IS better the second time around. Husband Richard Holmes Hevly is a professor of biology at NAU. They knew each other for years; their children were in nursery school together. Linda has kept the Cooper name in her professional life. After they married, Linda and Dick traveled to Seattle to meet Dick's mother. While there they reconnected with Lucie Frontini Boyle and her family. Linda also keeps in touch by phone with Liz Van Horn Taylor in Tucson, Ariz., and with Jean Emrich Battelle in Williston, Vt. ...Paula Hartz spent the summer in Lake George, N.Y. She is working on a project, doing freelance editing and writing, and loving it! Paula also has assumed the responsibility of co-chair of the Middlebury Alumni Fund Executive Council. ...Pieter Schiller attended the Boston reception for President McCardell. ...Breck and Sue Hibbert Lardner and Jean Seeler attended the Fairfield County, Conn., reception. ...Thanks to all who shared their news. We do want to hear from you!

Class Secretaries: Steve Crampton, RR 1, Box 127, Jericho, VT 05465, and Lee Kaufman, 161 Three Mile Drive, Kalispell, MT 59901.

First things first. Here is a rundown of recent changes concerning classmates. ...Fred Bickel, who has moved intrastate, has a new mailing address: P.O. Box 1943, San Ramon, CA 94583. ...Congratulations to Randy Clark who has been promoted to vice president/senior consultant. Randy and wife Nancy (Gould) '62 still reside in Randy's parent's former homestead at 160 Palisado Ave., Windsor, CT 06095. ...Steve Collins has moved within Pennsylvania to 500 Donegal Court, Royersford, PA 19468. ...Scott Hendrickson has assumed a new position as director of special education at the Vienna International School. Lucky Scott is enjoying Austria and can be reached at the school, Menchenschte 1/A-1220 Vienna, Austria AO199. ...Marion Yeaman Land (3281 E. Flamingo Road, #206, Las Vegas, NV 89121) has traded Missouri for the glamour of Vegas. ...And Dora Odarenko has been found, at least by Middlebury. Seems Dora has moved in at 336 Center Road, Easton, CT 06612. ...Bob Olivera can now be found at 544 Beldon St., Monterey, CA 93940. ...Kathleen Cleary Bonner now resides at 833 Rim Crest Circle, Westlake Village, CA 91361. ...Anne Fisher Ellwood has moved to 1380 South University Ave., Provo, UT 84601. ...It was great to hear from Carole Prindle Tiedemann (140 Sawmill Drive, Penfield, NY 14526). Carole continues to teach math in Rochester. Her husband, Fred, is working on a tunnel project in Boston so Carole plans to use that as an excuse to see her friends in the Boston area. (If it's the I-93 project and the new tunnel to Logan, God Bless you, Fred, but get the damn job done quickly so the rest of us can get through the city in less than 12 hours!) Daughter Karen '90 does editorial work for the Battelle Institute in D.C., while second daughter Dana '92 spent a semester in Scotland—which was excuse enough to entice Carole and Fred across the Atlantic last April. It is amazing how this younger generation flits around the world without batting an eye. I used to think it was a big deal to cross the Hudson River. Times do change. ...And where is Unadilla, you say? In New York. And what makes Unadilla special, you say? Noel "Dirty" Davis, that's who! Noel continues to be our class's gift to the agricultural world, operating a farm in upstate New York with wife Janet, who also runs the Farm Safety Program for the community. Their daughter, Bettina, is a freshman in high school and Noel hopes she follows the old man's footsteps to Midd. Noel is active in agricultural matters, serving on boards of a dairy corporation, the American Dairy Association and the National Milk Producers Association. He still skis (one of the prettiest skiers in our class, as I remember, along with Nick Dabney) and enjoys canoeing and camping with his daughter in the Adirondacks. ...Finally, a short note from the quiet one, Sally Tingle Southard. Sal and hubby Jim still live at 12 Greylock Road in Weston, Conn., where Sally is still librarianing it in nearby Darien. Sally and Jim were heading for the south of France for two weeks in July and were attendees in Aspen with the '61 Ski Club. Daughter Karen Southard Nevin '85 had a second son, Cameron, on January 11, 1992, Sally and Jim's second grandchild. The best news for your eastern secretary, Steve Crampton and Susan, is that Karen and her husband Chris (who is heading to UVM grad school) are moving to the Burlington area. Ergo we will hopefully see a lot more of the grandfolk Southards in the future. Jim, my racquet and legs are ready!

Your new class secretaries would like to begin by thanking Anne Thornton Bridges and John Sinclair for their work during the previous term. We look forward to hearing from all of you soon at the addresses above. Be sure to fill out the yellow postcard when it comes, but feel free to let us hear from you between postcards. ...John Sinclair received a letter from Louis Giardini in June. Louis has not been well, but he has wonderful memories of Middlebury and of his classmates. "Believe me," he writes, "I welcome so very, very much any communication from Middlebury. I love you all the same. Please send mail to the address on envelope." Please take a moment to send a card or letter to Louis at Harlem Valley Psychiatric Center, Ward 76, Bldg. 26, Wingdale, NY 12594.

Marv and Carol Haas '65 Kelley are leaving Wesleyan University after 12 years to move to Cincinnati, where Marv will become the director of gift planning for the Univ. of Cincinnati Foundation. Dana, their oldest daughter, graduated from Northeastern Univ. in June. Their youngest daughter, Rhian, who graduated from Northfield-Mount Hermon in June, is undecided on her college plans. ...After 26 years of the corporate world, most recently as a vice president at Ethan Allen, Tom Greene has opened his own business. He has two La-Z-Boy galleries, in Danbury and Waterbury, Conn. ...Wally Weld has been elected to a four-year term on the board of the New England Baptist Health Care Corp. A commercial lender at the Bank of Boston, he lives with his wife in Dover, Mass. ...Mike Mone has been nominated to become president of the Massachusetts Bar Assn. If elected, he will become president in September 1993. A partner in the Boston law firm Esdaile, Barrett and Esdaile, he has previously served as treasurer and vice president of the organization. He has also been a member of the Board of Bar Overseers since 1990 and is a former member of the Judicial Nominating Committee. ...Sandra Hazen Bodine was named an assistant trust officer at United Carolina Bank in Charlotte, N.C., late last year. She had formerly been in the trust department of a bank in Rhode Island. Bob Baskin was named the administrative aide in charge of economic development and the chief of staff for U.S. Representative Sam Gejdenson of Connecticut. He says that working in the public sector enables him to show his gratitude to the country for his successes in business. He is maintaining homes in both New Haven, Conn., and Washington D.C.

Dave Giddings of Rochester, N.Y., has been appointed president of the Diagnostic Laboratory Systems Division of Boehringer Mannheim Corp., one of the world's leading suppliers of biochemicals and diagnostic systems and agents. Dave was formerly general manager and vice president of Eastman Kodak's marketing group. A native of Pittsfield, Mass., Dave has a master's degree in business administration from Rider College in Lawrenceville, N.J. He joined Eastman Kodak soon after graduating from Middlebury in 1965, working in a variety of posts for that firm in New Jersey and New York.

Dave and wife Gail have two sons: Mark, a sales representative with Lanier Business Equipment in Tarrytown, N.Y., and Thomas, an account officer with Security Pacific Bank in Newport Beach, Calif. ...We received the following message dated May 18, 1992, and signed by Ted Morse and Nancy Adams: "After 29 years since their last date, at Middlebury, Ted Morse and Nancy Adams have decided to get back together again. Renowned for indecision and non-hasty decisions, they feel it appropriate that enough time has passed so they can date." Wonderful! Spring has finally come to Vermont. ...Alice Shoemaker (125 Oak Grove St., Minneapolis, MN 55403) reports that she has been a student at Northern Lights School of Massage Therapy in Minneapolis. She has also been volunteering with a project offering massage to AIDS patients and their families.

Mike Dooley (46-070 Konane Place, #3522, Kaneohe, Hawaii 96744) sent his first-ever update for the class notes. He and wife Mary have a four-year-old daughter, Caitlin, a "native-born" Hawaiian. Mike is a construction manager with Dillingham Pacific, a Hawaiian dredging and construction company. Mary is a social worker with the St. Francis Hospital dialysis unit in Honolulu. Mike saw Bill McCollom recently in Hawaii and also in Middlebury last fall, when he also saw Dick McMahon, Charlie Brush '69 and Paul Reed '70. Mike welcomes anyone to call if they are coming to Hawaii (808-236-4517). ...Gail Hyde Kovalik (3232 East Ave., Caledonia, NY 14423) co-edited a book just published by the American Library Association, Deafness: An Annotated Bibliography and Guide to Basic Materials. She has also written two other books on deafness just published by the National Technical Institute for the Deaf. ...Craig Little (84 Columbia Terrace, Weehawdan, NJ 07087), managing editor of the monthly magazine Nursing Health Care in New York City, has two children. He would like to move his family to the Boston area and is interested in any ideas/tips/suggestions on publishing positions. ...Dr. Laurie Brown was named the 1991 Association for Women Geoscientists Foundation Outstanding Educator at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of America. Laurie is a full professor in the geology department at the University of Massachusetts. The award honored Laurie for her outstanding teaching coupled with her record of high quality scientific research and service. ...Cleve Kapala (544 North West Road, Canterbury, NH 03224) has recently taken a position as manager of community relations with the New England Power Company in Concord, N.H. ...John Davidson (4803 Aukai Ave., Honolulu, HI 96816) is now vice president of research for Ungermann-Bass, Inc., a computer sciences firm. ...John Morton (RR 1, Box 124, Academy Road, Thetford, VT 05075) recently published a book, Don't Look Back: Olympic Skiing Competitor and Coach Shares His Story and Training Program, with anecdotes about biathlon and competitive cross-country skiing and details of equipment and training programs. John also returned to Middlebury in early April to present a slide show discussing his two international exchanges with Soviet veterans of Afghanistan and U.S. veterans of Vietnam concerning post-traumatic stress disorder. (Perhaps we can get John to tell us more about his experiences with the Soviets at our 25th Reunion in May of 1993). ...Ben Gregg, who now works for the Weinberg Consulting Group, Inc., in downtown Washington, D.C., is still working in the field of environmental consulting. Believe it or not, he is happy to be taking public transportation and happier still to avoid the hassle of driving in the traffic on the Washington Beltway. Ben and Shari are pleased to be the social chairs, planning the 25th Reunion for May 27 through 30, 1993. Send us any ideas you might have. Ben attended the 25th Reunion for the Class of 1967, where he saw Stephanie Laird Johnson and Ginny Callan Sheldon attending with their spouses, and Joe Wood attending with his dad, A. Wilson Wood '42, for the 50th Reunion. Ben also attended the admissions workshop on the Friday morning of Reunion and saw classmates Sydney Blanchet-Ruth, Rick Fritz, Rich Dickerson, Bea Kleinschmidt Leiva and Charlie Sullivan's son Brennan.

The following column comes with many thanks to those of you who have received and returned postcards. It is a pleasure to read your news! ...Patty Cross Anderson (2637 Lynnhurst Drive, Vestal, NY 13850) and husband Dave "can see the light at the end of the tunnel." Their eldest child, Kristin, is a freshman at Connecticut College where she pursues liberal arts and varsity soccer. Their son, Eric (16), is also a student/athlete. Patty is a computer programmer and Dave is associate VP for student life, both at SUNY Binghamton. ...Also sending children off to school is Jennifer Taplin Jerome (Box 28, West Dummerston, VT 05357). Her son, David, is a freshman at UVM and her daughter, Anna, is a freshman at Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn. ...Greg Lewis says that the changing business of network television has created some interesting opportunities. After his 13-year association with NBC Sports, he hosted coverage of freestyle skiing and speed skiing for CBS in Albertville, during the Winter Games. He was also hosting coverage of gymnastics for NBC's pay-per-view coverage of the Summer Olympics from Barcelona. Greg is the only announcer assigned to both the summer and winter games. And we love seeing your friendly face! ...From Hamden, Conn., Jamie Johnson writes: "Having practiced law for an amazing and numbing 20 years, it's hard for me to write anything on such a small piece of paper, but if I don't I'll just put it off again, so—I remarried 4/14/91 to Stephen Fitzgerald in Sedona, Ariz. He does international new business planning for Sikorsky Aircraft. I still hate practicing law, but have finally started writing fiction, getting lots of very encouraging rejection letters. I am also, amazingly as well, 1991 Connecticut Triathlon Champ for women 40-44 (no, I don't swim—won it for biathlons), 1989 and 1990 Connecticut State Cycling Champ, and have won everything I've entered so far this year. At this age, all you have to do is show up! Saw Louisa Ward McNally '71. She's wonderful, as always." ...In Denver, Paula Nichols Van Dusen is the weekend manager of a safehouse for battered women. She is taking nursing prerequisites and trying to get into graduate school. She and husband Gary Baker live at 2453 Race St., Denver, CO 80205-5643. ...In San Francisco, Alma Robinson Moses and her husband, Toye, both manage non-profit organizations. Alma is executive director of California Lawyers for the Arts, which provides legal services and educational programs for artists throughout California. She was recently invited to serve on the Board of Visitors for Stanford Law School, from which she graduated in 1975. She and Toye are the parents of four children. ...Bob and Bev Rainey Cohen have moved to 22 Hobart Road, Summit, NJ 07901. Bob is now a vice president for Goldman Sachs & Co. in New York. ...Tom Harrington still lives in Germany but now works for Adidas AG. ...Kendra MacKenzie has moved from Wellesley to Oakland, Calif., where she is a high school art teacher at the College Preparatory School. Her address is 8 Captain Drive, #E259, Emeryville, CA 94608. ...Julie Von Wettberg is working for VIP Broadcasting Corp in Mount Kisko, N.Y. ...Other address changes include Bill Jerome, 3-8 Hansen Bay, St. John, VI 00830; Hugh Knapp, 12 Storybook Lane, Amherst, NH 03031; Colin Wagner, P.O. Box 2294, Newport Beach, CA 92659; Robert Cowan, 225 Mansion Road, Dunbarton, NH 03045; Marjorie Cummings Goodin, 156 Hillcrest Road, Berkeley, CA 94705; Timothy Peck, 2752 Waltham Cross St., Belmont, CA 94002; Page Pratt, P.O. Tom DeRogatis has left his position as president of Bonwit Teller to start Prestar Partners, a minority-owned investment company. Tom and his partner, John Coleman '73, received the financial backing for their new venture from Joseph Unanue, a Brooklyn native whose parents came to the U.S. from Puerto Rico and who is chief executive and part owner of Goya Foods, Inc., one of the nation's largest Hispanic-owned businesses. Qualifying as a minority-owned firm has always carried a lot of clout among municipal clients eager to support diversity in their communities; now it has become a big selling point among corporate clients as well. Tom and wife Teresa quit their jobs with Bonwit Teller last May when Bonwit's headquarters were moved from Manhattan to Syracuse. Prestar (meaning "to lend" in Spanish) is based in Rye, N.Y., not far from the DeRogatis home—a location he hopes will enable him to accompany his daughter, Rachel Elizabeth, to her "gym and swim" classes at the local YMCA. ...Sue Thompson has received an Individual Artist's Grant from the Connecticut Commission on the Arts. She plans to take a month off from her freelance work next spring to begin a new collection of poems. All she needs now is a house to rent for the project—preferably one with peace, quiet and a view. She'd like to hear from anyone who has suggestions. If you know of a house available in March/April 1993 in Nantucket, on the coast of Maine, on Martha's Vineyard or in the Caribbean, get in touch with Sue.

Laird Holby '67 has begun a two-year assignment in China with his wife, Alice Andrews, and children Duncan and Hannah. Laird and Alice are teaching English under the auspices of the Inter-Mennonite China Educational Exchange Program. About 900 Mennonite Central Committee workers are serving in more than 50 countries, in assignments such as community development, education, health, food production, emergency response and administration.

Apologies to Thomas Scribner (222 North 23rd Ave., Yakima, WA 98902), who was never given credit for his award-winning rendition of the "GATOR" at a dance contest. Keep those arms and legs shakin'! ...Susan Thornton, one of the hard working and more competent of the class secretaries, has moved. Her new address, awaiting your cards and letters, is printed above. Keep up the good work, Susan! ...Congratulations and commendations go to Jon Groetzinger Jr., who was recently promoted to senior vice president, general counsel and secretary of American Greetings. Among Groetzinger's responsibilities are managing the company's complete legal affairs, both domestically and internationally, advising the company's management and directors on corporate legal matters and supervising the activities of the company's legal department and outside counsel. Jon, wife Carol and their three children live at 37455 Miles Road, Moreland Hills, OH 44022. Good work, Jon! ...The 1990 America's Quilts featured art quilt creations of Natasha Kempers-Cullen. The two-page spread includes three photos of her work. We always knew the clicking of knitting needles during class was a pre-cursor of greatness! ...Dave Barber (453 Gilbert Highway, Fairfield, CT 06430; 203-255-9929) sent us a note to keep us posted on his whereabouts. A management consultant, Dave travels constantly. His wife, Joyce, is a personnel manager and they have one son, Jonathan (5). They have lived in Connecticut for seven years and would like to hear from other Middlebury alumni in the Fairfield County area. ...Another great letter arrived from Laurie Wootton Carr (15211 Newcastle Lane, Huntington Beach, CA 92647), who was inspired by seeing Linda Moor Anelli's name in print. She wrote that she has loved the California weather over the last 17 years. Her son, Josh, is a college sophomore, studying to be a physician's assistant. As a social worker for 14 years, Laurie recently joined a research program developing innovative treatment for the mentally ill. She writes, "It's an exciting project, with exciting results. Our members are working, socializing and living more independently than they ever had before as adults." Laurie's hobbies include yoga, flower gardening, picture framing and, most recently, guitar lessons. Watch out Eric Clapton! ...Vermont is considered to be on the leading edge of telecommunications. Part of that recognition should go to Judith Irving Hastings, who is program manager for Vermont Interactive Television (VIT). VIT is located at Vermont Technical College in Randolph, Vt., which is near her home at RR 1, Box 94, Brookfield (Floating Bridge), VT 05036. Sites throughout the state are located in Lyndon State College, Newport, Randolph Center, Springfield and South Burlington. The success and recognition of VIT are surely attributable to Judith's efforts! ...An update on Nancy Krumm Sichler (125 Mountain Spring Road, Farmington, CT 06032): Her husband was "wooed" by a publishing company located in Manhasset, Long Island, N.Y. She was excited (and a little scared) about the upcoming move to the north shore of Long Island. ...We also heard from Linda Smith Carmon, who has been at 385 Old River Street, Windsor, CT 06095, since 1986. Linda has been active in civic and church volunteer groups, substituting for area organists and, most recently, acting as secretary of Asylum Hill Congregational Church in Hartford. Her husband, John, owns and operates six funeral homes in the Hartford area. She has four sons: Jay (19), in a funeral service program; Scott (17), who just spent spring semester of his junior year in Germany; Matthew (14), a freshman at Loomis-Chaffee; and Adam (11), a fifth grader and avid soccer player. Linda requests that Alex, Sandy, Kim, Nancy and Wendy get in touch with her. ...Proof that age does not bring maturity, the following classmates were seen in sub-zero mid-January on an overnight mountain hike: Taxi Smith, Jeff Rand, Peter Quinn, Howard Verman and Jay Goyette. (Sandy McDowell was present only to determine the newsworthiness of the non-event.) Between chattering teeth and junk food around the wood stove, brief updates were obtained. Howard (RR 1, Box 1211, Charlotte, VT 05445) is director of a program to facilitate educational improvements throughout the state in K-12 classes. Vermont has only one representative for this program and (uh-oh) he's the one! Along with Howard was Taxi (130 Congdon St., Providence, RI 02906). Previously a practicing lawyer in Massachusetts, he is now the director of the Rhode Island Film Office. In tow was Jeff (10 Deerfield Road, South Burlington, VT 05403) who also carried most of the food and supplies. Jeff is a successful builder and owner of Camerand, Inc. Peter (RD 2, Waltham, VT, 05491) provided some of the entertainment. He is the executive director of the Kingsland Bay School in Ferrisburgh, which provides support to needy adolescents. Peter is married to Marian and they have two sons, Liam (8) and Sam (6). Jay is married to Emily Groom Goyette, with a daughter, Alison (11) and a son, Ian (8). Jay is the director of institutional advancement at Vermont Technical College. Emily does some local area network consulting for a firm in San Francisco, as well as some administrative tasks for a craft cooperative in Montpelier. Jay's contribution to the overnight was to provide some entertainment and to carry Emily's super chili. ...An autographed Zdwobogi Board goes to Dave Barber and Laurie Wootten Carr for sending us an update on where they live and what they're doing. Keep those cards and letters coming.

Class Secretaries: Jennifer Hamlin Church, 11151 Summerfield Road, Petersburg, MI 49270, and Judy Wingham, 417 Guildwood Parkway, West Hill, Ont. M1E 1R3, Canada (Tel/Fax 416-283-6077).

Outgoing secretaries Judy McCormack Culhane and William E. Carlough report: To those of you who attended our 20th reunion in May, we hope you had as much fun as we did meeting old friends and making new ones. The Vermont sun was shining for most of the weekend as we filled Hepburn and Stewart with over 200 attendees. Lisa Craig Kuhr designed our official T-shirt which is bound to become a classic in reunion-wear. We hear Lisa has already started work on a shirt for our 25th. Our dinner, which was held in a tent outside the new McCullough Center, was followed by a brief awards program. Honorees included Judy McCormack Culhane, Bill Lucas and Henry O'Neill for traveling the farthest to reunion (from Hawaii); Bill Redway for coming from England; Henry O'Neill for having the most children (5); Pieter Bergen for bringing the youngest child to reunion (his two-month-old daughter); Dawn MacPhee for being the first person in our class to attend a Middlebury Parents Weekend as a parent; and Dave Furney for having the best haircut. Based on responses to our reunion questionnaire, Jack Kartez was deemed the class's sexiest man, with Doug Arnot in second place. As neither was in attendance, the award went to Gar Miller, who revealed that Doug Arnot "beat me up in the Crest Room freshman year." Voted least changed after 20 years were Larry Haydu and Betsy Coquillard White. Best attendance by a freshman year floor went to Battell Center third floor. The Bob Yoe Commemorative Sock Award went to Penny McIlwaine who says she "walks for a living." Bob was unable to attend, but he donated a pair of socks manufactured by his company for this award. Paul Lehman was selected as the member of the Class of '72 who has still held on to the ideals of 20 years ago. Paul is president of the board of a Chicago theater, vice president of the board of the AIDS Foundation of Chicago and a member of the board of New Israel, which funds progressive activities in Israel. He is still actively promoting peace, women's issues and civil rights. Thanks to everyone in the alumni office for making this a great reunion weekend, with special thanks to Sage Russell '73. With this column, Judy McCormack Culhane and Bill Carlough retire as your class secretaries. We've enjoyed hearing from so many of you over the past years and wish our successors, Jennifer Hamlin Church and Judy Wingham all the best.

Class Secretaries: Kathryn Winsberg, 4808 Moorland Lane, #1006, Bethesda, MD 20814, and Dean Nikitas, 7 Second St., #19, Pittsfield, MA 01201 (413-445-5082).

"Lost hair, gained insight," says Kit Fuller, cartographer. "I've spent the last 10 years working with the Geologic Division of the U.S. Geological Survey in Reston, Va., collecting information on new geologic mapping in the United States. I developed the GEOINDEX database into a generally available PC-based product. I also updated 15 USGS Geologic Map Indices covering 17 states, wrote several magazine articles on the status of geologic mapping and contributed to a New Maps column for several years. I'm working in the National Mapping Division where my major responsibility is editing technical reports on geographic, cartographic and related topics. My greatest joy continues to be my home and family, which consists of my wife, Wanda, and our two children, Heather (12) and Graham (9). Wanda has a home-based word processing business (Gold Fingers Word Processing) and also runs the local food co-op out of our house. Both children have an interest in drama which has led to their parents becoming ushers at the Folger Shakespeare Theatre, an interesting note in our midlife crunch of school, homework, scouts, music lessons, part-time jobs, church, home-improvement, self-improvement, self-denial, running and the occasional bits of fun." ...Gary Johnson is a language arts teacher at North Country Union High School in Newport, Vt. Quoted recently in the Newport Daily News, he says, "I enjoy bicycling, running, family." He also keeps busy as a track coach, bicycle race organizer, Fresh Air Fund volunteer, Boy Scout leader and chairman of Teacher of the Year selection committee. ...Linda Laursen Toscano writes, "Traveled to Spain last summer. My husband, Dr. Nicholas Toscano, and son Jose (17) biked from one of the tallest mountains to the sea, an eight-day trip. Nicholas is editor of Anvario Medieval, a journal of medieval Spanish literature, and president of the National Hispanic Foundation for the Humanities. I was named Soroptomists' "Woman Making a Difference" for pushing for government investigation of Long Island's breast cancer scourge." She also serves as district director of the New York Press Association and vice president of the Merrick Chamber of Commerce, of which she was also Woman of the Year in 1990. ...From Fred and Jean Northrup Burditt: "After transfers to Atlanta and Dallas, we are back home in New England. Our first two years back have been spent caring for Jake and Bo, twins born in May 1990. They joined Sam (3) and Caitlin (12). Fred is vice president and controller of Stanley Hand Tools. Jeannie is parenting, with an unused master's in library science on hold. ...Chris Duncan writes: "I married Susan Jean Hylander at the Bar Harbor, Maine, Congregational Church on June 22, 1991. We honeymooned for two weeks in Italy, where we visited Rome, Herculaneum, Pompeii, Florence and Venice. On August 1, I began my new position as head of the middle school at Poughkeepsie Day School. My wife is a vice president and director of market research at National Westminster Bank USA on Wall Street." ..."Although many years have gone by, I still have wonderful memories of my freshman year at Middlebury," writes Ellen Porter Honnet (19 Harrison St., Newton Highlands, MA. 02161). "I am now a psychologist (Ed.D.) and mother of two, Alex (6) and Floryn (2). Just spent four years in Racine, Wis., working for the Johnson Foundation at 'Wingspread,' a Frank Lloyd Wright house turned conference center. I return East as a psychologist in private practice." ... A business venture involving John Coleman and partner Tom DeRogatis '70 was the subject of an article in The New York Times last April. The two have started a minority-owned investment boutique, named "Prestar," which means "to lend," in Spanish. Controlling interest in the company (a 51 percent stake) is held by Joseph Unanue, who is also chief executive and part owner of Goya Foods, one of the largest Hispanic-owned businesses in the U.S. ...Gus Meyers is in practice as a clinical psychologist in Randolph, Vt., doing a lot of work with children from the schools in the area. Commenting on his position as a selectman for the town, he says, "there is a tremendous amount of work to be done." His wife, Pat, is a lawyer practicing in Randolph. They have two children, Lindsay (9) and Marissa (7). ...Jamien Morehouse (11 Maple St. Rockport, ME 04856) writes from the coast of Maine: "Following surgery, chemotherapy and recuperation, I have returned to reclaim myself and reintroduce myself to my husband and four children. Writing a weekly newspaper column on solid waste and essays for public radio and still running "Liberty Banners" flag business. Maine is a wonderful place to raise a family."

Class Secretaries: Barry Schultz King, P.O. Box 77, Ripton, VT 05766, and Jim Ware, 90 East Bare Hill Road, Harvard, MA 01451.

Gretchen Amussen wrote from Paris, where she is director of the international affairs division at the Conservatoire National Superieur de Musique et de Dance. The goal of her group is to forge links with like institutions in Europe, the U.S. and Japan and to foster musical exchanges. ...Susan Currie Price is the editor of Cosmetics & Toiletries magazine, a trade publication for R&D chemists formulating personal care products. Since she works close to home, she is able to help out with older son Ian's second grade class for two or three lunch hours a week. Her second son, Charles (5), has good friends at pre-school, but can't wait to get to "real" school. Susan enjoys gardening and makes sure that some kind of garden is cultivated each year. ...Tom Lehman writes that he has become a partner of a Miami, Fla., law firm where he heads the firm's bankruptcy and creditor's rights practice. He has also been appointed to the board of trustees of the Dade County Public Health Trust, which oversees the operation and management of the Univ. of Miami Medical School/Jackson Memorial Hospital Medical complex, the second largest and the busiest public hospital in the country. ...Joseph and Bonnie Bray Cleveland recently founded a new school, the Tarrant County Christian Academy (pre-K to 9th grade), in Keller, Texas. They would love to hear from anyone involved in education. Three of their children, Jennifer (11), Eric (9) and Joseph Jr. (6), attend TCCA. Jennifer performs with the Texas Girls Choir. Youngest daughter Julie (3) is also looking forward to school. ...Ellen and David Stone are living in Marion, Mass., with their two children, Jacquelyn and Samuel. The local paper reports that David, who works at Sippican, Inc., was recently promoted to director of electronic warfare engineering. In addition to his degree from Middlebury, he also earned a Ph.D. in experimental plasma physics from M.I.T. ...Lenita (Lani) Morrill Emanuelsen is still living in Houston and working at Merrill Lynch (days). The rest of her time is taken up going for an MBA (evenings) and playing (weekends), cruising and racing with her husband, Mads, and black lab, Tyson, on their C&C 38 on Galveston Bay. ...Chris Frankel writes from Brooklyn Heights, N.Y., that he is the vice president of marketing at Tower Air at JFK airport, where he is busy launching new routes to Paris, Miami and the Caribbean. His wife, Suzanne Griffen '82, is working on a film of the civil rights movement for a new civil rights museum which was opening in Birmingham, Ala., in fall 1992. ...Lynn Thiesmeyer and her husband, Michio Umegaki, returned to Japan in 1989 after Lynn had spent a year there in the mid '80s. She is teaching comparative culture and literature at Japan Women's University; her husband teaches international politics at Keio University. Lynn has written recently on the North American concentration camps and on representations and misrepresentations of West Africa in writers of the 1890s. They live in a residential area of Tokyo and "no, it isn't and never has been expensive!" They get to the U.S. a couple of times a year for visits and research and are really enjoying their lives in the two countries. ...Last issue, I reported that Peggy Hart and her husband, Richard Warner, had gone to Ghana for a year with their two boys. She has just sent an update from Africa reporting that their third son, Daniel, was born on December 26, 1991. Merry Christmas, Peggy and Richard!

Class Secretaries: Tim and Carol Blakely Counihan, 27 Percy Road, Lexington, MA 02173.

Garrett Bleakley moved to California last November to become the new general agent for Northwestern Mutual Life in San Diego, Calif. He and wife Laurie and children Jennie (15), Garrett Jr. (10) and Timmy (6) live at 13225 Stone Canyon Road, Poway, CA 92064. Garrett's territory includes southern California and the State of Hawaii. He runs into Bill Lucas '74, who is a Northwestern Mutual agent in Honolulu. Garrett would welcome a call from classmates living in or visiting the San Diego area. ...Ann Whitney Walton joined the faculty of Denison Univ. in Granville, Ohio, as assistant professor of history last winter. She previously taught at Oakland Univ. in Rochester, Mich. Following Middlebury, she earned her master's and Ph.D. from the Univ. of Wisconsin, Madison. ...Mark Smith and his wife, Timy (Nitayagorn), who are in business in Bangkok, usually travel to the States once a year. They have two daughters, Marissa (4) and Valaya Emogene (1), who was born in Bangkok. Their address is GPO 1952, Bangkok 10501, Thailand. ...Steve Durkee (553 C Avenue NE, Grand Prairie, TX) is a captain with American Airlines. ...Roger King is living in Dallas. He recently left Lotus Development Corp. to become vice president of sales for Software Spectrum, Inc., in Garland, Texas. ...Fred Erdman recently became the controller and chief financial officer for Wake Robin, a new retirement community in Shelburne, Vt. Fred will be involved in building the community from the ground up. Fred, who has an M.S. in accounting from Northeastern University, was previously the controller at Northshore Development, Inc., in Burlington, Dixie Machine and Supply in Barre, and Quechee Lakes Landowner's Assoc. in Quechee, Vt. He and wife Zoe Peterson Erdman '78 live in Williston with their three children. Fred keeps busy coaching soccer and serving as town auditor. ...Congratulations to John Marzulli and his wife, Penny, on the birth of their third child, Peter Bennett Marzulli, in April. Peter joins brother Jack (2) and sister Emily (5). John is on a five-year tour of duty in London for the New York law firm of Sherman & Sterling. They enjoy London's cultural offerings and the experience of living abroad. They have also traveled to the wine regions of France and to the Rhine valley in Germany. ...Tim Counihan stayed with the Marzullis over a weekend last June, while on business in Europe. Tim is strategic marketing manager for the Digital Signal Processing (DSP) division of Analog Devices in Norwood, Mass. Digital signal processors are used in cellular phones, voice recognition equipment, video conferencing equipment and other multi-media computer applications, as well as military applications, such as radar, sonar and secure communications. In the last year, business had taken Tim to Sweden, Norway, Germany, Austria, Denmark, England, Ireland and throughout north America. In fact, he was on one of those trips when I (Carol Blakely Counihan) wrote this column! After Middlebury, Tim received his MBA from the Univ. of Chicago and an MS in electrical engineering from Northeastern Univ. He finds time for tennis once a week midd net

Conducting a job search or contemplating a career change? A MiddNet representative may be able to help. These volunteers can discuss their own experiences as well as refer you to other graduates in their region. The MiddNet program is not a job placement service, but it can help you find information that will add to your success in today's ever-changing job market. Those using this service will help others by keeping MiddNet volunteers informed of their progress and by offering feedback on suggestions they've received. and has been playing bridge with Middlebury friends (Chris Brown '74, Jim Ware '74 and Mark Sullivan '78) about once a month for the past 10 years. He loves spending time with our boys, Chris (6) and Geoff (4). ...The Rev. Dick Leavitt has been the minister of a growing congregation at the United Church of Christ in Boxborough, Mass., for the past seven years. Last spring, Dick and wife Debbie Adam Leavitt '77 and the Counihans became godparents for Stephen Webster (4) and Carrie Webster (8), the children of Dave Webster and Lynn Dyer '77. Dick and Debbie keep busy with their two athletic sons, Tim (8) and Andrew (4). Dick coached Tim's Little League team last year to a 9th place finish (out of 10 teams). Fortunately, it's the experience that counts! ...Thanks to everyone who sent news. Please keep it coming!

Class Secretaries: Marion Adler, 530 N. Linden, Oak Park, IL 60302; Thomas Hitch, 1180 Lyman Ave., Wayzata, MN 55391; and William Kuharich, 3726 Whitehall Drive, Destrehan, LA 70047.

Classmate Suzi Landolphi, who majored in theater and dance at Middlebury, has used her acting experience in a unique way. Suzi is the founder of Hot, Sexy, and Safer, a foundation that promotes sex education and AIDS awareness before college and community audiences. The Los Angeles Times compared Suzi to "an Italianate Dr. Ruth stuck on fast forward," who delivers "high-voltage sexual truth and giddy blasts of earthy humor to college students." The National Association of Campus Activities awarded Suzi its Harry Chapin Humanitarian Award in 1992 and has twice named her "Lecturer of the Year" (1991 and 1992). Suzi has opened two "Condomania" stores, in New York City and in Los Angeles, that stock over 200 brands of condoms. Some of you may have seen Suzi or heard about her store on television, including The Today Show, the Jenny Jones Show, CNN News, ABC's Home Show and NBC's Rap-Around, or read about her in such diverse publications as New York and People magazines. ...Peter Minowitz recently became a tenured faculty member in the political science department of Santa Clara Univ. Peter also has a new book on Adam Smith being published by Stanford University Press, due out within the year. Concerning these developments, Peter writes, "My wife, Debbie, is elated, but our two-year old son, Max, does not seem impressed." ...More news from the groves of academe: Ronald Witt, who is a professor in the history department at Duke Univ., directed a four-week seminar in Avignon, France, this summer. The program, entitled "Petrarch and Provence: Between Seclusion and the World," was intended for school teachers of grades K-12 and was sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities. ...Liz Friedgut has been working as a real estate lawyer at the Chicago firm of Rudnick & Wolfe for four years. Liz specializes in the field of "affordable housing," an expertise that she developed in her previous work as a lawyer for the Department of Housing & Urban Development in Washington, D.C. Liz is married to Russ Selman, who practices environmental law. They live in the Taylor Street area of Chicago, which Chicago cognescenti know is where some of Chicago's best Italian restaurants are found. ...Another legal beagle, Jane Limprecht, took time out from her career to give birth to a daughter, Lillian Kathleen Waller, on September 11, 1991. Jane reports that Lilly is a strawberry blond, with gray eyes, who is, of course, lots of fun. Jane's husband, Brad Waller, is an actor who specializes in Shakespearean roles and teaches classes on "stage combat" (i.e. sword fighting) at a variety of Washington, D.C., area schools, including the Shakespeare Theater at Lansburgh (formerly the Folger Theater), Catholic Univ. and George Mason Univ. Jane and Brad celebrated their fifth anniversary last summer. Jane is back to work as a legal editor for the Bureau of National Affairs Bankruptcy Law Reporter. Fellow lawyers may have bumped into Jane this past summer in San Francisco where she covered the ABA convention for BNA. ...More news from Chris and Sally Grimes Barron, who are happy to have returned to New England after a stint in Huntsville, Ala. Chris is director of strategic marketing for Soft Desk, Inc., in Henniker, N.H. He is busy setting up distribution channels in the Asia Pacific market for computer-aided design software. While in Alabama, Sally co-authored the field experience for fifth graders at Huntsville's new Botanical Garden. Sally is also active as a den leader for the Bear Cubs, in which their son, Kit, participates. Chris and Sally report that Kit and their daughter, Brooke, "are looking forward to being back in ski country!" Their new address is Valley Road, Waterville Valley, NH 03215. ...Other news from New England comes from Carol Porter Donahue, who is still living in West Brookfield, Mass. Last year Carol taught math to six graders in a long-term assignment as a substitute teacher. Carol reports that her husband, Kevin '75, ran in the Boston Marathon last April, finishing the race in under four hours. Carol and Kevin took a European vacation last winter to Milan, Italy, and Veviers, Switzerland, where they did some skiing. ...Jeff Ross, also in New England, is still working as a history teacher at the Loomis Chaffee School. Jeff doubles as the assistant director of college guidance and coaches baseball. Jeff's wife, Susan, recently received a master's in special education. Jeff writes that he and Susan are "increasingly rooted in the town of Windsor, Conn., with two sons, Matt (9) and Tim (7), involved in school, little league, midget football and town soccer." ...Finally our apologies to Beryn Frank, to whom we inadvertently gave a sex-change operation when we reported on her recent activities in last Spring's alumni notes. Sorry about all those male pronouns and any confusion created, Beryn.

Outgoing secretaries Libet Campbell Peters and Robert C. Lindberg report: We had a great turnout for our reunion; in fact, ours was the largest 15th that Middlebury has ever seen! At the reunion dinner, we welcomed Erica Wonnacott as our guest of honor, after which Marijane Tuohy bestowed honors upon certain classmates. For the person with the least hair, it was a close race between Mike Norris and Tom Martyn, but Tom won. Tony Melchior's waist-length pigtail automatically won him person with the most hair. Our most famous classmate was Frank Sesno and the most changed was Hunter Boll. Remember Hunter's long hair and beard? Well, now it's just a moustache and short hair, so he can commute to his job at a venture capital firm in Boston every day. Hunter brought his three kids and wife Pam Tanner Boll '78 with him. Felix Batista got the award for the most children (five), the most recent of which, a five-week-old, accompanied him and Lourdes to the dinner. Incredulous at being beaten by a mere three weeks was Jay White whose 8-week-old infant also attended the dinner. Ty Danco was hooted loudly as the only nude luger. Ty and Helene have moved to Burlington with Alex (3). Their new address is 42 Summit St., 05401. ...Debbie Goppert Hofstedt came the farthest, from California, but close seconds were Jay Taylor and Kathleen Cooper Lake from Houston. Debbie has three children and looked as stunning as ever. From Colorado, Betsy Seeley Wright and husband John enjoyed a couple of days of quiet away from their kids. Their daughter, Katherine Elizabeth, is now three and baby Caroline Lucille was born last winter. Betsy has left Citicorp for a higher position in a smaller bank with fewer hours and more time for her children. ...Ed Phalen was voted most enthusiastic for his informal soccer and his self-appointment as class greeter. ...I can't remember all the awards, but we had a few good laughs before heading to McCullough, the newly-renovated student center, to hear Cliff Warren's band, The Fabulous Footnotes. Dick '75 and Debbie Adams Leavitt, Tom and Ellen Fairchild Martyn, Lynn Dyer and her husband, David Webster '75, were all dancing up a storm, as was Terry Baer, my reunion co-chair, whom we all thank for the Woody Jackson bandanas and the beer runs. Others at the dance included the tan lawyer from Florida, Jim Glazebrook; newlyweds Bruce and Nancy Higgins Berke; the still-jogging Bill Blankemeier; and surgeon Jon Cooke, who assured me that he was pretty comfortable during the Gulf War after all. ...Sam Carpenter works in Cornell's admissions office as well as acting as head lacrosse coach. ...Ron Gauthier works for Reliable Assurance since his previous job ended when the FDIC took over his bank. He described the takeover process as spooky, since you work in a police state atmosphere. Ron's glad that's behind him. ...Dave Gavett and wife Traudl met in Vail and live in Waitsfield, Vt., as do Jared '76 and Kathy Weeks Cadwell. They left 8-month-old Cecilia to come to reunion. Jared runs Project Harmony, an exchange program with Russia. ...Connie Vial Green works for the Channing L. Bette Publishing Company in S. Deerfield, Mass. She and Tom live in Brattleboro, down the street from Steve Procter (Where were you, Steve? Hope to see you next time!) and near the Martyns. ...Our appreciation for their efforts went to Carol, Missy and Karen (di Valentino) '78, the wives of Bob Lindberg, David Towne and Mike McGown, who attended reunion events weighed down with upcoming events of their own. ...Sam Hamlin brought his wife, Eve, and their three children. ...Brad Johnson left wife and son in D.C. to come away to the country for a few days. ...Saturday afternoon the Brown pool was full of our classmates, patiently assisting wriggly, wet, little bodies in and out of the water. ...Linda Ruth Spitzfaden, Thayer Preece Woodcock, Ellie McCann Baker, Martha Fernald Groves, Aaron Abend and I (Libet Campbell Peters) thought ahead to the magical hour when we could leave our kids with a sitter and enjoy the evening! ...When she arrived Friday evening, Ingrid Malmstrom Saldibar was exhausted—her travel bureau had been swamped with requests when airlines lowered their fares. Since she handles professional soccer teams, her computer was changing hundreds of reservations a day. ...Cindy Lindegren Green, who was out biking Friday, had forgotten how steep the hill at the Science Center really is! Cindy is so busy volunteering in Concord, Mass., that it feels like a full-time job—and she has two daughters besides. ...Frank Sesno and Kathy Sanderson planned to vacation on the North Carolina coast this summer with their three kids. ...Kerry Shortle and Billy Straus left Katherine and Andrew at home for reunion and escaped for some quiet. Billy was running again for state representative and stood a good chance, since he got 48 percent of the vote last time and the incumbent is not running again. We wished him luck and promised to watch the papers in the fall. ...Karen Stolley is now a Ph.D., with a dissertation to be published soon. She and David Littlefield '78 and daughter Kathleen have moved to Atlanta, where Karen has been hired as a tenured professor at Emory Univ. She is eager to teach graduate students so she can leave verb conjugations behind! ...Harry and Anda Gailitis Weyher came from Wilton, Conn., without their two boys, the younger of whom was 8 months old in May. Anda runs a children's clothing shop in Wilton and weeds the yard in her spare time (she had a good case of poison ivy to show for all her efforts). Harry commutes to Stamford for a job in commodities brokerage. ...Janet Swanson Webster brought her husband, Scott, and sons Thomas and Timothy for a long weekend in Vermont so they could visit with Terry Baer who used to live in Minneapolis near them. ...Gretchen Witt brought husband Corey Belobrow and Becca (3) and Colin (8 months). I was reassured to see another parent also up early in the morning with hungry, tired kids! We speculated on how much easier this process will be the next time reunion comes around! ...Others who attended reunion were Anne Van Ingen, Grace Zanichkowsky Weber, Jeff and Susie Coxe Wellington, David White, Duane Wilcox, Mary Jo Dancker Maichak (a full-time storyteller to children, senior citizens, etc.), Judith Breck Mason, Mary McBride, Debora Detert Merrill, Frank Morton, Rick and Peggy Sanford Novak, Lucia Batchelder, Charlie Peitz, Sue Pendleton, Susie Lee Pierce, Jeff Pike, Bruce Pinsky, Jane Caswell Roberts, Denise Schlener, Jay Shapiro, David Tartter, Dana Tufts, John Turney, Claire Hibbard Akey, John Clemency, Katy Lange Dolan, Mary Fowler Elliman, Dave Fairbrother, Gillian Lloyd Burlingham, Laurel Berner Harvey, Mike Jennings, Sheryl Bicknell Kovalik, Julie Mason Lacey, Dave Leathers, Ann Downey Little, Doug MacGregor, Duncan Law, Elaine Le Blanc, Peter Leonard, Keith Michl and Dennis Parker, with young Zoe riding in his pack. It was a great turnout, totalling 155, which is excellent for a 15th. Way to go! ...Now about those who couldn't make it but sent along news. Practicing obstetrics and gynecology in Carson City (1201 Cordero Dr., Carson City, NV 87903), Sandy Koch McFarren and her husband, Tim, welcomed their second child, Katherine (Katie) Anne, on March 3, 1992. Sandy welcomes any old friends to come by and visit. ...Still dancing, Karen Amirault is a touring artist sponsored by the Vermont Council of the Arts. She brings dance to children statewide in grades K-12. ...Sue Gustafson Byrne teaches German and Latin at North Country Union High School in Vermont. She and husband Tim have two children, Aislinn and Devlin, and a golden retriever, Zac. ...Don Moran still returns to Middlebury periodically to see John Myhre '78, Ward Mann '78 and other local alumni. Don continues to own and operate a printing business in Massachusetts. ...Scott Markus and Barby Donnell were sorry they could not attend. As you may recall, they met at a Middlebury gathering! Scott recently resigned his partnership with a San Diego law firm so he could open his own legal specialty; Barby is busy with Easter Seals and motherhood. ...Following the dissolution of Drexel, Burnham, Lambert, Ollie Maggard landed at Kidder Peabody (phone 212-510-4175). ...Andrew Johnstone and his wife, Michelle, have two sons. He recently became the business manager for the biology department of Washington Univ. in St. Louis. ...Michael Blount recently placed second in the National Guard Bureau's Soldier of the Year competition; he missed winning by one point of a possible 635. He was named Soldier of the Year of the 43rd Brigade, the Connecticut Army National Guard and the First U.S. Army, which comprises 19 other states. Given his latest success as a citizen-soldier, Michael is wondering if he didn't miss his calling! ...Deborah Kessen Trofatter writes as the happy, occasionally crazed full-time mom of Matthew (7-1/2) and Katie (18 months). She stays very busy managing the family, being treasurer of the cooperative apartment board of directors, serving on the PTA board, chauffeuring to kids' baseball and soccer games, and husband John's softball games, etc. She would love to hear from Hollis Gabriel and Jocelyn Samuels. ...Florence Smith is a financial systems specialist for Prudential Insurance; she is also a CPR instructor and an instructor and officer of Staten Island Power Squadron (a unit of U.S. Power Squadrons). ...Bob Sideli and his wife, Donna Mercurio, welcomed the arrival of Marina on December 12, 1990. She joins her older sister, Liana (5). Bob, who received his MD from the University of Rome in 1985, is a pathologist and research scientist at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York. ...And now it is time for Bob Lindberg and I, Libet Campbell Peters, to sign off after our five-year term as class secretaries. We are delighted to announce that Ginni Jones and Bill Thickstun are your new secretaries, so send your news their way. Ginni has already done our class a big service by quilting us a new banner. It's navy blue and white with a special, old, mountain quilt pattern surrounding the college buildings. Thank you for all that time and effort, Ginni. Your handiwork is beautiful and the banner will last forever! Th-th-that's all, folks!

It was an elopement and the only witnesses were crows! Ed is still writing a weekly natural history column for the Acorn Press, a newspaper chain based in Ridgefield, Conn. To rescue him from penury, Ed hopes that classmates and fellow alums will buy multiple copies of his first two books, both due out this year: Notes from New Zealand (pub. Henry Holt & Co.) and The World of John Burroughs (pub. Harry N. Abrams, Inc.). ...Clare Pierson Buden and husband Jim live in Westchester, N.Y., with their three children, assorted birds, fish, cats and a dog. When they are not busy with jobs and children, they help Native Americans have a say in issues which concern them. Jim and Clare's work culminates in the Native American Thanksgiving Ceremony at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City each November. ...On July 1, 1992, Rebecca Upham was appointed head of the Ellis School in Pittsburgh, Pa. Becky began her career in education in 1979 as a science teacher at the White Mountain School in New Hampshire. She then held multiple positions at the Branson School, near San Francisco, Calif., including that of assistant head from 1984 to 1989. In 1989, she was one of 12 independent school educators selected to receive the Klingenstein Fellowship at Teachers College, Columbia University, from which she received her master's degree in 1991. From 1990 to 1992, she was director of program implementation at Harvard-Westlake School in Los Angeles, Calif. Becky and husband William Viner have many hobbies, including rock and ice climbing, skiing, hiking, mountain biking, fly fishing, tennis, reading, conservation and travel. Becky was a member of international climbing expeditions to Greenland in 1980 and India in 1984, plus she has traveled and climbed extensively throughout the U.S. and Europe. ...Major Carol Smith Graves has a new address: 802 Matthews Ave., Aberdeen, MD 21001.

Beth Mooney married Jeffrey Longcope on February 7, 1992. Beth, who is now working in publishing, holds her M.A.T. from the Teachers' College of Columbia University. ...On that same big day, Terri Dumas, her husband, Edward Samson, and son Alexander (4) welcomed a new addition to their family, Julia Taylor. Terri plans to return to her job as marketing director of Rab Electric, where she has worked for eight years. ...Janet Jones Shipp wrote from Norwalk, Conn., to say that she celebrated Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, on "what seemed to be the coldest weekend of the year," at Middlebury. James Thompson '87 of the admissions office put together the program for the weekend, which Janet and her husband spent with Tracy Thompson-Turner, Paul Turner '78, Woody Woodson '76, Bruce Evans '76, Keith Brown '75 and Leroy Nesbitt '82. Janet wrote: "We had so much fun, Mr. Ups had to kick us out so they could close." After her weekend in Middlebury, Janet returned to her job with the commodity trading firm, Clarendon Ltd., in Stamford, where she does the back office work for traders in copper, gold and silver future markets. When not working or studying for her MBA in international business at the Univ. of Bridgeport, Janet still dances to stay in shape. She got a chance to perform in Darien in March. ...Mark NeJame has joined the Springfield, Mass., law firm of Cooley, Shrair, P.C. where he specializes in real estate matters and title examinations. Mark received his law degree from Suffolk Univ. Law School in Boston. ...Dana Yeaton is an active, successful playwright in Vermont. With 10 plays to his credit, he has twice been a finalist at the Actors' Theater of Louisville in the 10-minute play competition. He has also received grants from the Vermont Council on the Arts and a number of commissions, including To Bed With Betsy, a play commissioned by the Open Stage Theater. The play was scheduled to be performed in Yaroslavl, Burlington's sister city in Russia. Dana also wrote and performed in a one-man show, Jump Cut, which played at Wright Theater as well as in Brattleboro and Montpelier. Dana's wife, Frankie Dunleavy, teaches French at Middlebury Union High School and they have two children, James (10) and Vanessa (7). ...Anne Barney is very active in the Baltimore chapter of Resolve, a non-profit organization with over 50 chapters nationwide which provides medical information and emotional support for those who suffer infertility, the inability to conceive or the inability to carry a child to term. Anne's article on this subject was scheduled to appear in the summer issue of the Journal of Poetry Therapy. She is also leading poetry workshops and is pursuing a publishing contract for her book of poetry and prose, entitled Stolen Joy: Healing After a Neonatal Death. Anne invites inquiries about her work (117 North Beechwood Drive, Baltimore, MD 21228; 410-788-6122). ...Jennifer Cross Peterson wrote from the Middlebury Inn, where she stayed for old times' sake while on a business trip through New England. Jennifer reports that Middlebury seems a lot tamer than when we were there. ...Lucy Pugh, who holds a Ph.D. in psychology, wrote from her office at the Counseling and Psychiatric Service of Georgetown University. She says her job as a clinical psychologist is great, and she is happy not to have late nights on call. She and her husband, Michael Kellogg, have two boys, Baird (4) and Cole (1). She recently met the Chief Justice of the Sri Lankan Supreme Court—an area close to home for Sharon Flack Mussomeli! I (Sharon) planned to leave Sri Lanka in July to return to work in Washington, D.C., where my new address is 6817 Market Square Drive, McLean, VA 22101. ...Donna Brewer and John MacKenna and the three MacKenna boys spent the first week of February in Puerto Rico with Donna's mom and four brothers and their families. Donna also planned to attend her 10th law school reunion at NYU in May with John. ...Ellen Abrams Weiss and her husband, Andrew, are living in Potomac, Md., with their two children. (I hope to see them when we get back to the Washington area.) ...Jimmy Daukas has been living in San Francisco for the past three years. He is with Working Assets, which offers donation-linked services to raise money for progressive non-profit groups. Jimmy is hoping to get more people involved in grassroots politics by making it easy to call, write or send pre-written letters to their congressmen. Jimmy married Meg Royce last April. ...Marion Taylor is working as a program officer for the Colorado Trust Foundation, in charge of the families' and children's program. She has two children, Taylor (8 months) and Piper (3). Her Middlebury roommate of four years, Vicky Valar, has moved close by to Breckenridge and is building a house there. Some good ski days are planned ahead! ...Jack and Wendy Wright Marrinan have moved to Wallingford, Conn., after 10 years in California. Jack has joined the Choate-Rosemary Hall faculty, where he is teaching math. They have a daughter, Grace Ann, born August 22, 1990. ...Carol Johnson and husband Glenn have a third child, Adelaide Blair, born May 17, 1991. Lindsey is now seven and Ian is five. Jimbo is traveling quite a bit with Aircast; Carol is at home with the kids and doing some volunteer work at the local library, playing tennis, biking and generally keeping busy. ...Katie Driver Murphy wrote from Episcopal High School in Alexandria, Va., where she is teaching French and heading the girls' dorm. She is enjoying the first year of coeducation at the school. Teaching, supervising her charges in the dorm, chasing after two-year-old Daniel and keeping up with her husband, Paul, a publisher of government data on CD-ROM, keep her plenty busy. ...Laurie MacAuley Jordan and husband Gus are still students at Notre Dame. They have three children now, Lindsay (2), Kate (6) and Andrew (9). ...September 10, 1991, was a good day for. Andy '77 and Sue Whitton Goodenough, who were blessed with a third child, James Whitton. We continue to hone in on that magical 60 percent number, with the marriage

Raleigh (Emma) Mayer '82, left, and Lori Geiger '82, right, got together on May 2 for the 1992 New York Alamo Alumni Run in Central Park. They're hoping for a bigger Middlebury turnout in '93. Those with Emma and Lori are Frank Shorter, 1972 Olympic marathon gold medalist, Boston Marathon legend Bill Rodgers, Nancy Ditz, a 1988 Olympian, and Pat Porter, many-time national cross-country champion.

Colin Harrington '83 and Susie Johnson were married September 7, 1991, at the Chapel by the Sea in Newport, R.I. The names of those celebrating with them were not forthcoming, but it looks like a rock-solid group.

of Robin Putnam and Steve Ahmann on March 28. They were even married in Mead Chapel, where we all heard Olin Robison's statement (warning?) that 60 percent of Middlebury alums marry other Midd alums. Many Midd Kids made it back to the campus for the celebration and a mini-reunion, including Adrienne Harper Magida, Ellen Boyles Race, Macy Lawrence Ratliff, MJ Wagner, Madeline Hardart, Joe Devlin, Chris Axelson, Joe Kinnealey, Steve Garfield, Paul Turco, Scott Fleming and Dave McCary. The diminished "Dissipated Four" managed to put on quite a show during the reception, despite the missing members. Steve and Robin live near Seattle. After working for Schlumberger for 12 years, Scott Fleming (18 Riverview Drive, Ewing, NJ 08628; 609-530-0422) has made the big move back east—an American anomaly, to be sure. He is now working as a consultant in health care for the P.A. Consulting Group in Princeton, N.J. Steve Garfield (5 Waldron Court, 01945), who has also moved east to Marblehead, Mass., is doing advertising for Aviation Week magazine, a McGraw Hill publication. Chris Axelson has added an industrial hardware business to his fire protection and safety products business in Maine. ...Ray Miolla (3130 Bird Ave., #9, Coconut Grove, FL 33133) represents the Whopper on the West Coast and Far East for Burger King. ...Lisa and John Durham doubled the size of their family with the addition of twin boys, Tyler and Nicholas, born on January 7, 1992. ...Michael and Janet Aylward Piazza welcomed Alyssa Caroline into the family on April 21, 1992. ...Marion Reynolds has received her MFA from Queens College in NYC. It is with great sadness that we must report the death of John R. "Jody" O'Donnell on July 6, 1992. A memorial will appear in the Winter issue of the Magazine. ...Word has it that Jim Miller is back in New England and happy to be there. He's working as director of marketing and business development for Foodee's Inc., a chain of franchised pizza restaurants. It has a corner on the market for Hawaiian, Polish, Reuben and French El Greco style pizzas. (The class secretaries will be happy to taste test—we love pizza!) Jim would love to hear from old friends (RR 1, Box 2428, Andover, NH 03216, 603-934-5030). ...Also in New England is Dawn Carleton Walters. She and husband Jonathan have two sons and have been in Randolph, Mass., for at least the last three years. After graduation, Dawn continued her studies at Syracuse, where she received her master's, and then got her Ph.D. at the Univ. of Miami. ...Down in Georgia, Carlen R. Hultgren has been successful in the fashion design industry. She received a degree in fashion design at the American College for the Applied Arts in Atlanta, and in 1991 was honored with the Outstanding Achievement in Fashion Design Award. In January, she opened her own women's sportswear design studio in Atlanta, called Amethyst Designs. ...A little further south in sunny Florida, Margie Higgins Cox reports that she recently adopted her husband Dale's son, Tyler (14). Margie continues to work as a teacher and a counselor at Vero Beach Senior High. She also coaches boys' varsity soccer and girls' varsity tennis. ...Kathy Cleaver and Chris Clark '80 welcomed Nathan into the world on April 23, 1992. The family lives in Wayland, Mass. ...During the presidential campaign, keep your eyes open for Dick Porter, who is Vice President Dan Quayle's counselor for politics and policy development. ...Brad Marden has been working as an ecotoxicologist for the Wildlife Ecology Program at the EPA Environmental Research Laboratory in Oregon for the last three years. His research involves the impact of environmental contaminants on wildlife. By the time you all read this, however, Brad will be expanding his interests into the field of environmental ethics in an attempt to explore the philosophical components of environmental concerns. To this end, he will be traveling to Hong Kong, China and India. He plans to participate in scientific conferences with the Tibetan community-in-exile in Dharamsala, India. Brad also passed on news regarding Nancy Behnken. Nancy continues to work in the fishing industry three to six months each year in the tumultuous seas off Alaska. She spends the rest of the year working as a children's book illustrator. ...Well, I (Elaine King Nickerson) thought my work in the real estate world of the Boston area was pretty exciting.... Keep those cards and letters coming—we all love to read about our classmates.

Happy fall! The mail has slowed down a bit; please let us know what you're up to, so that we have more to say in each issue. The alumni office has selected Jed Smith and Michelle Dube to run our fifth reunion May 28-30, 1993 (Memorial Day Weekend). The Class of '92 finally broke our long-standing record for the Senior Class Gift (but just barely, 68 percent to our 67 percent). However, the rules were different for us! We could only accept cash, and '92's total includes pledges. The Class of '92 also has something else in common with us—their graduation was held inside. '88-ers on campus for the weekend included Anya Puri, Michelle Dube, Jim Calise, Ariane Faber, Scott Frodyma, Susan Eppes, Marni Cunningham Terhune, Chris Cahill, Larry Abandando, Todd Merry, John White, Kim Maynard, Frisk Ewing and Paul Martin. ...Just a note: Magazine deadlines mean that summer weddings won't make it into print until the Winter issue. Please be sure to get all of your information to us, though! ...Happy first anniversary and belated congrats to the following couples: Cinnie Vaughn and husband George Lawrence '89, married on September 14, 1991; Tracey Noble and husband Bill McFadden '86 (classmates attending the September 28, 1991, ceremony were Sara Poinier, Chrissy Valar, Ingrid Punderson, Josie Richmond and Blake Stoddard, who brought his son Dillon to the wedding); and Jen Gode and her husband, Scott Rodgers. The Rodgers were married on the top of Crystal Mountain Ski Area in Washington State. Living in a log cabin in Mazama, Wash., they love life in the Cascade Mountains. ...Now for a possible shocker to many: Anya Puri is leaving Middlebury College! Yes, after eight years, she has packed her bags and headed to New Jersey, where she's a college counselor at Lawrenceville. Congratulations! ...We received a note from Claire Ryan (thanks!) telling us that she is in London, working at Rykodisc, an independent record label, as assistant to the managing director of the European office. She enjoys her job very much. ...Katie Booras spent time in Geneva and London during the past year. ...Marion Brune is working for an architect in Edinburgh. ...Andrew Spencer is living in Mainz, Germany, with his wife, Anje. ...More classmates are returning to school. Alison Potts is beginning a doctoral program in experimental psychology at the University of Toronto. ...Ted Broderick is at Harvard Law School. ...Lenny Geiger is at Columbia getting his MBA. ...Jonathan Wilson and Dave Peak are starting their MBA program at Northwestern (Kellogg). ...Ellen Smith is getting her MFA at Ohio University. ... Chris and Diana Stuart Sinton are both working on Ph.D.s at Oregon State University, Diana in geography and Chris in oceanography. ...Joining the ranks of advanced degree holders are Pete Robson (MBA-Nothwestern), Kim Maynard (M.A. in psychology-Northeastern) and Shevaun Mackie Doyle (M.D.-N.Y. Medical College). ...Andy Ziarnik is working on his Ph.D. in German at the Univ. of Illinois. He spent most of last year on an exchange program in Gottingen, Germany, where he frequently ran into Jessica Lonnes (who left Vienna last winter). ...Collin Sox was back on campus last spring, doing a CC&P presentation about his two years in Nepal with the Peace Corps. He taught math, science and English for one year. In his second year he conducted science and health teacher training seminars and designed and conducted environmental living skills sessions for training new Peace Corps volunteers. He hopes to attend medical school now that he is back in the States. Best of luck, Colin, and welcome back. ...Chip Pollard completed his first year of business school at Vanderbilt Univ., and spent this past summer working for Merrill Lynch in New York City. ...Meredith Baker is working as traveling stage manager for Lucie Arnez and her husband, actor Laurence Luckenbill, while they are on tour. She is also writing and producing a documentary on Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez, not to mention going on acting auditions in her "spare time." ...Roberta Sengelmann is still a medical student at N.Y. Medical College, with one year left to go! She told us that she attended Emilie Riggs' wedding when she married Christophe Lauren in Paris last March. ...Mark Miley is working with RLI Special Risk in Hartford, Conn., as a commercial property underwriter. ...Bill Diebenow is heading up the domestic and international sales effort for Marquest, a travel organization active in designing diverse, extensive tour packages. And Phil Oldham is with a Christian Relief organization in the Far East of the former Soviet Union. ...Matt Pakos is teaching English in Japan for his second year. Nick Budnick has been reported to be somewhere in Asia. That really narrows it down. ...Deb Groves Ranicar has a new job as a legal analyst with State Mutual Insurance in Worcester, Mass. ...Steve Fossel took a month break from his job with Lehman Brothers to hunt in Africa for "anything with horns" before returning to New York City. ...Chris Hollander is working as an account coordinatior for McCann-Erickson in New York. ...Kris Herlitz is a senior litigation clerk at IBM in White Plains. ...Also in computers, Chip Hart is a support programmer for the People's Computer Company in Williston, Vt. While specializing in software for pediatricians, Chip can be reached by users of Bitnet, Internet or Usenet at "CHIP@PCC.COM". ...Promoted to senior associate with Scudder, Stevens & Clark in Boston recently was Paul Needham. ...Congratulations to David and Mary Kate Welch Barbosa on the birth of their daughter. Elizabeth Anne was born April 11, 1992. ...Out west, Clark Graninger is a trader with America Hanwa Kozai in Long Beach, Calif. John McConnell is an account executive with First California in San Francisco. Pam Adelman is covering the city as a reporter for Bay City News. ...John Watson is working in Anchorage. ...Todd Moxham is managing the Tecumseh Club in Waterville, N.H. ...Scott Calhoun has been working for the Park City ski patrol, keeping the public safe from avalanches. He reports that he only had one "good" injury all year. He says that he didn't realize how good the Snow Bowl was until he got to Utah. After one more summer back in Seattle, Scott will be heading for the University of Hawaii. He'll be there studying geology and geophysics for the next five or six years. ...Many other Midd-kids have gone back or are still in school. Katie Edwards is attending graduate school at Simmons College in Boston. Matt Ifill is continuing the work on his doctorate in history at Temple University in Philadelphia. Jon Perkins has joined Jason Merrill out in the Midwest. They are both in the Russian/Soviet studies program at the University of Kansas. Martha Withington is studying business at Cornell University. Ben Monachino is at Boston University for his third year of law school. Andy Novak returned to Harvard Law School for his final year, after spending the summer at his internship in NYC. Ted Cole is still at Harvard Divinity School. Crissy Meredith is at Columbia University's School for International Affairs. She will be joined by Erika Burk. Erika will be studying political science at Columbia after returning from a summer in Romania. Alison Bramley is studying geology at Dartmouth after spending the summer at Geneva Point Camp on Lake Winnipesaukee in New Hampshire. She was working with Diane Peterson, who was the camp director. ...While many of our classmates have returned to being students, a few are in charge of classrooms. Maura Joyce took on both roles. After spending the summer at Midd attending the Spanish School, she headed for an assignment at Monsignor Ryan High School in Dorchester, Mass. Sean Ferguson is teaching math and economics to the learning disabled in Waltham, Mass. Lisa Eder is teaching pre-schoolers in Ketchum, Idaho. Deron Chang is living in Pittsburgh while teaching both biology and chemistry at Blair Academy in neighboring New Jersey. Jon Lenicheck is keeping busy in Austin, Texas, teaching history, coaching basketball, working dorm duty and acting as assistant dean of students at St. Stephen's Episcopal School. Sarah Pribham is teaching and coaching at Champlain Valley Union High School. Steve Merrill is teaching in Burlington, Vt., at Rice High School. ...Amy Carmola and Lisa Bozarth are both living in Burlington, Vt. Lisa is working in UVM's Public Relations Department. Amy is dividing her time between being a litigation paralegal and running a school-age program at the Burlington YMCA. Also in Burlington, Trilby Sheeser is working at both the Vermont Women's Health Center and Francesca's Restaurant. ...Kathleen Tremel is an instructor with the Shelburne, Vt., Pottery Co-op at the Shelburne Craft School. Elizabeth Leeds is working as an agent for Primerica Financial Services out of Ripton. ...Sara Kendall is coordinating the recycling program in Rutland County. ...Sarah Martel is a legislative assistant for Sen. Doug Racine in Montpelier. Ad Hardin is a legislative correspondent for Bernie Sanders. Ad is one of several '90ers keeping close tabs on Washington during this election year. ...In D.C. are Steve Long and Scott DeSimon. Scott is playing in a band. Now that you know what the rest of the class is up to, let us know what you're doing!

Class Secretaries: Karmali Bhanji, Box 4202, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753; Brian Bank, 6420 Goldleaf Drive, Bethesda, MD 20817; and Sara Bremner, 225 E. 95th St., #21G, New York, NY 10128.

Well, the summer's already over and we face our second fall outside Middlebury! We hope all is still going well with everyone. Keep those notes coming! ...The big news for our class is that two more of our classmates have gotten hitched! Sohail Shaikh and Saba Ahmad were married in Pakistan in late June, and are now living in New York, which seems to be popular with 1991 alums. Stephen Quinn has settled in the Big Apple and works in publishing. He reports that Ray Strong and Andrew Resnick are also living happily in the city. Ray works for Banker's Trust, while Andrew is leading VIP's around Bloomingdale's. Andrew not only spent a day with Cindy Crawford, but rumor has it that he also was seen asking a question on the Sally Jesse Raphael show. ...Ray is not the only 1991-er to be working his tail off on Wall Street. Ayaz Haque and John Waldron work for Bear Stearns and, while neither have been seen in public for a while, they are rumored to be well! Rakshitt Chugh works in the financial world as well, spending his days as an analyst for Prudential, while Jean de Montebello works for Societe Generale, a French Bank. ...Page Dickinson is a marketing assistant for Random House. ...Leslie Kane, who was never short on words or laughs, is putting her vibrant personality to work in public relations for Rudder-Finn. ...The New York contingent also includes several Panthers pursuing higher education. Grace Garcia is at med school at SUNY-Stony Brook, while Catherine Cardwell is doing graduate work in education at Columbia. ...Just down the road, in Princeton, we find three Science Center regulars, Heather Morris, Corey Davis and Jon Snover. Cory says the New Jersey smog is very pleasant but, unfortunately, all three have not spent much time outside the labs. ...Further down the same road, we get to Baltimore, where we find three 1991-ers. Ariana Shahinfar is working as a social worker with children. According to Steve Fedele, Lucy Randolph has hosted some incredible parties at her place in Baltimore. Steve works as an astronomer (astrologer?) at Johns Hopkins space telescope center. The FBI reports that Steve's beard is MIA, but he hasn't seen a barber's chair since he left Middlebury!. ...Washington has become a real gathering place for 1991 Middies, both in government and in more honest lines of work. First, around Capitol Hill, we find Jen Pawlowski and Rich Heald, who are staffers on the House side. Also in Congress is Matt Leafstedt, who works on the Lido deck for U.S. Rep. Fred Grandy (formerly Love Boat's Gopher!). The Senate side finds Marc Parsons working for the Judiciary Committee. Also in D.C. are Beth Levison, who works for National Geographic; Nicola Bradley, who splits her time between the law firm of Covington and Burling, and Georgetown University, where she is working on a master's in Russian; Cassie Robbins, who guarantees that The Discovery Channel doesn't show The Simpsons; Brian Bank, a researcher at the Center for Strategic and International Studies; Duncan Evans, a portfolio manager in the trust department at Riggs Bank; Robin Van Orman, who works for the State Department; Cammie Graham, and several journalists: Shawn Miller, Todd Capute, and Dawn Blalock. Mickie Wait also works in the area, but her job is on a need-to-know basis! We hear that Melissa Menta, Louise Totten, Kim Roy and Sue Resnicoff, who live together in northern Virginia, have gotten into the habit of buying kegs regularly, and sometimes they even invite others over to share them! D.C. news cannot ignore Andrew Friendly, who is deeply committed to putting a Democrat in the White House at whatever cost! Andrew has been organizing rallies all over the country, and looks forward to skiing after the election in November. ...A good number of our friends, of course, can be found in the Boston area. Alex Benson lives in Brookline and works for an environmental law firm, while her roommate, Julie Cherau, is a teacher of emotionally disturbed children. We also find Skip Wiemeyer in the city of his youth. After a summer in Europe, Brent Pickett has returned to Wellesley. Mark Flaherty has been seen strolling in Harvard Yard, where he's starting his second year at Harvard Law School. Speaking of law, Eileen O'Brien is a paralegal living in the Back Bay, while Tony "Vinny" Tedesco is a freelance writer. Also in Beantown is Sairey Leone, who is still happy in the book business, serving as a marketing assistant for Houghton Mifflin. ...Bill Ware is leaving the Boston area to attend graduate school at Dartmouth, where he will study engineering. Having spent four years in the nets at Midd blocking pucks with his head, Bill is now hoping to figure out if his helmet did the job! Speaking of hockey, Tom Humphries is busy as assistant hockey coach at Middlebury. While the programs say Bill Beaney is the head coach, Beaney is actually "Humma's" assistant this year! Jamie Noll is teaching English at his alma mater, Lawrence Academy, while Dave McKenna spent last year teaching the Dutch how hard Middlebury Panthers check! ...Despite the fact that 1992-ers are on their way West, there are still many of our classmates waiting out the recession in ski country! Sue Rogers is heading back to Utah, where she spent last year working at a ski resort. Near Sue is Sarah Gandrud, who is a second-year assistant swim coach at the University of Utah. Also out west are Mike Chalmers and Bill Tobin, who spent the summer as greenskeepers on a golf course in Jackson Hole. "Oh, he got all of that one." ...Jackson Hole has also enticed Robin Folweiler and Tara Kasaks to stay, neither of whom realize that the call of the Tetons will continue to get stronger and never let them leave. ...Also experiencing the Tetons first hand is Lynelle Preston, who spent the summer as a NOLS instructor. Even further west, and farther north, is Karen Harper, who is attending the University of Alberta in Edmonton, where she is studying geography. Graduate school is keeping John Weiss in Boulder, where he has been heard asking himself, "Is a Ph.D. really worth what I'm putting myself through?" ...The class of 1991 is also spread internationally. Diana Smith is working in Hong Kong for a 24-hour, all-news radio station. So that she can relate with her pals in the States, she works the 4 a.m.-1 p.m. shift! She has traveled all over Asia, and even ran in the first ever Ho Chi Minh City Marathon! Just back from Asia is Debra Nelson who spread her good cheer in Japan where she taught businessmen and women California modesty! Jose Gangotena is in law school in Quito, Ecuador, but word has it that his teachers have yet to see him at two classes in a row. Amanda Botts is back in Jolly Olde England, but she knows that the real king and queen are not at Buckingham Palace! And finally, Jackie Belden is off to France where she will work at Euro Disney. ...The Peace Corps is the single largest employer of our classmates. Brian Nicholson is in the Ivory Coast, Jeff Collins is in Zimbabwe, and both have reported that they are loving life under the African skies. Wendy Hart and John Adams are also Peace Corps volunteers, but they haven't told us where! And this fall we say goodbye to Brian Dalton, who will be an ambassador of American culture and goodwill in Mali, if he finds out where it is! For the rest of us, Mali is also in Africa. ...California's call has been answered by quite a few 1991-ers. Briana Becker is studying law in L.A., while San Francisco is home for Marika Holmgren, Deirdre McGuire and Stephanie Blair. Buddy Liddell is studying at Stanford, while Pam Honsberger is living in San Clemente, and is in her second year at med school. Matthew Stewart is a dorm parent/math teacher at Iddylwild School. Also out west is Tracey Spruce, who is a legal assistant in Palo Alto. ...Thanks for keeping us informed, and we hope to see you all at Homecoming! Keep the news coming our way or else we'll have to make it all up, and that would be bad. Take care.

The Class of '92 surpassed every graduating class in the history of the College in raising money for their senior class gift. Gift committee members Kara Klein, Buddy Heller, Tom Kovach (co-chair), J.J. Gilmartin, Anne Schott, Dana Tiedemann, Leslie Cone (co-chair) and John Swanson celebrated the good news. Fifty-five class agents and volunteers tallied a total number of 350 gifts averaging $16, reaching a participation total of 68 percent. The trustees of the College are matching their dollar total, which will make $11,400 available to renovate the Worth Mountain Trail Shelter.

Editor's note: With this issue, we've instituted a new format for alumni obituaries. Individual obituaries will be shorter, listing only a specific set of facts about the deceased. In many cases, further information will be included in the appropriate class notes column.

ARNOLD B. SWIFT, 93, of Rochester, N.Y., on May 30, 1992. He was born in West Falmouth, Mass., and prepared for college at Lawrence High School in Falmouth. At Middlebury, Arnold was an English major and a member of Delta Upsilon. In addition to his A.B. in 1922, he received an honorary A.M. in 1939. Arnold spent several summers at Bread Loaf, as a student and later as manager of the Bread Loaf Inn when it was run as an inn with paying guests. Characterized as "preeminent" among managers of Bread Loaf and as a "hard-headed manager," Arnold told many Bread Loaf stories through the years, always with his special brand of wit. Arnold's entire 41-year career in education was with the Rochester Public Schools. He began teaching at East High school in 1922 and continued until 1929 when he became principal of East High Annex. Arnold was responsible for several "East High boys" matriculating at Middlebury, including Lynn Callin '32, Ron Allen '30, Gordie Ide '33 and Paul Reed '29. During the 1930s and early 1940s, he was an elementary school principal and later principal at Jefferson High School. From 1945 to 1950 he was responsible for the Jefferson Veterans Unit which provided a high school education for 2,000 returning World War II veterans. Arnold became coordinator of secondary school administration in 1954 and assistant superintendent of schools for administration in 1956. In that position he served under Howard "Cy" Seymour '27, then superintendent of schools. Arnold was active in the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the National Education Association, the State Association of Secondary School Principals and the Rochester Teacher Association. He retired from the school system in 1963 and was described at that time in the Rochester Times Union as a "dapper man, never without a flower in his buttonhole." He was an avid gardener even after surgery for two artificial knees. Arnold's last years were spent quietly in a retirement home, but he kept his characteristic wit and style to the end. He was married to Katherine Barber who predeceased him. He is survived by his daughter, Barbara Grant, and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Chamberlin worked for 33 years in the Waterville, Maine, Post Office, after which he and his wife, Pauline, summered at Ocean Point in East Boothbay, Maine, and spent winters at Zephyrhill, Fla. A 50-year member of Waterville Masonic Lodge, he was the founder of Cub Scout Pack #136 in Waterville and was also active in Troop #136, Boy Scouts. In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Nancy Fitton; two sons, Richard and Arthur; 12 grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

BLANCHE E. EMORY, 84, of New London, N.H., on May 4, 1992, after a long illness. A Registered Occupational Therapist, Miss Emory had been employed by Ypsilanti State Hospital in Michigan and Queen's Hospital in Honolulu, Hawaii. She was also office manager, secretary and bookkeeper in the office of Dr. Eleanor M. Gillespie in Sturgis, Mich., retiring in 1976. She is survived by her longtime friend and companion, Eleanor Gillespie; three nephews, including Burton Emory '56 and Richard Emory '58; and a cousin, Susan McGraw Hollis '62.

1932

ANNA POPE ANTONIEWICZ, 81, of Springfield, Vt., on April 23, 1992, following a brief illness. Mrs. Antoniewicz was librarian at the Springfield Town Library for many years and was later librarian at Springfield High School until her retirement in 1975. Her husband of 46 years, Romeo, died in 1988. Mrs. Antoniewicz spent winters in Port Charlotte, Fla., and summers at Lake Bomoseen in Vermont. She was predeceased by two sisters and is survived by three nephews.

1932

RUTH F. HATCH HOSFORD, 81, of Amherst, Mass., on March 26, 1992. In 1933, she received a master's degree in English from the Univ. of Massachusetts and was married to Robert Stanley Hosford, who died in 1968. Survivors include a son, David; a daughter, Ellen Stacy; two sisters and four grandchildren.

1934

CLARA MAY HEMENWAY, 79, of Rutland, Vt., on April 19, 1992, after a long illness. A 1930 graduate of Burr and Burton High School in Manchester, Vt., she later taught there for many years and then operated the Wailiilii Angoras Rabbit Farm and Shop. Active in Manchester politics, she served as town clerk from 1960 to 1979. Survivors include a sister, Anna Payne, of N. Fort Meyers, Fla., and several nieces and nephews.
— Ruth Ells Crane '34

The pursuit of excellence

Middlebury's pursuit of excellence has long included a dynamic and successful program in men's and women's intercollegiate athletics. In recent years, Middlebury's athletic teams have been particularly strong, with teams and individual athletes winning regional and even national championships. To help the College in its continuing quest to combine athletic and academic success, we hope you will let us know about outstanding scholar-athletes in your community — young people who are accomplished in one or more sports, and eager to take on the challenge of a demanding academic program. If you are aware of such students, please fill out the form below and send it to me at the Memorial Field House, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753. Thanks in advance for your help.
